HOME FROM EUROPE.

Louis Pratt Returns From Paris, Where He Has Been Studying Art for Two Years.

Louis Pratt, of this city, and son of the late Professor Orson Pratt, has just returned from Paris, where he has been studying the art of landscape and figure painting. Mr. Pratt left Utah June 27th, 1890, and arrived in Paris on the 28th of July following and immediately entered the Julien Academy. He applied himself closely to his work and made splendid progress and was highly complimented by the professors for the excellence of some of his productions. Mr. Pratt reports that Edwin Evans of Nephi, J. R. Fairbanks of Ogden and Will Clawson and Herman Haag of this city also improved wonderfully while attending the Julien Academy. They worked as Utah boys generally do and secured valuable professional recognition by their diligence and earnestness.

Mr. Fairbanks, it is expected, will arrive home some time in August next.

Will Clawson is now in Italy.

Box Elder Stake Conference.

The quarterly conference of the Box Elder Stake of Zion convened in the Brigham City tabernacle on July 24th. Meetings were held Saturday and Sunday, as per notice in the NEWS, for the reason that previous to its appearance a notice was published by the local paper that the conference would be held on the regular days, Sunday and Monday, but in pursuance to the NEWS notice, no meeting was held Monday (Pioneer day).

Conference was called to order on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by President Clawson; singing by the congregation; prayer by Bishop A. A. Jensen. Singing.

Stake President R. Clawson delivered an interesting discourse on the Progress of the Saints and spoke in favor of the Church schools.

President J. Goulden Kimball delivered an instructive discourse, showing how the Lord blessed and aided Ty the faithful.

Elder Crandal Dunn spoke briefly.

Patriarch Daniel Bullock referred to the Prophet Joseph and spoke of his times.

Singing, and benediction by C. J. Skinner.

The afternoon services began by singing; prayer by Bishop Thomas Harper; singing. The sacrament was administered.

Apostle A. H. Cannon delivered a highly instructive address. He referred to the numerous blessings which God is bestowing upon the saints.

Elder George Reynolds advised the Latter-day Saints to be on guard and look to the care and training of their children.

President Lorenzo Snow spoke of the importance of properly educating the young people by sending them to Church schools.

Apostles H. Snow, John H. Peters, Henry L. Steed, and Peter F. Madsen were then appointed missionaries to labor in the interests of the local Church schools.

Singing by the choir; benediction by Patriarch Samuel Smith.

Conference adjourned for three months. NILS JENSON, Clerk.

TODAY'S TELEGRAMS.

A Friend of Bismarck Tells the Story of the Fall of the Iron Chancellor.

ENGULFED BY A STREAM OF LAVA.

The Conflict at St. John.—Reparation Conspirators Executed.—Killed by a Lunatic.

(By Telegraph to the NEWS.)

BISMARCK AND WILLIAM.

The Emperor Refused to Have an Interview by a Friend.

GENEVA, July 27.—The newspaper Gazette publishes a statement made by a friend of Bismarck, but the name is withheld, that the Prince had not been entered Bismarck's county on his way of the regular between the prince and emperor. Bismarck was humiliated with agitation, waiting the Kaiser and muttering imprecations.

Bismarck exclaimed: "The Emperor kicked me out without consideration, the greatest servant of his grandfather and father." When he became calm Bismarck explained that the Emperor had announced his intention to accept the offer given by Dr. Wiedthorst, the Centrist leader. Bismarck begged the Emperor not to go, saying that his presence would be regarded as an abandonment of the attitude of the counselor in the eyes of the Centrists, his bitterest enemies, while it would cause great satisfaction to the enemies of the Empire, who are in opposition of the chancellor. The Emperor answered brusquely, and stamping his foot: "Are you going to dictate to me? Will you do what I ask?" Bismarck replied: "Then I must resign." "I accept your resignation," said the Emperor. "You may retire and send me your resignation in writing."

TWO ADVENTURERS

Engulfed in the Molten Lava of a Volcano.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 27.—Henry A. Sears, of New Hampshire, and James D. Wallace, an Englishman, to settle a dispute as to the relative courage of Americans and Englishmen, agreed that the one who should first reach the flag at his station on the edge of the crater of a volcano near Colima, should be declared the winner. When they reached the mountain, smoke issued from the crater. The guides stopped at some distance down the side and watched the adventurous climbers. When near the top, there was a sudden eruption and both were engulfed in the molten lava.

AT ST. JOHNS.

The Condition of the Poor in the City.

HALIFAX, July 27.—The latest information from St. Johns, N. F., states that the militia still parade the streets to maintain order and prevent incendiarism which has been attempted. The condition of the poor in the burned sections is worse than that of the turned, as they are without means of subsistence and can get none of the relief contributions. They are actually trying to burn their few belongings so as to get help. Seven thousand persons are consigned into a large field, leading being the worst feature at present. There is no want of clothing or food. The coming fall and winter will, it is feared, realize a famine that succeeds the fire.

Copper Mine to Close.

