NEWS OF THE WEST.

Pluck and Endurance Exhibited by Modest Wyoming Girls.

A CHILD SMOKINGLY BURNED.

A Nervy Boy of Ten Years—A Sodomy Trapped by His Victim—Hagged and Robbed.

Garfield county, it is reported, has over 12,000 acres in cultivation this year, and about 2000 acres have been reclaimed from the desert through irrigation.

Three hundred feet of the Wolfer dam, near Gila Bend, Arizona, has been swept away by an unexpected rise in the Gila river.

The chamber of commerce of San Diego, Cal., has terminated a protest against the mail contract with the North American Navigation company, whereby that city is not made a port of call.

Joseph White, of Morenci, was crushed down from the mountains east of Mount Fremont last week on horseback, the animal stumbled and fell, throwing Mr. White violently to the ground and enclosing his right ankle.

Quite a number of cases of typhoid fever are reported in Dulce city, Mexico, principally among the children. The sickness is attributed principally to the impurity of the water, the water being filthy condition of the irrigating ditches which traverse the streets.

This week work will begin upon the survey of the line between Garfield and Eagle counties. The work will involve a large amount of mountain climbing and will be carried on at an altitude of 11,000 to 12,000 feet. It is estimated that the line is forty miles long.

A story is told of a hunter named Parker, who is said to have made thousands of dollars killing coyotes in Lower California and turning in the scalps for the state bounty at San Diego. It is said Parker daily sold the scalps, thus making each animal killed bring him in $10.

The young lady Florence Bailey, who was betrayed by Thomas Welch, a druggist, Portland, Oregon, under promise of marriage in 1885, has recovered damages of $25,000. After her child was born Welch left the country, but returned some months since and was subpoenaed to court by his victim and her seventeen-year-old son.

The inquest over the body of Clara Mathews, whose shocking fate has been already recorded in these columns, the jury, at San Francisco, found that death was caused by a criminal operation, for which Gray and Von Werthen were responsible. The jury exonerated Dr. Dressel. The coroner spoke below the verdict that he could not approve the exoneration of Dr. Driesell.

The two-year-old child of Tarvel Larsen, of Logan, drank a considerable quantity of lye and burnt its mouth and throat terribly, says the Logan Nation. One of the girls had been doing some cleaning and put the lye on the floor. The little one crawled over to it and drank squantity while no one was around. Dr. Shaw was summoned and did all that could be done to relieve the suffering of the little one. At last accounts the child was resting somewhat easy and there is hope of its recovery.

As W. W. Naylor, manager of a ranch a mile from Bene, Nevada, opened the door of his house on his return from town, he was struck a heavy blow on the head with a pick handle. His assailant was joined by another robber, who gagged him, while the first one robbed him of a gold watch, the only valuable he had. The two went through the house taking a number of articles of clothing. They threatened to return and kill Naylor if he informed before two days. No trace of the men has yet been found.

George Reinhart, who attempted to murder a young lady named Burke at Williamina, Oregon, last week, was found in a stacke underneath a pile of hay and blows with his throat cut from ear to ear. Reinhart had attempted to murder the girl while she slept, but as the cold steel of the razor passed over her throat she awoke, and throwing up her hands received a painful cut across the fingers. Reinhart made his escape through a window to the barn, where he used the same weapon upon himself. It is thought he may recover.

Julia Boehmer and Matthew Boehmer have been residents of Alameda, Cal., for many years. On Friday they were mingling in the superior court over a divorce. The wife, who is an old lady, says that her husband struck her and called her names. The couple have eleven children, nine of whom were present in court and took part in the case. The children were about evenly divided, some taking the side of the father and others clinging to the mother. There were children of all sizes present. As Mr. Boehmer has little property and does not have a large salary he finds litigation quite a luxury.

The ten-year-old son of Joseph Medley, who lives forty miles north of Fresno, Cal., among the hills, was sent to the pacoffice on a wild horse. The animal threw him against a tree, and a charging cow from a nearby herd penetrated his breast eight inches, breaking two ribs loose from the breastbone. The boy drew out the cow and walked half a mile to the nearest house, where he fell exhausted from loss of blood. A doctor, after examination, says that the wound will not necessarily prove fatal, but it is dangerous, and only for the strong will power of the boy he would have succumbed to the injury.

A sensation that came near being a tragedy occurred at Beatrice, Nebraska, on Friday afternoon. It was the attempted suicide of Miss Flora Cross, a good looking young woman, who has quarreled with her lover, Harry Bennett, a member of a well-known family. Pretending that she wanted the drug to alleviate a toothache, Flora purchased half an ounce of laudanum, half of which she swallowed in her room at a boarding house, where she was discovered quite ill. Her lover, who was accompanied by a physician in bringing her back to life, a result which studied a protest from her.

Newcomers from Mountain Home, Idaho, that a few days ago a Chinaman was held up by two men and robbed of $200. The highwaymen were recognized and arrested, their names being Clark and Shirley. Shirley was released for the reason that he seemed cold and identify Clark as being the man who had robbed the Chinaman. The Chinaman then swore that the man who had robbed him was not Clark but Shirley. The Chinaman was able to recover $40 of his money. Clark and Shirley were held to have bonds.

A correspondent of the Cheyenne Leader writes concerning Wyoming sweetness and in a long letter, what seeing of their accomplishment in the stable, makes one of the fair sex feeling homesick as not the only outdoor work done by Wyoming women. A mine of eighteen miles the coal from Tertington to Saving and back twice a week. The distance is forty five miles, which the drivers carry in a day including stops at offices, and often in eight hours. One hundred and eighty miles is her distance for the week. The young lady, she eighteen, who drives the stage from Fort Laramie to Hahns and returns six days in the week covers forty-four miles each day or 264 miles a week. There is Mrs. Ayers, who for her relief takes the responsibility which is unmentionable, not excepting only a passenger is carried. A lady journeys the line to Nebraska is also the stage for her husband, the regular driver, is sick. The girl-conductor has seen women giving gymnastics, stacking hay, etc., but a lady on horseback has a sketch which was never touched by machine showed the gaunt, but little ugly driving the team. Mr. Ayers, contrary, conveyed and it gave it. There are to be twenty-five pound cabbages, corn eight feet high and a variety of vegetables and flowers. "Why shouldn't we Wyoming women do anything we like?" she queried. "We have equal rights with the men."
