Scientific Farming, Fruit Growing, Improvement in Irrigation Practise and Other Questions Discussed.

Special Correspondence.

Nephi City, Juab Co., Feb. 26 .-- One of the most interesting and successful farmers' institutes ever held in Nephi was that of Friday and Saturday last week. These meetings were under the auspices of the Nephi commercial club with members of the faculty of the Agricultural college of Logan, assist-

Throughout all of the meetings the Throughout all of the meetings the greatest interest and enthusiasm were manifested and it was the oplion of all that much good would result from the advice which the various speakers had to offer. Local successful farmers had a prominent place in the list of speakers and from the success which these men are making in their various lines their remarks were of great value. The professors from the Agricultural college were listened to with rapt attention and following each speaker a very interesting discussion, speaker a very line of work treated, was indulged in. These discussions were of particular value in that they brought out plainly the manner of handling the problems which at present are vexing the farmers most. They also showed in detail the best prac-tises in use elsewhere in Utah and neighboring states and undoubtedly will serve to stimulate the farmer to an endeavor to make more trom his resources.

Women's meeting, 2 p. m. in vestry: Prof. Cotey, "Pure Foods;" music. A'GRICULTURE IN THE SCHOOLS.

President Kerr's address upon the subject of agriculture in the rural schools was clearly the feature of the institute, for with Nephi taking the lead of all Una citles, in the matter of such subjects as arithmetic, grammar, etc., this could easily be done. He in-sisted that every rural high school should offer courses in agriculture, me-chanic arts and domestic arts and con-gratulated the people of Nephi upon having the only high school in the state giving such work. FOOD ADULTERATIONS.

FOOD ADULTERATIONS. Mrs. Cotey in the meeting with the ladies showed by means of specimens the manner in which many of our sta-ple food products are adulterated. Con-siderable interest was aroused among housewives by showing them samples of manufactured coffee. This was shown to be made from spolled grain of various species which when ground shown to be made from spotied grain of various species which when ground was pressed into moids the shape of the coffee bean and then glazed and coated with a preparation of coffee giving the desired odor. The manner in which ground pea-nut and almond shucks, corn meal, and other cheap ma-terials were treated to be used as adul-terants in the common phics was also terais were treated to be used as adul-terants in the common spices was also discussed. Probably the most interest-ing point brought out in this matter occurred when the careful housewife, who buys whole black pepper and grinds it herself to secure purity was told that often times common taploca covered with lamp black was mixed with the genuine article.

ORCHARD GROWING.

Prof. Northrop discussed the starting of an orchard, dealing with the selection of the site, proper preparation of the ground, selection and care of nur-sery stock, planting, pruning and cai-ture of the tree. He emphasized the necessity for starting early in the life of the tree to train it into the proper form for a heavy production of facil form for a heavy production of fruit, for by this means only could the large profits, which some orchardists are securing be obtained. MAINTAINING SOIL FERTILITY.

Dr. Yoder explained the necessity for proper care in the mainlenance of the fertility of the soil, and explained vari-ous means by which this could be re-tained. He showed how by a proper rotation the soil could not only be made t maintain its fertility but with skilful handling it might be considerably increased. FARM MANAGEMENT.

Mr. Chas. Grace outlined in a very practical manner a system of handling the farm in connection with the dairy interests which would materially in-crease the picfits acruing from the ordinary crops. THE DAIRY COW.

Prof. Clark gave a very profitable address upon the choosing and care of the dairy cow. He explained minutely the various points upon which a cow sulted for a milk producer differed from those suited for beef production. The reason why great care in the se-lection of animals is necessary was pointed out and the fact that for the pointed out and the fact that for the dairy, cows with a long thin neck, thin flanks and very large abdomen with large milk wells, was emphasized. In connection with this subject a very practical talk was given by Mr. H. O. Manto upon the breeding of pure bred stock. Mr. Mantor is a very successful breeder of Berkshire hogs and thor-oughly understands the principles upon which success in this line is based. He discussed the benefits of thoroughly ex-ercising breeding stock, thus getting a stronger and more vigorous progeny, and also emphasized the advisability of selecting parents of strongly marked selecting parents of strongly marked characters if the breeder desired them to transmit such points to their off-