HOUGHTON, Mich., July 27.—The Pewabic Copper Mining Company will close down a month, on account of the low price of copper. It is thought that other mines, which have in years past paid dividends, must close or call for assessments.

A Body Recovered.

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—The body of Carl Jordan, who was killed in the sewer explosion yesterday afternoon, was recovered from the debris of his saloon this morning. It is believed that others are still buried in the ruins of the sewer and were carried out into the river.

Relief for Flood Sufferers.

NEW ORLEANS, July 27.—A relief boat has gone with provisions for the flood sufferers along Red and Black rivers, numbering sixteen thousand.

Conspirators Executed.

SOFIA, July 27.—Mikaeff, Popoff, Gheorghieff and Karaveloff, the conspirators, found guilty of plotting against the lives of Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, and Prime Minister Stambouloff, were executed this morning.

California Democracy.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 27.—The Democratic State convention convened yesterday and nominated presidential electors and confirmed the nominations of the district conventions. The national platform and nominees were endorsed; early completion and government control of the Nicaragua canal and liberal expenditures for waterways and harbors were demanded.

The Insurrection in Tangiers.

TANGIER, July 27.—It is reported that insurgents are advancing on the city to attack the Sultan's troops. Great alarm prevails. Europeans living along the shore are flocking into the city.

The Work of a Lunatic.

PITTSBURG, Scotland, July 27.—James Francis, a lunatic, this morning attacked a sound last night, rushing into the house of a neighbor, and backing him to death, and fatally wounded the wife, who had run to the house and killed a young woman. He was captured after a desperate struggle. He is believed to be insane.

Killed in His Office.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Charles Page, of the banking firm of Page & Co., was shot in his office by one of the customers this morning and killed. The customer then shot himself dead. The cause of the murderer and suicide is unknown.

Death of John Reed.

BOSTON, July 27.—John Reed, of the old Boston Book firm Ticknor, Reed & Fields, died yesterday, aged 80. He was honored governor in 1851 and a member of Congress several times.

The Revolution in Bulgaria.

SOFIA, July 27.—The Svobodna publishes a letter in which it states was sent by the Russian government to its minister at this place, ordering him to pay $10,000 as the price of outrages connected with the plans to murder Prince Ferdinand, the ruler of Bulgaria.

Cholera Report.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 27.—According to the official bulletin, 2,533 cases of cholera and 1,172 deaths occurred in the twenty provinces of Russia on the 23rd and 24th. It is feared that the cholera will soon appear here if warmer weather continues. The death rate along the Volga is at a standstill.

TRAGEDY AT SARATOFF.

SARATOFF, July 27.—Lunatic reports 352 deaths on the 14th. The trade along the Volga is at a standstill.

Preventive Measures Not Extended.

VIENNA, July 27.—Preventive measures, ordered enforced in Western Russia, have not been executed, owing to the pressing need, although the cholera has appeared at Ekaterinoslaw, Odessa and other places. The arrangements for great railway concourses near Charkoff will be cancelled. Large quantities of disinfectants have just arrived in Constantinople for Caucasus, but cannot proceed owing to the fact that no ship can be chartered for Russian ports.

All the ports on the sea of Azoff are closed with the exception of Taganrog. It is expected that the disease will soon appear in Western Crimea.

The Body of Robert Ray Hamilton.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The body of the late Robert Ray Hamilton is on the way to this city from the West for interment. Hamilton was interred with appropriate ceremony at Hoboken (near Jackson's Hole, Uinta county, Wyoming, nearly two years ago.

A Drenching Rainstorm.

ST. PAUL, July 27.—A drenching rainstorm which began last evening lasted till this morning, and demoralized the street traffic, and not all be cleared yet. The streets were flooded and sidewalks washed away, and the streets torn up. For the twenty-four hours ending at 8 a. m., the aggregate rainfall was nearly eight inches in Minneapolis and nearly five inches here.

CROPS DESTROYED AND STOCK KILLED.

HURON, Wis., July 27.—A most destructive windand rain storm visited this section last night, lasting two hours. It was almost a cloudburst. The cellars were flooded, with much damage to goods and the crops were almost totally destroyed in the surrounding country and much stock killed by lightning. Advices from other points are to the same effect. Jesse Warren, a farmer, near New Richmond, was killed by lightning. All trains are delayed by washouts.

People's Party and Silver Men.

DENVER, July 27.—The People's State convention to assemble a full ticket and adopt a platform. R. E. Fish was temporary chairman and committees were appointed, including one of fifty to confer with the committee of the silver convention relative to a joint ticket. It is probable that such a ticket will be chosen. The silver convention meets this afternoon.

Sudden Fall of Temperature.

DENVER, July 27.—The intense heat of this section was broken at noon by a terrific thunder storm over the southeastern portion of the State. The temperature fell at 6 degrees but fell to 22 degrees.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The House received unobjectionable of the sundry civil bill. The first action was to vote on the motion made by Rockhill yesterday to reduce the appropriation for the World's Fair from $5,000,000 to $2. The motion was defeated, 90 to 115.

Action received on Bingham's motion to reconsider the Senate $5,000,000 appropriation.

