NOTICE OF SPECIAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING OF THE PEOPLE'S EQUITABLE CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT a special meeting of the stockholders of the People's Equitable Co-operative Association will be held at the office of the association, on Wednesday, the 19th day of December, A. D. 1894, at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing a board of directors to serve for the ensuing year, and such other business as may come before the meeting. The board of directors shall consist of thirteen members, who shall be stockholders in said association, and shall elect from their number a president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer, and such other officers as may be deemed necessary, but neither secretary nor treasurer need hold the office of director. By ordering not the least "money" on the side, and not a single vote and action of stockholders, and knowing (which I know) the work "you" have done, and what you have to do, I remain as follows: "The board of directors shall consist of five members, by which the corporate power shall be exercised. The president and vice president of the board of directors shall be ex-officio president and vice president of the corporation. The office of secretary and treasurer may be held by the same person, but neither secretary nor treasurer need hold the office of director. No ordinance or by-law shall be passed, and no resolution or motion shall be put or carried, except by the assent of a majority of the directors present, and no amendment of the corporation. The office of secretary and treasurer may be held by the same person, but neither secretary nor treasurer need hold the office of director."

The meeting is called in pursuance of section 1959 of the Compiled Laws of Utah Territory of the year 1888, and of article III of articles of said incorporation.

Dated this 8th day of November, 1894.

ANDREW J. CAMPBELL,
President of the People's Equitable Co-operative Association.

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Monday, - December 3, 1894.

THE CHILD'S STORY.

Little Carrie Hansen a Witness in the "Tribune" Libel Suit.

A STRING OF CONTRADICTIONS.

She Denies that the Fenstermakers Ill-treated Her, But Admits She Has Lied.

The further hearing of the $50,000 damage suit for libel brought by Amos Fenstermaker against the Salt Lake Tribune took place before Judge Hatch and a jury this morning, the most interesting feature of the forenoon proceedings being the examination and cross-examination of the child Caroline Hansen, who may be styled a remarkable witness, as her testimony, the substance of which is reported below, will show.

After the NEWS went to press on Saturday afternoon, Hansen J. Hogelund, father of the little girl known as "Caroline Hansen," was called to the witness-stand. He is an expressman and resides in this city. The child was brought from Lemmats where she was seven years old, and he cared for her until he married. While she was with him, he said, she ran away several times.

Amos Fenstermaker, a Mexican war pensioner, testified that he had treated Carrie more kindly than he did his own children, and that his wife had also been kind to her. The child, he said, had queer ways and was flighty at times, and was inclined to run away without reason. Fenstermaker also said he had known Mr. Lannan twenty-five or thirty years, ago and that he had said a "little space" with him in the Tribune office several years ago when he had called to complain because he had not received the paper regularly, and that Mr. Lannan had threatened to call a policeman. (It was stated that this story was entirely false, so much interview having never taken place.)

When court convened this morning little Caroline Hansen went upon the witness-stand. In answer to Attorney Zane, she admitted having run away while living with her father and also while with the Redmons. Asked why she did it for, she answered, "Nobody knows, and I don't know." Asked if she had been ill-treated by the Fenstermakers, she said she had not. Asked if she had not said to Mrs. Redmon that Mrs. Fenstermaker had whipped her twice only while she lived at the ranch, and that was with a little switch. She denied that the old lady whipped her very severely on one occasion and that she told Ethel Redmon she intended to run away. Notwithstanding these and other similar words had been spoken to her by the Fenstermakers on that day, she made up her mind all at once when Mrs. Fenstermaker told her to "change her apron"—and did not then mean to go back again. This was "just because she wanted to." She admitted having written from Mrs. Fenstermaker's—(words she now spoke as grandmother)—at other times, in various places—at her "nothing"! When she left the Fenstermaker ranch, she further stated, she had firmly made up her mind that she would not return there, and would not have done so had they not come after her, although they had all been so kind to her! She had no talk with Mr. Gibson.

Counsel proved the witness on this last point and she then contradicted herself entirely, admitting that Gibson asked her a number of questions and that she answered them.

Asked why she had made a different statement to this before, she said she "forgot." There was another reason why she presented in her hair, she declared, when seen by Gibson.

