MORE SENTENCES.

Prisoners Who Were Dealt With by Judge Bartch This Morning.

A "HOUSEBREAKER'S" ELOQUENCE

Settings of Cases for Trial—Naturalizations by Chief Justice Merritt—A Divorce Granted.

Judge Bartch sentenced another select party of offenders against the law in his division of the Third district court this morning, some arraignments were made, and then the court proceeded with further trials of cases on the present list of settings.

SAM SAYS HE'S INNOCENT.

Samuel Orier, the alleged horse, buggy and harness thief, was the first defendant called upon to plead and, as had been expected, he said not guilty. The date of his trial was not set.

SIX MONTHS FOR H. SMITH.

H. Smith alias Frank Willard, the festive housebreaker who was convicted yesterday afternoon, appeared for sentence. He forcibly entered a room in the Culmer block. Deseret told the court that he had never in his life before committed a crime of any kind. He had been in prison three months awaiting trial. Judge Bartch sentenced him to six months' imprisonment in the penitentiary, his previous good character being taken into consideration.

EIGHTEEN MONTHS FOR WALLACE.

J. G. Wallace, convicted yesterday of attempting to pass a fictitious check, next stood forward for punishment. He, too, appeared to have had a very fair record up to the time of committing the offense.

Sentence, 18 months in the penitentiary.

A HOUSEBREAKER.

Lawrence Cunningham, who had previously pled guilty to housebreaking, also came up for sentence.

Attorney W. T. Gunter, who had been appointed by the court to defend, spoke a few words in the defendant's behalf.

In reply to the court Assistant District Attorney Hennefy said the accused and another man broke into the residence of Mrs. Clarence T. Brown about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and carried away a few clothing, silverware, and other bric-a-brac. When arrested in Ogden, where he had been trying to dispose of some of the stolen property, he had a portion of it in his possession.

Defendant, who secured the Court that this was his first transgression against the law, was ordered to be kept in the penitentiary for two years.

HE MIGHT HAVE DONE MORE.

Wm. S. Ross, a one-eyed man, came up for sentence. He broke into two of the bathrooms at Garfield one evening during the past season and took away between $2 and $3, the money of a gentleman who was taking a bath at the time.

Ross made quite an "elegant" statement in his defense. He said he was in such reduced circumstances at the time that he "had no alternative but to beg or steal." He thought when he committed the act that it was a little more honorable to steal than to beg—(laughter)—though after reflection upon the matter he came to the conclusion that he was mistaken. He has been always industrious and frugal—"mines," he added, "accounts for this." For, he continued, the office of housebreaking, but it might have been worse. His offense was not premeditated; it was committed on the impulse of the moment. Had he known at the time that he was committing a felony he did not think he would have done what he did. He thought it was "nothing but mere petty larceny!" and as soon as he got hold of a couple of dollars or so he skipped short. He had the chance to go further—but "selected it." He was utterly destitute when he took the money.

Answering Judge Bartch, Ross said he had been in Utah about two months only, and nearly all that time he has been in the custody of the marshal. He came here from Idaho, but was born in Kentucky and has traveled from one end of the country to the other during the last six years. This was his first crime.

Attorney W. C. Reilly put in a good word for the defendant, who was sentenced to nine months in the penitentiary.

THE JUDGE GRILLED HIM.

J. Ryan withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pled guilty to housebreaking. He seized to be sentenced now and Judge Bartch accommodated him to the extent.

Sentence, two years in the penitentiary.

SIGNED TO A DEFENDER.

Josephine Dobson, Calsworth's alleged accomplice, had already plead guilty to a charge of solicitary.

Attorney W. T. Gunter now stated that the defendant's husband had long failed to provide for her, and she had earned a livelihood by dancing for the last two years or more. Captain Dobson (who was in court) had informed counsel that she was a hard working woman.

Judge Bartch said he would take into consideration what had been said in her behalf and passed sentence of nine months in the penitentiary.

H. LAWSON GOES TWO YEARS.

Harry Lawson, a youth who had plead guilty to complicity in larceny and housebreaking, at the Hogan and Sanford residences, last June, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary by the burgary court and the court concurred and now in the housebreaking case. It was stated that after his arrest he assisted the officers materially in recovering the stolen property.

GONE OVER TILL TOMORROW.

