GREAT BATTLE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Joe Walcott and Joe Gans Will Meet at San Francisco, California.

A 'SQUARE" BOUT PROMISED.

Both Men Are Masters at the "Business"—What Wally Young Says About It.

Next Friday night at San Francisco two black fighters, Joe Walcott and Joe Gans, will meet in the roped arena and exchange wallops until one or the other is in dreamland. The fight is attracting a great deal of attention throughout all pugdom, and the opinion prevails that the mill will be absolutely on the square. Here is what "Wally" Young says about it:

So far as any man not versed in Ethiopian psychology can determine, the battle between Joe Gans and Joe Walcott should be as free from taint of suspicion as any contest ever waged on padded floor. The two champions are scheduled to step into the same ring next Friday night, and, unless human nature under a dark covering is far more frail than I think it is, each will wade in with all his skill and strength to win. Recent events point so strongly to absolute honesty in the match that none but the chronic variety of "knockers" should fail to be convinced.

For six tense and bitter hours on Friday, Al Herford and Billy Pierce, managers of the black men ,fought and quibbled and hurled threats at each other and at the San Francisco Athletic club, which has already expended in the neighborhood of $700 in preparation for the mill. And for what? Because Al Herford wanted Pierce to send Walcott through the ropes at 140 pounds ringside, instead of 142 pounds, the weight originally agreed upon. The fact that no articles had been signed and no forfeits posted led the Baltimorean to believe that he had the club and Pierce "on the hip." Before the end of the fierce battle, enough verbiage had been lavished on the air to stock a stack of dictionaries and the match had been called off twice by the manager of the club, Alex Greggains.

This fierce contesting of a point that meant ultimately simply the relinquishment of a pound by Walcott, has, I think, its significance. Privately, Herford is certain that his boy Gans will win without much trouble; in "tete a tete" conversation, Billy Pierce has the same feeling regarding the "Barbadoes Demon," Walcott. Herford is at all times a close matchmaker, ready to pounce upon any point that may gain him a slight advantage; Pierce is also a good guardian of his fighter's interests, but willing to come half way when a compromise is necessary. If the "scrap" these two astute directors had on fishday is not an indication that both are out to win and will battle to a bitter finish, then the signs have al gone wrong and the land of "Topsy-Turvy" is a well-regulated community compared to this peninsular battle ground.

None but those who were present at the matinee and at the evening performance can realize just how bitter the argument became and how intensely in earnest each manager was over any point that might aid his biffer when the date of conflict arrived.

"If you hold out in your demands and spoil this fight," said Pierce to Herford, at one stage of it, "I'll post you throughout the country as a quitter and as a man who does not respect any contracts. The sparkle on your finger and your roll with the rubber band around it don't impress me. That's simply a front. I have some power, I think, and before I am through I will 'get you!'"

That is simply a sample. There were other things—many and many of them—and they all pointed to the belief that anything savoring of collusion between these two men is an impossibility.

The question of referee is one which is important both to the fighters and to the public. Pierce has repeatedly stated since his arrival in San Francisco that he will insist on an honest man for referee and that the referee will be instructed to call off the fight at any time that it looks to be otherwise than "on the square." Herford wants Jack Welch; Pierce would prefer to leave the choice to the sporting editors of the city papers, if for nothing but public confidence. Welch was the man named in the articles originally drawn for the Gans-Gardner fight that failed to materialize, and Herford favors him largely because he wants to adhere to those articles. If Welch is the third man in the ring there should be cause for nothing but a feeling of safety on the part of the public. His record is clean and he knows the game as well as any other referee. So it seems that either the selection of Welch or the solution of the problem advanced by Pierce ought to be satisfactory to the public.

The new weight for Walcott is not going to trouble that cheerful brunette out of any sleep. Those who have watched him work off the flesh say that he could make 138 pounds if necessary, and will be at good fighting weight at 141 pounds ringside. Gans at present is said to tip the scales in the near neighborhood of 138 pounds and will enter the ring at about that figure.

Just what the betting will be no one at present is able to state, but it is certain that no wagering will get far away from evens. Gans will likely be the favorite owing to the fact that many close students of the game figure that he can stay twenty rounds and earn the decision.

THE FATHER OF BOXING.

It Was John Broughton Who First Saw The Light of Day in 1704.

John Broughton may be called the father of boxing, having been born in 1704, and before he reached manhood and established a boxing booth on Tottenham Court Road, in London, the sport was scarcely known.

Of course, in ancient Greece there was a game of extremely brutal character, in which the contestants pounded one another with iron disks until one was rendered insensible or killed, generally the latter; but this has no relation whatever to modern boxing in any way. Combats with weapons, swords, javelins and the like were the popular things in all ages and continued so in England until about the time of George I, when the sword combats began to fall into disfavor as a sport, and while the populace was still chasing strange gods in the hope of finding another pastime to fill its place, John Broughton was born and grew to manhood. It may be that fights of some kind between unarmed men may have been held before he appeared on the scene, but it wasn't until he formulated a set of rules that modern boxing was given the right to call its existence begun.