Judge Powers eventually elicited from Caroline that she did tell Gibson she had been ill-treated, driven from the house by the Fenstermakers, and other things testified to by Gibson when on the witness-stand.

The examination was eventually drawn from her that she had now lied upon the stand. Asked why, she said, "Because I wanted to!" She had lied untruthfully to the witness Gibson "because she wanted to." Caroline further admitted that once at the Tribune office, when she went there to get a witness for, she told Mr. Lannan that Mrs. Fenstermaker had whipped her, and that because of this she ran away.

Ethel Redmon, another little girl, who resided with the Fenstermakers in and after 1891, was called, in rebuttal, by the defense. She testified that she had seen Mrs. Fenstermaker whip Caroline Hansen a good many times "with anything she could get hold of," and that Carrie had declared to Witness her intention to run away in consequence. Witness had also been struck by Mrs. Fenstermaker with a broomstick and other things.

In cross-examination by Attorney Zane the witness said that when Caroline ran away in April, 1891, none of the Fenstermakers went out to search for her.

"SMOOTH FACED CHARLIE"

Got His Bogus Dollars Back Today and Will Leave Salt Lake Tomorrow.

Charles Steele, better known as "Smooth Faced Charlie," who was so prominently connected with the recent low and narrow humbug affair, is about to shake the dust of this region from his ample feet and bite himself to El Paso, Texas.

Steele has been in this city for the last five years. He came here from Denver and has been recognized by the police as the slickest confidence operator that ever did business in Salt Lake. He has been arrested many times during his residence here and has proved himself so adept at shifting from beneath the offense the responsibility for which had been placed on his shoulders.

This morning he made his first appearance at the police station since his release from the penitentiary, where he was confined for four months awaiting the action of the grand jury for having counterfeit coin in his possession. The coin received consisted of two silver dollars made especially for "throwing up." One of these had a "mash" on each side while the other was emblazoned with two "aces." Thus the possessor would always be certain to come out the victor in a game of "heads I win and tails you lose," or vice versa.

The grand jury ignored the charge and today Steele had his money returned to him on order of assistant district attorney Howat, whom it appears has taken the position that the coin is not counterfeit.

THE DISTRICT COURT TODAY

A Verdict in Favor of the Defendant in the Barlels-Brain suit.

An Action for Damages Against the City at Attorneys Before Judge Merrill.

Chief Justice Merrill held court for about an hour this morning, transacted the business reported below and then adjourned till 2 p.m.

VERDICT IN THE BRAIN CASE.

In the case of O. C. Barlels vs Annie Peters Brain, administratrix of the estate of Edward Brain, for beating of which had occupied several days, the jury this morning, after a brief deliberation, found unanimously for the defendant. Counsel for the plaintiff reserved their right to enter exceptions to the judge's charge herewith.

GENERAL MATTERS.

The case of the Attwood estate vs R. C. Attwood was by consent of counsel passed to the foot of the calendar.

Matthew Gibbs vs the Twenty-fourth school district. Exception of the defendants entered to the previous order of court overlying the motion to remove.

Constantine Williamson vs the Utah Central Railway company. Order entered continuing this case for the term, by consent.

Samuel Lobbard vs William Carroll. Continued for the term, by consent.

ACTION AGAINST THE CITY.

Wm. M. Burns vs Wm. A. Standen and Salt Lake City. This case was called up for trial and a jury having been empanelled the hearing went over until this afternoon, some of the witnesses not being present.

Attorney S. H. Lewis represents the plaintiff and Judge Hogg the defendants.

The action is brought to recover $2,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff by reason of the defendants having unlawfully entered and demolished a certain building used as a stable, situate on First East street, between Second and Third South.

Visit to the "Pen."

A committee of the grand jury paid a visit of inspection to the penitentiary today, accompanied on the trip by U. S. Marshal Brigham. Their labors in the jury-room are now drawing to a close.

Criminal Calendar.

Criminal business will begin in Judge Hatch's court tomorrow if the Fenstermaker-Tribune libel suit can be disposed of by that time—which seems to be extremely doubtful.

Discharged From Custody.

