NEWS OF THE WEST.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Wealthy Coffee Planter's Son.

MAN'S DETERMINATION TO SUICIDE.

Remarkable Escape From Death—Wool Issues Through a Blow on the Head.

Bonanza (Wyo.) Bulletin: The settlers along the Big Horn occasionally manage to haul out a fifteen-pound catfish from that turgid stream, and then a battered fellow follows.

The court of inquiry at San Francisco which had been for several days investigating accusations against the moral character of Rev. Dr. A. C. Hirst made by R. Rogers came to an end on Wednesday evening. A verdict was returned exonerating Dr. Hirst in the fullest manner possible and denouncing the originator of the accusation as a wicked conspirator.

Geo. Young, 22 years old, son of Samuel Young, secretary of the Boulder (Colo.) Brewing company, has been adjudged insane. Some time ago the young man received a blow on his head by a fall, causing a concession or depression of the brain which had thrown him into a state of melancholy. The doctors advised an operation, but the young man would not consent to it.

The Denver News says it is probable that Canada and Mexico will be represented at the approaching irrigation congress in that city. A letter has been received by Secretary Smith from Secretary of State Gresham, saying, that at the request of the real estate exchange, the secretary of state had invited Canada and Mexico to send representatives to the congress. The invitation was extended through the embassies at Washington.

Peter Mathes, an old prospector, who was found wandering on the desert near Camp, Utah, and was subsequently brought to the county jail at San Diego in a mentally unbalanced condition, was examined in the superior court on Wednesday for insanity. Some days ago his mania was considered of so mild a nature that he was ordered sent to the county hospital for rest and recuperation, but his insanity is slightly increasing, as was evidenced by his incoherence and evasive replies. He was committed to an asylum.

Andrew Gehrig, living nine miles northeast of Akron, Colo., had a remarkable escape from death on Wednesday night. Mr. Gehrig was coming home from Snyder, where he was making hay, to attend the funeral of the boy who was killed by the horse falling on him. Mr. Gehrig was driving a horse to a cart. He had a 44 Winchester rifle laying on the seat. It being dark the horse ran into a barb wire fence, throwing Mr. Gehrig in the sidelines and discharging it, the ball taking effect in Mr. Gehrig's left cheek, passing out through the right cheek. Mr. Gehrig's head is swollen until it is twice its natural size and presents a horrible sight. There is danger of lead poisoning.

On Wednesday J. W. Dunlap, at one time a butcher of Paso Robles, Cal., went into a drug store and purchased an ounce of laudanum. As the clerk was registering the sales, Dunlap took out the cork, emptied of the drug and then emptied the contents of the vial into his mouth. The clerk sprang forward and prevented him swallowing the whole amount. The man then left and attempted to purchase more poison at the other drug stores, but they had been warned and refused to sell him any. Dunlap started for the depot and on the way out stabbed a stick with a pocket-knife, but not deep enough to do much harm. By request of the struggled several men followed Dunlap and gave him an emetic, partly by force, and worked over him for over two hours before he was out of danger. Dunlap had been deserted by his wife, was out of work and disheartened.

The dead body of Thomas Cecil, a middle-aged physician, was found on the floor of a room in the Ashburn house, at San Francisco, late on Wednesday afternoon. On the table in the room was an empty vial which had contained one-eighth of an ounce of morphine. The appearance of the body led to the belief that the deceased had taken the entire contents of the bottle. There was nothing found which would show whether or not the physician had taken the poison with suicidal intent. He arrived at the hotel on Tuesday evening and called for a room. He was somewhat under the influence of liquor but nothing unusual was noticed in his conduct. When he had registered he remarked that he expected some things to reach the hotel shortly for him. Nothing more was seen of him until a chambermaid attempted to enter the room, but was obliged to call for assistance. When the door was opened the body was found lying on the floor, partially dressed. He had not occupied the bed.

Considerable excitement prevails in the San Salvadorean colony at San Francisco over the mysterious disappearance of Juan Prado, son of President Prado, a wealthy coffee planter of San Salvador. The missing youth is 22 years of age and arrived in San Francisco on the Colima last Saturday. The last seen of him was at the Mail dock, where a number of friends who accompanied him from Central America, left him. Since then nothing has been heard of him, and all efforts to trace him have thus far proved futile. The young man was sent to San Francisco by his father to attend school and finish his education in English studies. Prado senior is the agent in Central America for the Hinckton Mining company, and he gave his son a letter of introduction to the Schwabacher, who control the company, in this city. The first that was known of the youth's presence by them was on Monday, when a letter was received from Prado, sr., instructing them as to his plans for his son. When the last did not put in an appearance on Monday nothing much was thought of the matter, but when Tuesday had well-nigh gone by the Schwabacher became nervous and instituted inquiries about young Prado. The boy has relatives in San Jose and they too have been making inquiries as to his whereabouts. The young fellow who were passengers on the Colima with Prado say that he seemed rather struggly at the Mail dock. They asked him if he was going on board, and he said after a while. They also inquired if he was going to stop at a certain hotel, and he responded in the affirmative, but said that he was not going there just yet. They left him standing near the gangplank, and none of them have seen him since.