Prof. McLaughlin and Mr. I. H. Grace

earried on the discussion in regard to the proper use and application of water. Prof. McLaughlin referred to the varand snowfall both on the watershod and on the farm. He explained the ad-visability of making better use of the water in fall, winter and spring by ap-plying it to the land generally unirri-gated, this to be kept in the soil by thereast culturation and used for the thorough cultivation and used for the growing of grain the following year. By this means considerable valuable water which now runs to waste during hese seasons could be used greatly to the profit of the farmer and the community. The advantage of fall plowing was also discussed and the speaker exwas also discussed and the speaker ex-plained that in many instances when this could not be done on account of the dryness of the soil the defect could be remedied by fall irrigation prior to the plowing. This would not only benefit the physical nature of the soil but would also save considerable water. The effect of varying amounts of water upon the guality and yield of the crop upon the quality and yield of the crop was also taken up and made clear to Mr. I. H. Grace, who is one of the Mr. I. H. Grace, who is one of the most successful and practical farmers of the locality, then outlined a system of caring for canals, whereby much water now lost could be successfully carried without appreciable loss. These carried without appreciable loss. These remarks were very well received by those present because all realized that the question was a very import-ant one and the plan quite feasible. ' Following the Saturday afternoon meeting Prof. Clark and a large num-ber of gentlemen adjourned to the yard adjoining the Tabernacle where a tractical demonstration in judging yard accounting the rabernacie where a practical demonstration in judging stock was given. This aroused con-siderable enthusiasm and was osten-sibly of great value to those inter-ested in this matter. Throughout the series of meetings considerable gratification was felt, both by those under whose auspices the institute was arranged and the the institute was arranged and the speakers from the college, in the at-tendance, interest and general good feeling. This was due particularly to the cordial reception tendered the visi-tors and the air of hospitality shown house, on all sides. BANQUET SATURDAY EVENING. Not the least factor in the further-ance of this feeling of mutaul good fellowship was the very enjoyable banquet given Saturday evening to the visitors by the Commercial club. This visitors by the Commercial club. This took place in the Nephi High school and was prepared and served by the young ladies in the domestic arts de-partment under the direction of Miss Ella Maughan, their instructor, who was last year a graduate of the Agri-cultural college in the domestic science course. The thoroughness of her work was attested by the quality of the ban-quet and brought out numerous re-marks of approval from all sides in the toasts which followed. These were given both by the visitors and local given both by the visitors and local representatives and abounded both with wit and seriousness. Saturday is to be the climax of local basketball effort, not only on this account but because the Red Wings of Minnesota come this week also to trim or be trimmed by the leading Utah teams, and further because at the nd of this week the Logan, Provo and L. D. S. U. teams and coaches will finish their work, to begin on the track seaon, for which weather conditions are beoming opportune.

WEEK END GAMES.

Friday and Saturday evenings of this week will be busy ones with basketballers. When the league was organized its sched-ule ran form Jan. 15 to March 2, and each team entered had to play ten games, hve on home grounds and five on other grounds. The entering teams were all Church schools, except the Agricultural college and the State School for the Deaf and Blind, and the results in team stand-ings show plainly that the longer prac-tise of the Church Institutions, where basketball has been played for years is telling decidedly. GAME HERE FRIDAY. Of the six teams entered, two have now played nine games, two eight galles, and two seven games. Friday evening the L. D. S. U. team meets the Agricultural College team in Salt Lake, to complete its schedule, with anything like their usual form Milne's Midgets should win, giving them second place by a score of 6 games won to 4 games lost. The same evening at Odden the Weber Stake Academy fights it out with the Brigham Young Cologe of Logan, and with the School for the Deaf in the afternoon. Sat-urday evening Provo ends the series in a game with the Agricultural Cellege, which, if it is victorious, will give it the series by a record without a single de-feat. The only time Provo was played to a standstill was in the last game with the L. D. S. U. Midgets, when the score was only two points in their favor at the end. PROVO VETERANS.

Root opened the first round with hard punches to the face, but a hard right to the stomach forced him to be cautious. In the seventh round Root caught Russel with a right to the ribs and had Russell staggering about the ring. Russell held out to the end by a series of clinches. In the tenth round Root had Russell progry, Russell after the decision was announced a number of blows before they were sep-arated. Russell challenged Root to an-other fight.

PREJUDICE AGAINST WEST. The fact that most of the men entered come from New York will cause some lit-tie unfavorable comment in the west. Western meet officials who have had oc-casion to submit records to Seey. Sulli-van of the A. A. U., know well that the fight to get them accepted is a much big-ger thing than training athletes, to make them. When Norman Dole made the pres-ent world's record at the pole valit, he was stopped right in the best jumping form he had shown in months, with the certainty that he could go higher in a few more trials, so that the distance could be measured by everybody who ever heard of Secretary Sullwan and his board of directors, and the affidavits taken to reinforce the declarations of the judges. Even with all this evidence, it took a year of squabbling to get the record entered Even with all this evidence, it took a year of squabbling to get the record entered in the A. A. U. books, and now Dole is overlooked, although available, in sending a man to do the pole vault. The prejudice against the west grew out of the "Nauve Son" habit in San Francisco which was the cause of a number of crooked fight decisions, and which spread a feeling through the east that all western sport was crooked.

A MENANCE TO HEALTH.

A MENANCE TO HEALTH. Kidney trouble is an insidious danger, and many people are victims of a serious malady before the symptoms are recog-nized. Foley's Kidney Cure corrects ir-regularities and strengthens and builda up the kidneys, and it should be taken at the first indication of kidney trouble, as it is impossible to have good health if the kidneys are deranged.