Holman seeing the vote against him changed to enter his motion reconsidered. The vote was then announced, 19 for the Fair appropriation and 156 against.

Holman moved to reconsider.

Hopkins moved to lay the motion on the table. Filibustering then began. Dalzell, pending the vote on Hopkins's motion, moved to adjourn till Friday and Bailey of Texas adjourn till Saturday.

Discourteous Don't Count.

"Madam," said the street car conductor to a young lady in a big hat, "you must have a dog under your shawl, and you must leave him."

"What! Leave the cur?" exclaimed the woman. "I have paid my fare and I'm going with it right where I am."

"Dog will count as one, ma'am."

"Dog will count as you off," replied the disfigurative lady.

All at once a few point came into the woman's head. "Give me back my fare," she said. "I got to have a dog fight, and when I paid my fare such a contract was not made. I don't care either every cur or cruse my cash. I'm not responsible for your crooky conventions don't the dogs."

The street car official stopped the car and handed the woman her fare back, and the third catcher, after pondering for a few moments, observed:

"I don't to judge but I don't to pay, but I claim to have some sense.

"Under your system you might make today pass yesterday, you might put nickles or red noses or three dollar bonnets, and after they had paid their fares you the rules and call Cassius.

"There is no end to the rules you might make to make life out of their lives, and everybody would be looked upon and could turn to rule No. 101, providing that he doesn't look crooked and then drop him in the gutter.

"The thing don't fair. There ain't no law to it and it don't go."

Turning to the young woman he said: "You may stand for us, mum," and to the conductor, "If you try to put her off without giving her back her fare I'll sign your bond off."

The woman then left and on went the car, the young woman and all.—New York Herald.

A Night in a Graveyard.

Two children in Trinity churchyard, in lower Broadway, attracted a large crowd of public attention Wednesday afternoon. One was a well dressed little man, and the other was a boy of eighteen or eighteen years of age, probably a cripple, on the blind man. The boy had his companion seated on the grass and seemed side that faces the name of Charlotte Temple. Dropping on his knees at the side of the grave the blind man seemed to sleep vigorously with his head on the stone and an expression of supreme gratitude came into his countenance as the fingers touched the sacred letters of the name. The boy called his attention to this part of the play from which all of the original inscription except the name is said to have been cut.

There was a hollow place there at least 15 inches deep. It forms a basin to catch water for the birds to drink and bathe in. It was nearly full of water on Wednesday afternoon, and the blind man dabbled in the hollow pool mildly. He bended over the grave for several minutes, and became an object of curiosity moment to at least a hundred persons who stood on the sidewalk and watched him through the fence.—New York Times.

"Old Dominion."

If the ancient of some grandsire who lived in the early days of the century could materialize, and stepping down, take his place beside the native born of the good ship Constitution and a modern steam greyhound? Nevertheless, in spite of the apparent lapse of the old ship as a factor in the commerce of the world there are further there would be no necessity for an office of "Hire out," and our business would hell so far work ing out the "time-time time."

Well Ann the great Secretary of state contented herself with her personal friends who she with the strength of oak from the forest primeval, answering one as the pole star in the path of duty, and like a true woman of the old time, one rather "and "nothing" had lifted their hands from the handle thereof, the chief her master, while he, true and brave man of the olden time that he was, lived and intended her.—

The Inspection of Mills.

It has been proposed, and in some parts of the country the law already provides, that the inspection of flour mills shall be open at all times to anyone. Such inspection should be made upon instructions as to the condition and situation of mills in relation to all surrounding buildings, their proximity to stations where grain is received, the general manner, the condition of parts as to warmth and cleanliness, the kind, condition and healthfulness of the men thus which mill is charged and the sanitary condition of the place.

Inspection should be at liberty to enter on such to walking any cases suffering from chronic diseases that might be supposed to man in the use of their mills.—Youth's Companion.

Turtle Eggs.

Turtle eggs are an acquired taste with most people, although they are not so with bears. They have a tough, yellow rind and a white like any other eggs, but the yolk is much larger, and the white part will remain liquid. The line a certain dimple in the side of each one. If you squeeze it out the dimple appears on the other side, and you can never get hold of a turtle egg which doesn't and a dimple in it.—

Oil for Heavy Machinery.

For lubricating the journals of heavy machinery, either rape oil or sperm oil is the best to use in winter with mineral oil, as they have the least effect on brass and iron, which two metals generally constitute the bearing surfaces of an engine.—Age of Steel.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK.

Billy's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering the Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

We have seen taken very sick, seem to be wasting away, their skin from head to foot covered with sores, and their friends fearing they would die. We thought at times we should have to carry our little friend out of our house to save the feelings of his parents, and yet we felt we could not do so. There was not a place on his body, except his face, that was not covered with sores. We had tried everything we could think of, and had spent hundreds of dollars, but all to no purpose. We had read of the Cuticura Remedies and thought we would try them, and we did so, and we have not had a sore since. We have seen him grow from less than 50 pounds to 75 pounds, and he is now as fat as he can be
