A Juror in the Helena, Mont., District Court, Expires Very Suddenly.

NEW MEXICO RAILROAD CONSPIRACY.

Mild Weather at Yuma, Arizona.—A Rich Strike of Ore.—Prospering in Idaho.

It is stated that Carson (Nevada) will shortly have a new evening paper.

A gentleman from the Mongolian mountains reports discovery of tin on Pine Creek, N. M., that assays 61 per cent, and states that quite a number of prospectors are there.

Coyotes are usually bold through hunger in the neighborhood of Pioche, Nevada. Three of them recently chased a dog through a corralled, enclosing their pursuit when within twenty feet of the watchman.

It was said by the people about Yuma, Arizona, that the Standard Oil company has entered into the enterprise of desert reclamation and that their surveyors have run lines for the canal towards the river country.

There is a pine tree near Donner lake, Cal., that is eighteen years old and only eighteen inches in height. It grows, however, from a small crevice in a large gigantic boulder. It is proposed to send it to the World's Fair.

In eight days the twin sons of W. J. Smith, aged fourteen years, of Salmon creek, Martin county, with the assistance of their dogs, killed five cougars, two wildcats, one fox and one coyote, securing the latter after a twenty-mile chase.

An effort is being made to organize an artillery company at Chico. More than the requisite legal number of men have signed a petition for its formation, pledging themselves to serve in the company when it is installed.

Petitions are being circulated and extensively signed at Deming, N. M., remonstrating against the passage of the bill now pending in the legislature requiring insurance companies to deposit $15,000 as a requirement to do business in the territory.

Stockmen who are loudly proclaiming that there is no longer any money to be made raising stock should sell out, quit business, and give place to men who will say the business, properly managed, is as profitable as it ever was, and who will make their words come true.—Florida (Arizona) Gazette.

It is currently reported in Silver City, New Mexico, that two employes on the ranch of Head & Hearst, in the Animas valley, which is about sixty miles in a southwesterly direction from Deming, were killed by Indians. Nothing has been heard of the killing late and the report is considered a hoax.

The directors of the Linda Vista irrigation district, California, on Monday, opened bids for the purchase of $90,000 worth of bonds. There was only one bid. It was from Wade & Cooper, representing one of the largest syndicate of bond buyers in the United States, and was an offer of ninety cents on the dollar. It was accepted.

The sentiment of the people is in favor of immediate statehood for Arizona, and if it is not secured the blame will lie with those politicians who can only hope for place or preferment through their friends at Washington. The people's choice will not fall upon them, and they know it, and because they do want they can to thwart the people's will.—Arizona Enterprise.

A report has reached town, says the Prescott, (Ariz.) Courier, that John S. Jones, of Chaparral gulch, had made another strike of rich ore while doing assessment work on one of his many claims. An assay of the ore shows a value of $728.41 gold and $3.45 silver per ton. This makes the fourth working mine in the Jones group, which is proving a bonanza.

The number of sheep shorn in Arizona during the past year was not less than 800,000 head, producing 5,400,000 pounds of wool, which including the marketing of 160,000 wethers, made a cash income from the sheep industry for the year, not less than $1,000,000, a ten per cent earning on $10,000,000, the value of the sheep industry of the territory.

Charles J. Fox, a prominent citizen of San Diego and largely interested in the proposed road between San Diego and Phoenix, has addressed a large and enthusiastic audience at the Southern Pacific Hotel. He said that the citizens of Phoenix had subscribed heartily to the scheme and hoped that Yuma would do the same, and outlined the advantages that would accrue from such a railroad.

An occasional prospector can be seen around Pocatello (says the Idaho Daily Statesman) with his pockets full of rock, but owing to the objections made by Indians no active prospecting has ever been carried on in this vicinity, especially on the reservation, but those who are familiar with the country claim that whenever the reservation lands are opened to settlement and privilege granted to work mines and prospect, this will become a mining center of more than ordinary activity.

The building roses, the roses in full bloom, and the tender shoots of all kinds of vegetation now in Yuma goes to show that spring time is near at hand, and a season of remarkable earliness in the lovely ways of the season. The hay harvest has already come to our himself, and the sail is busy searching its nest, all of which points towards the early melting of snow, the new leaves of venture and high streams of water, in which our section is so much favored for its many blessings.

St. Johns (A. T.) Herald—We have had an extremely favorable winter for stock of all kinds so far. C. V. Perry was in town on Saturday last and reports stock in the western part of Mower county, New Mexico, in fine winter work. Thinks the loss will be light in comparison to what was anticipated. Our ranchmen are riding their ranges more industriously this winter than for many years. They say heavy losses are anticipated, and if fodder is thrown to feed all their calves, not to this way make up partially for their losses.

A hundred and one hundred people congregated with the boundary surveyor now at Yuma, Ariz., says the Times of that place. The commissioners have their offices in the quartermaster's warehouse and the employes are accommodated in about thirty tents. The old corral is again alive with government mules. Not in many years has the reservation presented such a lively appearance. Another wagon train is on the road from Tucson, which completes the remainder of the American part of the commission.

Colonel C. P. Crocker, first vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company has arrived at San Antonio, Texas, from Durango, Mexico, accompanied by General Manager Kruttschnitt of the same company. They went for a tour of inspection over the San Antonio and Aransas Pass system, accompanied by C. H. Peck, assistant general manager of the last road. Colonel Crocker stated that the formal transfer of the Aransas Pass road to the Southern Pacific Company would take place in a few days. He is well pleased with the Mexican International road, and says that the Durango extension of that line is already doing good business.

H. M. Brandegee, a well-known real estate and loan agent, fell back unconscious in the jury box while court was in session in the district court room at Helena, Montana, on Saturday and expired almost instantly. Mr. Brandegee had been a juror in a case on trial for the past fortnight, and several times expressed the fear that he might not be able to stand the confinement till the end of the case. A few days ago he was seized with a fainting spell and fell down unconscious, the attack being of an epileptic nature. The attack on Saturday was a recurrence of the malady and death from heart failure followed quickly. The physicians who was summoned was unable to revive the man, who had barely passed from his body.

The railroad conspiracy is creating no end of excitement in Las Vegas, N. M. It has been understood for two years or more that a systematic effort of robbery was in progress on the Atchison road. For the last three months six detectives have been in the city and vicinity. They finally ran down the whole thing. So far only Conductor Norman and Brakeman R. D. Salisbury and George Bunting have been arrested. They are in jail. Gorman is most deeply criminated and he is expected to "squeal" on the others. Freman Arthur Manuel is badly compromised. He gave a lot of goods to his stepmother, who came up from Albuquerque to testify against him. He could not tell where he got the goods, the storekeepers mentioned by Manuel declaring that they never had and consequently never sold such goods. There are all sorts of rumors as to different dealers in town being compromised by the finding of stolen goods in their possession, but these reports have not been found to be correct.
