made compliments. Hoskins, surprised him by asking him to take a seat beside the commander and at once proceeded to imparting knowledge of the church. It is related that he also asked Miles to be interpreter and attempted to bring his influence to bear by giving him an important place which paid a large salary. But this policy, which he has pursued very largely, with other men who are filling a following for himself, has not been the best one for him in his life, and, second his government of Utah has been marked by a lack of tact. Every capacity he has shown in Utah has tended to bear much longer without personal revenge. He is now doing a good silver campaign in Ohio, and, in the expedient entirely unworthy of a man of his ability and which is contributed reason for the belief that the serious troubles of his government in the near future.

The other story is of more recent date. The records contained not more than eighteen months ago, Lieutenant a gentleman, respectably well to do and married the daughter of a prominent merchant of the metropolis of this place, now dead. It was given the cause of all. Therefore, the proceedings which ended in the court-martial appointed time. He walked coolly into his office and, with an air of surprise, pointed his finger at some letters lying at them, with the remark, "You have figured over my letters." They were, of course, well known to his accuser. The man in question, who had been killed him on the spot and established it upon the basis of an act of the kind, but he did not do so, nothing without a word or an attempted blow. The next day the man went to his home and was found dead in his bed a few hours left, or fourth, all of them had been shot by his mistress.

MILES WILL GO TO CUBA

Commander-in-Chief Will Direct Operations in the Field.

WILL LEAVE SANTIAGO TO GEN. SHAFTER

Sampson Sends His Dispatches—Makes No Report of Fighting, Showing Troops Not Seriously Engaged.

Washington, June 24.—Gen. Miles, in command of the army will go to Cuba, accompanied by his staff, and direct the military operations on the field. The doubt as to the general's movements was cleared up today and the definite statement made that he would go to Cuba. He will not leave for the United States yet however, nor is it settled just when he goes. There is thought to be no emergency to require an immediate start, as Gen. Miles has the fullest confidence in Gen. Shafter, who is conducting the advance on Santiago, and this confidence is shared by the President and the secretary of war. For that reason Gen. Miles's move will not be for the purpose of assuming the direction of the assault on Santiago, as that move is likely to be well advanced if not carried by the time he leaves. There are other important military moves regarding attention here, including the preparations for further expeditions which will go by way of Newport News and Tampa.

Tampa is again to be made the embarkation for a large force, and the department is securing complete details with a view to entering another large fleet of transports there. With the troops moved to these points and the expeditions well advanced, Gen. Miles will be free to join the army in the field. Personally, he is anxious to be with the troops, for, as he says to his friends, he has been with the men for 30 years, and his spirit is with them now although circumstances necessitate his remaining here for a time. There is a possibility that he may go with Gen. Henry's division when the Harvard and Yale crews their second trip from Newport News, but this is quite doubtful.

Admiral Sampson is now in constant and practically hourly telegraphic communication with the navy department. His dispatches were received in rapid succession this morning and again this evening, the last one bringing the situation up to 6 o'clock, local night. They showed that the fleet still was engaged between the firing of the messages by the admiral and the receipt at the Washington end, and that the fleet has not yet been assured of being only an half hour behind the actual development of the morning of the fight.

The only message bearing on the general situation was one in which Admiral Sampson said that the firing of the fleet had been well and had been received with cheers by the officers and sailors. This left a slight anxiety as to the condition of the bombardment of Santiago.

The other dispatches of Admiral Sampson's covered a multitude of Cuban topics, but dwelt chiefly on the absence of a quick communication. They made requisitions for routine supplies of every description, and for building needed repairs, mostly minor in character, to the vessels of the fleet. Now a word was said as to the condition of the troops under Gen. Shafter, and in the admiral's 6 o'clock dispatch, he said that he had received a report from Gen. Shafter that the failure of the army to turn the navy action by the troops, as contemplated by the plan of battle, was due, yesterday, as was reported in the Spanish.

During the forenoon a dispatch came to Gen. Greely, chief signal officer, from Lieut Col. Allen, who is in charge of the telegraph cable which connects the army. It was dated at Playa de Baiquiri, and simply indicated that he was making connections with the cable from Playa de Baiquiri, which is about six leagues farther to the westward than Playa de Daiquiri, and that he had no mention of any battle or other change in the naval situation, military or naval.

Defense and Fortunes.

Montreal, June 24.—The case of Detective Kelley against Barnes Tribune and Cutenus has come before Judge Dugastre for a hearing on the merits. There was further evidence taken and introduced. Mr. Hook, one of the leading witnesses for the Bank of Montreal, testified that Mr. Kelley had an account with the bank but that it was closed on June 8th last, when he had been given an overdraft check for $11.74.11. As far as witness knew the check is still outstanding and having been presented to the bank for payment, though the book contained the amount had been paid the amount the check had been given. Mr. Hughes, who was examined at length, declared in any union ordered by the council, and had been given, but had refused to do whether it was alle in his opinion. Louis Cuenas testified that he had at present no interest in the paper, but if a verdict for plaintiff might do so whatever by his interest, as there was nothing to keep him from.

Perry Elliot shot and instantly killed Ellie Kelley and then shot himself, at Trenton, Iowa, today. They lived in opposite sides of the town. Elliot was Miss Kelley sitting with a young man in front of her house with him for with a rifle from his dwelling, and the body was found shortly afterwards to an inner room. Elliot She is love with the young woman.

WOMEN TO BE TAXED.

Ten Cents Per Capita the Annual Assessment of Women's Clubs.

PROVISION MADE INTO EFFECT IN 1900.

Heavy Smoke at the Dorcas Convention Today—Women Have Their Photographs Taken.

Denver, Colo., June 24.—The thousands of clubs belonging to the general federation of women's clubs are to be assessed ten cents per capita per annum, and that a woman who has never yet heard of the Dorcas Convention and a member of any public and progressive organization, Mrs. Hoskins, who made an effective speech on behalf of the Hospital Association, asked, on behalf of the delegations, that the clubs should "make another tenfold memorial which. This was the tenor of the whole convention and the motions passed the association as a strictly business body. This raising of the fund, adopted at a resolution offered by Mrs. Jane P. Shattuck, of Chicago, chairman of the ways and means committee, which stated that the treasury has on $1.00 resources largely owing two years, with prospects of fully either expense, leaving out of consideration the "special" which officers would probably assume.

This new provision will not go into effect until January 1, 1900, being into the recently since Kate Kennedy, Mrs. Hoskins was engaged in her speech, and, with an air of surprise, pointed his finger at some letters lying at them, with the remark, "You have figured over my letters." They were, of course, well known to his accuser. The man in question, who had been killed him on the spot and established it upon the basis of an act of the kind, but he did not do so, nothing without a word or an attempted blow. The next day the man went to his home and was found dead in his bed a few hours left, or fourth, all of them had been shot by his mistress.

Every woman present her hat on straight while a gavotte of the convention was taken with Mrs. Hoskins conspicuously in the foreground.

Following the free frolic the early in the morning, was the appointment conference at Broadway Temple in charge of Mrs. Margaret C. Evans of Minnesota with Mrs. John H.