Earl Blackburn, a 16-year-old boy, whose case was mentioned in Deseret News yesterday, has been before Judge Bartch in the juvenile court, but because of his had counsel the board of managers petition to have him transferred to the penitentiary. He was to have been dealt with this morning, but inasmuch as the indictment for burgary under which the defendant stand is have been convicted could not be found, Judge Bartch decided that defendant be brought into court again tomorrow morning. The defendant broke into Hinchman's opera store and stole a rack full of shoes. It was for this offense he was sent to the Reform school.

A GRAVE CHARGE.

William Stewart was then placed on trial on a charge of assaulting Simon Attwood with a deadly weapon, with intent to murder. Assistant District Attorney Hennefy prosecuting Attorney Harvey defended. The affair took place at the Lewis's saloon in this city. The prosecutor, defendant and a number of other men, who had been drinking more or less, got into a wrangle over some money, and in the course of the dispute it is alleged Stewart took up a knife and pushed Attwood severely across the neck, inflicting a serious wound. On the other hand, the defendant swore that he received considerable provocation at the hands of the complainant and others.

The case was given to the jury about 3:30.

CHANGED HIS PLEA.

Lem Wright withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pled guilty to burgary. He will be sentenced tomorrow.

HE WILL CLEAR OUT.

Upon motion of the prosecution, H. Brown, alias Thomas Decker, was released upon his own recognizance. He has undertaken to leave the Territory.

JURY IN THE DAVIS CASE.

Twice They Report and They are Unable to Agree.

Judge King Allows Them Breakfast and Dinner, and Sends Them Out a Third Time.

Special to the Deseret News, per Salt Lake Telegraph.

PROVO UTAH, Sept. 27, 1894.—The jury, after being out all night, came into court this morning and announced that they could not agree.

Judge King instructed them to go to breakfast and then make another effort to agree.

At half par twelve they were called into court and again informed the judge that they could not agree. He instructed them to go to dinner and again consider the case after dinner. The Court, prosecution and defendant are all anxious to have them agree.

AMUSEMENTS.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS—a name that was once used to conjure with, parquet and gallery alike tumultuously responding to its call—has not something of its old-time magic. Last night's gathering was good for these times, but compared to the heavy houses Haverly used to draw, or that the Old Kentucky show sought out—it could only be classed as medium, and it should not have been elsewhere—for that word moderate exactly expresses the idea of the sort of show Haverly's company gives. There is no more difficulty now than there was of old in the way of his old Mastodon, or Cleveland or Primrose and West, consisted of today, as there is between Primrose's companies and Anna Collin. The quartette singing is quite good and there were a good many encores accordingly, especially for original song by Evans regarding his "Hilary" and his "Lulu." Burt Romard made some fun in an old sketch that has been like his many times before, but he is not a satisfactory conductor of Billy Rice, the erstwhile leader of Haverly's jokers. The afternoon dance was good and was heavily encored, but evidently, the strength of the company lies in the vocalism and he made up a big part of Tuesday night's audience. The company closes its engagement tonight.

RAINER AND SHAKER is to be here for three nights, next week, but matinees, opening Wednesday, and to a matinee Saturday at reduced prices, Mr. Joseph Cain, manager of the Opera house, has made the three nights an effort to visit that place with Mr. Rainer one night, but it is not yet known whether the star can spring his visit sufficiently to make the effort to accompany.

Marriage License.

The county clerk today issued a license to marry to Arthur Dammer, 28, and Agnes J. Mollinie, 19, both of Oakley, Idaho.

THE WRIT IS DENIED.

Judge Merritt Rules Against the Republican Committee.

STRONG REMARKS BY THE COURT.

He Says the Charges Against Colen Were Without Foundation In Fact.

After the legal arguments in the mandamus proceedings instituted by W. F. James et al, members of the Republican county committee, against Registrar Joseph M. Cohen had concluded late yesterday afternoon, the case was submitted to Judge Merritt. When the matter had been partially heard the attorneys for the petitioners (C. O. Whitlemore and Judge Zane) asked leave to file another petition in substance the same as the original, except that it was set up that E. C. Giffin and about fifty others had deputed Lemuel G. Rogers to inspect the lists on their behalf, and that Mr. Rogers had not with no more success than Mr. James. The defense objected to this new complaint being heard as a part of the original petition, and asked time to answer. This request the court granted, and the hearing herein was set for today. Judge Merritt therefore withheld his decision in the first case until the finish of the second.

