LITERARY NOTES.

With the March number The Forum begins a new volume and enters upon its second decade. The number opens with a noteworthy article on Family Life in America, by the distinguished French novelist and critic, Th. Bentzon (Mme. Blanc), author of The Countess of Women in the United States. In eleven timely and interesting essays the current number presents the best thought of the day on all subjects uppermost in the public mind—the Nicaragua Canal, the Manitoba Schools Question, the Boers, European politics, the Anglo-American difficulty, municipal reform, etc.

The March Midland Monthly (Des Moines) contains The Cripple Creek Boom, with a full page picture of the town and other illustrations; a finely pictured article on the Lodge of the Mysteries Cave in Washington; the lake country of England, illustrated; a fashion department; the true story of Hold the Fort, by Captain Adams, who led the signaling from Kennaw mountain, and Women's Clubs in Nebraska, by Mrs. F. B. Tracy of Omaha, with numerous portraits.

In McClure's Magazine for March is brought to light a speech of 1837 by Abraham Lincoln, which the biographers until now, seemingly, have known nothing of, though it contains passages still of the highest interest. The pictures are numerous and include four portraits of Lincoln. Col. John Hay contributes an interesting paper on Ashworth, the young hero killed at the beginning of the War. The paper is fully illustrated.

A story by Kipling that breathes the breath of life runs every plate and rivet of a great ship, and makes it an epic poem of human community, striving, struggling and gambling, is a feature of the number. Scarcely less notable is a poem, "Up and Down," by Eugene Field. —McClure's Magazine for March.
