DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Friday, October 4, 1895.

FOR STEALING JEWELRY.

Attorney Nelson Held to the Grand Jury in $1,000 Bonds.

Attorney Marcellus Nelson was brought face to face with Justice Smith yesterday afternoon charged with stealing a watch, chain and charm from Mrs. Ella Ongman. Judge Cherry, as counsel for the defense, entered a plea of not guilty.

Mrs. Ongman told the story of meeting Nelson on September 25th and of the attorney soliciting her to her home near the copper plant. After remaining at her house a short time he bade adieu, and it was then that Mrs. Ongman discovered her loss. The next day she went to Nelson's home and accused him of the theft and threatened to arrest him a warrant for his arrest, but with gentle persuasions and earnest promises to return the articles, the attorney succeeded in restraining Mrs Ongman from swinging out her arrest. Nelson's promises, however, awaiting coming, and Mrs. Ongman becoming impatient, had his arrest effected.

Edward Neilson, a goldsmith, testified that Nelson came to his place of business and had him smelt an old watch charm containing gold to the value of $5. When the work was done, Nelson went to a pawn shop and sold the material for $2.50. This proves to be the charm attached to the watch and chain which Nelson had stolen. The witness also testified that he went to the defendant's home and upon seeing Nelson's wife stated if the articles were given up her husband's release might be accomplished, she suggested a search in the cellar, which was made and the articles found.

At the conclusion of this evidence, the accused rousing to take the stand, Judge Smith bound him over to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000.

Death of Judge Samuel Smith.

Private telegrams have been received in this city to the effect that Judge Samuel Smith, of Box Elder county, died at Smithfield, Cache county, on Wednesday night last. Particulars as to the cause of death were not given but it is presumed that it was occasioned by old age, as the deceased was well advanced in years. He was one of Utah's early pioneers and was widely known throughout the Territory.

Funeral services will be held at the deceased's residence in Brigham City tomorrow (Saturday) at 11 a.m.

COST OF A HIGH SCHOOL.

Question to be Investigated by the Board of Education—Business at Last Night's Meeting.

The board of education met last night. All of the members were present except Bywater whose presence at the Tabernacle was required on account of his connection with the great musical festival.

A number of reports were read and filed and the old Nineteenth ward school building ordered fitted up at once to accommodate pupils now crowded out; room No. 9 of the Fremont school was ordered divided into four district apartments. The sale of old desks for $40.50 was confirmed and contract awarded to the Weber Coal company to haul coal to the schools for 50 cents a ton. Mrs. James E. Hall was appointed janitress of the new school room just rented in the West side Baptist church.

The committee on teachers and school with recommended the purchase of $70 worth of maps for the High school and supplies for the superintendent's office, which was adopted. Miss May Cavanaugh was employed as a teacher of penmanship at a salary of $95 per month; the salary of the principal of the Seventh school was fixed at $85 per month; Miss Nella Yeazley was employed as teacher in the rooms of the Baptist school at $45 per month, and Miss May W. Parker was employed at the Lowell at a salary of $60 per month. Additional desks and chairs were ordered for the different schools.

Appropriations aggregating $7,621.18 were passed.

Hansen introduced a resolution instructing the committee on buildings and grounds to promptly investigate and report upon the question and cost of erecting a high school and determining a proper location for the same. Adopted.

On motion of Westerfield the committee on buildings and grounds were instructed to ascertain the cost of heating the public school buildings with natural gas.

Adjourned for two weeks.

Bitten By a Bear Cub.

Charles Baer, the East Temple street shoemaker, was standing at his door this morning contemplating prospective business in general and new advertising ideas in particular, when a youth assisting a six months old bear cub hove in sight.

"Eureka," cried the enterprising shoemaker, "we will purchase this and put him in the window with a pair of top boots on." The incidental bargaining was proceeded with and by way of emphasizing his remarks Mr. Baer patted Bruin on the back. Mr. Cub resented this familiarity to the extent of seizing the offending hand between his big jaws, drawing blood in three or four places. Needless to say the bargain was declared off, and Mr. Baer concludes to use the newspapers solely as advertising mediums in future.