This occurred in 1743, and in them for the first time was a rest permitted between short intervals of fighting in order that the contestants could become more or less recuperated. Broughton continued to maintain his boxing booth in London for many years, and he was the first man who ever called himself the champion boxer of England.

In 1750, however, he met his Waterloo, in an encounter with a butcher named Slack, a man who had never entered a boxing ring before, but who landed one blow on Broughton's eyes that temporarily blinded him, and the fight, therefore, ended at the expiration of 14 minutes. Broughton was never able to win back his lost laurels an dlived for 29 years in complete obscurity before he died, though not in poverty, for during the days of his championship he had enjoyed the favor of the Duke of Cumberland and others of royal and noble blood, and through their patronage had amassed a snug fortune.

"KID" M'COY VICTORIOUS.

In Fierce Twenty Round Fight He Defeated "Twin" Sullivan.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—"Kid" McCoy was given the decision over Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston at the end of twenty rounds at the pavilion tonight. The fight was a fierce one from the start, both men taking advantage of every rule that was short of actual fouling. McCoy punishing Sullivan severely, having his nose and mouth bleeding in every round after the fifth. Barring the unfair tactics of the men, which did no damage, the fight was a good one. Sullivan appeared to be in the better condition, and although he was groggy at the end of several rounds ,and down for the count in the twelfth, he recuperated quickly and came back in each successive round strong. McCoy tired after the twelfth, but was so much the better ring general and boxer that he was able to take it easy whenever he chose.

In the twelfth, which was the hardest round, McCoy hammered Sullivan on the face and body until the Boston man went down and took the count of nine. He managed to get to his feet just as the gong rang, which probably saved him from a knockout. McCoy showed al his old cleverness and generalship, but did not appear to have the punch that has won him many battles. Although he landed his right many times on Sullivan's jaw and body, he failed to put him down more than once ,although staggering him half a dozen times. The fight drew the biggest and highest priced house of any fight ever given in Los Angeles. Every seat and all the standing room had been sold before the opening tonight.

Charles Eyton refereed the fight, and his decision in favor of McCoy was satisfactory to everybody.

'VARSITY AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Clashed in an Interesting Practise Game Yesterday Afternoon.

About 200 enthusiastic gridiron devotees had a chance yesterday afternoon to see Salt Lake's foremost football teams in earnest practise work. On Cumming's field there was a determined struggle between the U. of U. team and the High School eleven, and to say that the coaches, Maddock and Callahan, were pleased with the showing made by each team, is but hal fstating their feelings.

Although the High School team was outclassed in weight and strength it was not beaten for gameness and determination. The smaller boys fought stubbornly, and made many long gains by bucking 'Varsity's line. The east benchers, of course, were victorious but not without a hard fight. Bennion, Wade, Russell, Davis and Peterson showed their old-time dash and vim, and with each succeeding play, the team improved as a team and individually.

For the High School Roberts, Harris, Richmon, Hennessy, Judson and Groesbeck did the best work. It was an excellent practise game for both teams and one or two more of the kind will put the 'Varsity boys in fine shape for their coming struggle with the Boulder team.

ON THE RACE TRACK.

Stalwart Easily Won the Hindoo Stakes Worth Purse of $15,000.

New York, Sept. 27.—Stalwart, favorite in the betting at 9 to 10, easily won the $15,000 Hindoo stakes for 3-year-olds, distance about one and three-quarter miles, at Gravesend today. Broomstick, at 13 to 10 for the place, was second, and Ormondes Right third. They were off to a good start. St. Valentine was first to show, with Broomstick second and Ormondes Right third. Passing the stand the first time, St. Valentine was leading by a length from Ormondes Right, who was a head in front of Broomstick.

Stalwart was last under a stiff pull around the turn, and into the back stretch the field raced with positions almost the same. Rounding the far turn Burns sent Broomstick into the lead. Redfern at the turn made his move with Stalwart and three-eighths of a mile from the finish was on even terms with Broomstick. From the head of the stretch to the wire it was only a question of how far Redfern cared to win by. Results:

First race, selling, about six furlongs—Right and True won, Old England second, Counterpoise third. Time—1:10 4-5.

Second race, about six furlongs—Czaraphine won, Derry second, Glen Echo third. Time—1:11.

AFTER CATCHER SWINDELLS.

Butte's Backstop Drafted by St. Loui National Team.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27.—The National baseball commission, consisting of August Hermann, president of the commission; President Johnson of the American league, President Pulliam of the National league, met here today and passed on contested and disputed cases in the drafting list.

Secretary Bruce was directed to notify President Bert of the Pacific National league that the money was due the New York American league club under the Newton decision or that the player will be ineligible.

The commission refused to consider the $95 claimed by Hulseman from Spokane.

A request was received from the Pacific Coast league that the drafting period for players in that league should not commence until Dec. 1. The secretary was directed to reply that the commission had no power to change the national agreement, but that it favored the proposition and would submit the same to the joint annual meeting in January.

The draft by Cincinnati (National) of Whalen from San Francisco was not allowed.