In the Giffin et al matter a general demurrer to the complaint was today set in and the county was joined. The defendant denied that he had refused to allow an inspection of the registration lists for the month of March, the reason or purpose to count there from the names of any number of qualified voters of Ione county. He also denied that it would be impracticable for any of the petitioners to visit in person the defendant's office to inspect said registration lists in order to determine whether the name of such voter had been omitted, or that unless Rogers was allowed to inspect the lists of plaintiffs, a large group size for of the qualified voters of Salt Lake county would be deprived of the right to vote at the ensuing election "by reason of the alleged unlawful or fraudulent, or negligent act of the defendant."

The petitioners were represented in this case by Attorneys C. O. Whitlemore and Hiram Farnsworth, and the defendants were represented by Judge C. L. Wilkins and Junius Powers. The facts were substantially the same as in the first case.

Chairman Cohen and Mr. John Asay were the only witnesses called in the last matter, and these were examined very briefly. None were called on the other side. Legal argument followed and these were to be given when the court adjourned for luncheon.

Attorney Whitlemore made the closing remarks on the part of the petitioners (this lasting about 3 o'clock) for one hour and a half, and Judge Zane followed for about half an hour. The gentlemen sought to show that the officers of the Republican party had made a wanton and wilful attempt to deprive them of their right to vote, and that the registrar, Joseph M. Cohen, had failed for most of their high standing manhood. The man Cohen, the registrar, is generally a reputable man. Complainants had brought in a whole parcel of good witnesses who not supported by a solution of evidence, and to the attempt to spot the good men. Things are charged against him that are unusual, and I may say, libelous. They come into court and make charges against the registrar affecting his character and his integrity, charges that if true would subject him to imprisonment in a penitentiary. He stands before the courts and assailing their officers and giving them on the records of this court they do not attempt to offer a solution of evidence in support of them. The argument of counsel has not the support of any testimony. Statements are made in argument that certain testimony is given which in fact was not elicited. One statement was made that Cohen, the registrar, said he would give a list of the names upon the roll of the Democratic central committee, or some committee, but no attempt. No such made and no offer has been made to prove or show any such state of facts. Mr. James says he is the chairman of the county Republican committee. I think the gentleman sought the office greatly to his credit, says he has charge and control of that great party. He is an officer unknown to the law; he comes speak for the whole Republican party; say more than I could if I were chairman of the Democratic central committee speak for the whole Democratic party of Utah territory.

Coming to the second case. (Here the judge quoted the Territorial statutes in reference to the issuance of the writ of mandamus.) The statute further provides that any man who has citizen and is entitled to register may go at any time and if he finds his name omitted, and if it has been, have it placed on the roll within the time provided by law he has a right to go there and report the fact and have the name placed on the roll. If he has been properly registered, and see whether or not he is in a position to exercise the elective franchise. The elective franchise is a very high privilege in this country, yet it is a great deal prostituted in the great government of ours, as it is also exercised by many unworthy men. But it is a personal privilege and cannot be delegated by one man to another. Therefore, I say that the petitioners in the case have no right to ask Mr. H. good the right to go there and make this inspection of the lists for them. If they have a certified complaint against that because some have not done so one whether of not they were omitted from the roll and have not had the right to exercise franchise placed on the list. It is a singular thing.

I know when I returned from Alaska, although I was very busy, I went and saw whether I was in interest. I thought it was my duty if I desired to exercise the highest privilege of an American citizen to go there and see if I was registered. It is singular that any man can swear that that interest is too great to be imposed upon the business men of Salt Lake City. The court cannot make such a statement. Because a man swears to it does not make it true; it must be substantiated with statements and common experience.

In my opinion complaint note have not made a shadow of a case and I therefore deny the writ.

WILL HAVE TO RESIGN.

Heber M. Wells to Retire From the Board of Public Works.

Heber M. Wells, who was nominated as a delegate to the Constitutional convention, from the Fourth precinct last night, will, under the law, be compelled to resign from the board of public works.

His acceptance of the nomination, it is claimed, is in direct violation of the statute which it is alleged specifically provides that no member of the board of public works can be a candidate for office and retain his place on the board.

Mr. Wells will do so, and Mr. J. C. Conklin, a year ago when a candidate for mayor on the Liberal ticket, and as Mr. Cannon did when nominated for constitutional convention, is sure to step aside and let Wells take his place. Mr. Wells will be left early in practice, but that there are a good many who would like the office is certain.

The Splendid Case.

"Dr." Henry Spencer, who was brought here from Green River, Wyoming, last Sunday by Deputy Marshal Brian Cannon, to answer a charge of having uttered a forged check, with intent to defraud, was taken and a preliminary hearing in Commissioner Peck's court this afternoon, but by mutual consent between the attorneys on either side the case has gone over until tomorrow.