In the case of Abraham Rosenstein, who was arrested and taken before Commissioner Greenman on Saturday (as stated in that day's NEWS) on a charge of failing to support his family, it appears that Rosenstein had been an invalid. The testimony was conflicting as to his ability to provide for his wife and children, and he was discharged. The defendant is a Russian.

WHERE IS HARRY ARMITAGE?

"An Anxious Wife" Writes to Chief Pratt for Information Concerning Him.

Mrs. Harry Armitage, subscribing herself as "an anxious wife," has written to Chief of Police Pratt from No. 259 Forty-second street, Chicago, under date of November 26th, as follows:

"Please inform me if there was a Harry Armitage in Salt Lake City sometime between '72 and '78. I think he was working on a newspaper, he perhaps engaged in other business also. And during the same time was there a man by the name of David H. Tennant? Since my husband is inheriting from an Uncle I learned he used those two names."

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - Dec. 3, 1894.

M. I. A. Conference.

The semi-annual M. I. A. conference held here Saturday and Sunday was well attended, and a most enjoyable and profitable time was had.

Saturday was mainly devoted to meetings of the officers, and the Y. L. M. I. held a meeting in the afternoon.

In the evening a concert was given in the tabernacle, under the direction of Professor D. E. Giles. The subscription concerts were mainly patronized and well sung. A large audience enjoyed the musical festival.

Sunday sessions there were present in addition to the stake Presidency, and the stake officers of the M. I. A., President Joseph F. Smith, Elders Rudger J. Grant, Junius F. Wells, H. W. Naisbitt, K. G. Maeser and others interested in the education and progress of the young people.

The first speaker was Elder George A. Brimhall. He spoke of the object of the M. I. A. being the cultivation of the minds of the members, and urged the necessity of leading the growing minds in such a direction that good may result from its development, showing that if the mind is not guided aright in its growth, evil consequences will follow. The work of the M. I. A. would be made more efficient if increased financial aid could be obtained with which to purchase books, etc., and he hoped sufficient interest would be awakened among the people to cause them to contribute to the success of the association in this manner.

Elder Junius F. Wells contrasted the institutions with which he had become acquainted in the world, having for their object the intellectual advancement of their members, with the M. I. A. The feature that especially characterized the M. I. A. was the desire to learn the will of our Heavenly Father. The religious sentiment and spirit which should pervade the M. I. A. and the spirit of testimony among its members was the life of the association and should be kept constantly in view.

Elder H. J. Grant, of the Council of Apostles, spoke mainly upon the necessity of being influenced by the spirit of God in all conditions of life, something more than the cultivation of the mind was necessary in the perfect development of our young people, and the cultivation of the spirit of the Gospel should have a prominent place in all our educational institutions. The fact that the tabernacle in which he spoke was mortgaged showed a lack of this spirit among the people of the State. It they expected to maintain this as a center of education they must also maintain it as a center of the spirit of the Gospel. The speaker then referred to the large amounts of money expended by the Latter-day Saints to attain the end of which were intuitive ideas in the Word of Wisdom. One and a half million of dollars was spent annually in the Territory for tea, coffee and tobacco. It would take 100,000 bushels of wheat to pay for one crop of tobacco alone consumed in the Territory. It was shown that beneficial results would follow if this amount of money usefully expended was diverted to educational and manufacturing channels. He had been blamed for reducing the meaning of the Word of Wisdom to a question of dollars and cents, but at the time the authorities of the Church had been led to take steps for the temporal salvation of the people, and if the people refrained from wasting large sums of money annually upon articles prohibited by the Word of Wisdom it would greatly aid to accomplishing this temporal salvation.

In the afternoon meeting Elder Grant occupied a short time on educational matters.

President Joseph F. Smith spoke upon temperance of the women, and the Word of Wisdom. He also endorsed the remarks of Elder Grant and advocated an education that would develop the physical, spiritual and intellectual man, and mentioned the tendency to find fault with the authorities of the Church and with brethren and sisters.

In the evening an interesting and instructive lecture was given by Elder H. W. Naisbitt. His subject was educational in its nature, and embraced a wide range of topics, all tending to the development of the young into the highest types of manhood and womanhood.