Of contested cases in the respective reserve lists the following drafts were allowed:

By Cleveland (American), Kahl from Colorado Springs; by St. Louis (National), Swindells from Butte; by Chicago (Nationals), Whalen from San Francisco.

A number of cases were held over for further evidence, and the commission adjourned subject to the call of President Hermann.

"PENNY" GOSSIP.

It is a tight race between Boston and New York in the American league. The beaneaters lead by only one point.

"Kid" McCoy certainly handed out a surprise last night by defeating "Twin" (Jack) Sullivan after 20 rounds of fierce fighting. Although he lacks the punch, he demonstrated that he is still capable of making a hard fight, and if he will refrain from chalenging Jeffries, everything will be lovely.

The U. of U. football team is rapidly rounding into excellent shape under the direction of Coach Joe Maddock, and by Saturday, when the team plays the Boulder eleven, the boys should be in condition to put up a hard fight. The Boulder team is said to be a strong one, however, and the east benchers will have to go some.

W. F. Winchester started from the Chicago Automobile clubhouse in Michigan avenue at 2 o'clock this morning in an attempt to break the 72-hour record to New York city. The Chicago-New York record is now held by Jerry Ellis in 73 hours.

Presparations are already being made by members of the New York Yacht club for the defense of the America's cup against a possible fourth challenge from Sir Thomas Lipton. Members of the club think that a challenge may be expected by any mail and that as in former years it will come from the Royal Ulster Yacht club. Sir Thomas has not yet announced that he has made the necessary arrangements with a designer, but club members believe that a chalelnge is sure to come, and are only waiting to find out what conditions are named before going actively to work to build the defender.

It is the opinion among the members of the yacht club that when the challenge comes it will ask for a race under the same conditons that governed the last one.

According to the ded of gift no race can be sailed later than Nov. 1, and ten months' notice must be given when the chalenge is made. A challenge received by Dec. 1 would make the date for the first race Octo. 1.

UTAH WHEAT CROP.

Increase of Probably 50 Per Cent Over Last Year—Best Since 1898.

Dun's Review for Sept. 24 gives the following resume of the Utah wheat crop: The wheat crop is the best since 1898, both in quantity and quality, with Utah showing an increase of probably 50 per cent over last year, and Idaho 10 to 15 per cent. The crop is moving out rapidly at quite favorable prices. The first hay crop was very good, with some falling off in the second crop, with probably a total output slightly in excess of last year, and prices slightly lower. The harvest of alfalfa seed is just commencing, with indications of an increase over last year of about 10 per cent, although the quality is not so good, the seed having been damaged in some localities by slight frost in August. Cutting of sugar beets is just commencing, with every indication of a largely increased yield throughout the district.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scale the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Dear Sir: Jan. 11th, 1904

Ever since I was in the army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it become so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers I am,"

Very truly yours,

BARBECUE AT SALT PALACE.

Young Men's Democratic Club Entertains a Large and Appreciative Crowd.

RATIFICATION IN THE EVENING.

Local and National Issues Discussed By David Evans and Judge McLaughlin of California.

The barbecue at the Salt Palace yesterday afternoon and night attracted a large crowd, and the way the beef sandwiches disappeared was indeed a caution. From 3 o'clock in the afternoon till a few minutes before midnight, the caterers were kept busy feeding the multitude and all who were thus favored smacked their lips and pronounced it good.

A prominent feature of the barbecue was the ratification meeting held in the Salt Palace theater. The meeting began at 8:30 and the hall was well filled when George E. Blair rapped for order. Seated on the stage were Mr. Blair, chairman of the entertainment committee, Judge R. N. Baskin, John Dern, J. H. Haslam, J. S. Bransford, David Evans and Judge McLaughlin.

EVANS ON LOCAL ISSUES.

David Evans was the first speaker. He began by congratulating the Democratic party on the splendid prospect for success in the campaign now on. Especially pleased was he with the rehabilitation of the party throughout the nation, a condition he attributed largely to the efforts of Judge Alton B. Parker and his lieutenants. Discussing conditions in Utah Mr. Evans said he deplored factional differences but felt that the differences in the ranks of the Republicans should be taken advantage of by the Democrats.

JUDGE M'LAUGHLIN.

Judge C. E. McLaughlin of California next spoke. He began with a graceful tribute to John S. Bransford, with whom he had fought for Democracy in California. Discussing the national situation the speaker called attention to the splendid qualities of Judge Parker and contended that the principles for which he stood were the principles which would save the nation from disruption. The speaker related how as a young man he became converted to Democracy and then took up a discussion of the tariff, which he believed was all right if levied only to meet the actual needs of the government. Judge McLaughlin referred to the contest between capital and labor and closed by appealing to his hearers to save the constitution by voting the Democratic ticket.

In addition to the speeches there was music by Held's band and a number of free carnival acts on the outside. It is estimated that between 3,000 and 4,000 people shared the entertainment provided by the Young Men's Democratic club, under whose auspices the affair was given.

Abscess.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Linament. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Linament; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world.

ABSCESSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. They may, however, result from blows or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc.
