ing before Judge Howell.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Officers Al Herriek and John Hutch-name of C. W. Kelsor, who, they believe, passed a number of bogus checks on Ogden citizens on Thursday. When arrested he was holding out another check for $11 in a second hand store on Twenty-first street. This check was similar to those passed on David Rosenthal and Jacob Kerz.

The funeral services over the remains of Louis J. Holtherr will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Fifth ward meetinghouse.

The funeral services over the remains of the late H. D. Patterson will be held tomorrow at 12 o'clock in the West Webber meetinghouse.

F. W. Jones, charged with embezzlement, was released yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus. This was for the purpose of allowing Jones to be with his wife during the funeral services of his little girl, who died Thursday night.

LOUIS J. HOLTHERR DEAD.

Louis Jensen Holtherr, a well known and highly respected resident of Ogden, died at midnight Thursday at his home 32 Twenty-eighth street, from an attack of bronchitis and a gripe, with which he had been afflicted only five days. Death claimed him before many of his friends had learned of his being ill, and the news of his demise was learned with deep sorrow. He was born at Christiania, Norway, Sept. 12, 1833.

He accepted the teachings of "Mormonism" when a young man, and emigrated to Utah in 1866, and with the exception of a year he has lived in Ogden ever since. Three times he returned to his native land to preach the Gospel, the last time five years ago. He was Grand Opera House Monday night, under the auspices of the Tabernacle taken ill, and had to return home before his mission was completed, since then his health has been poor. He was an active worker in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Fifth ward. For over 20 years he has followed the tailoring business in Ogden. The funeral services over his remains will be held at the Fifth ward meetinghouse Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His remains will be viewed at his late home on date of funeral from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

BIGGEST STORM IN 20 YEARS.

Heavy Snow in Eastern Utah—An Ice Harvest.

Special Correspondence.

Moab, Great Co., Jan. 14.—A vigorous snowfall commenced through the night of the 13th continuing till the morning of the 14th. Much of the snow melted as it fell, but the depth of snow on the ground at time of observation, 8 a. m. on the 14th, was 10 inches. The report comes from J. Dugdale, 322 West 4th St., a point 15 miles north of here, that there is 15 inches of snow and still snowing. It is the greatest storm that has been seen in this country in 20 years.

The ice harvest has started here, but team men put a stop to it for the present.

The lowest temperature during the recorded history of Moab, at the government observatory, was 4 degrees above zero, on the 25th ult.

He Wronged and Married.

Special Correspondence.

Junction, Plute Co., Jan. 12.—As the result of Jesse Haycock, of Panguitch, on the 11th inst. while suffering with the smallpox and who called at Bishop Morrell's to warm himself on the evening of Jan. 1, the yellow flags are flying at the homes of Bishop Morrell, W.
H. Luke and E. W. Price of Junction; also at Bishop Allen's at Kingston, as some of the young people were at Bishop Morrell's that evening. As yet no cases have been reported here, and the quarantine is a precautionary measure.

Mr. C. C. King, who was charged with illicit relations with Miss Anna Clark, and who so unexpectedly married the girl some time back, seems to have now completed the scheme concocted to escape the penalty of the law.
He is understood to have married that some of Mr. King's relatives had advised him to marry the girl, get the case dismissed, then desert his wife and skip the country. Day before yesterday Mr. King's relatives were waiting about town for her husband, as he was missing. Mr. Collins says King has left the country, and that he, Collins, is to look after the few head of cattle, team, and farm in King's absence.
Before leaving King mortgaged his farm.

LUND, NEVADA.

CASPER F. BRYNER DEAD.

Prominent Young Citizen and Church Worker Succumbs to Paralysis.

Special Correspondence.

Lund, White Pine Co., Nev., Jan. 9.—On the 8th of January Casper F. Bryner, one of our most respected citizens, died very suddenly of paralysis, at his home in Lund, White Pine county. He was about 35 years of age, and came here from Price, Emery county, Utah, to assist in the colonization of the White river settlements. He leaves a wife and a small child to mourn his demise. His labors here have been somewhat varied, and generally successful. He purchased land and engaged in farming, his inclination being toward stock raising. He was engaged in other labors, but he was some at the carpenter's trade and also did some of the most important work in the mercantile business and conducting the affairs of the Lund Co-op. very successfully.

He was an untiring church worker, and at the time of his death was first assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, and also a member of the Religion class work. He has also acted as a ward teacher and held the position of counselor in the M. M. I. A. of our ward, which position he filled creditably. During his residence here he has acted as an agent for the Benevolent work to increase the circulation in the ward.

The whole community is cast into gloom over his sad and sudden death and extend sympathy to his grief-stricken wife and family.

ALONG SWAR-OFF.

Russell Sage thinks that smoking is a bad habit.

"I overheard one day," he said recently, "a conversation that delighted me. It was a conversation between a young man and his wife. He appeared to be a rather extravagant and fellow. She appeared to be economical, industrious and ambitious.
"The wife was trying to urge the husband to give up smoking. She was pointing out to him how much, in the course of a year, he spent on tobacco.
She was showing him that mentally, physically and financially he would be better off without his pipe."
"But all great men have smoked," he grumbled.

"Well," she answered, "if you'll give up smoking until you're gray, I'll be quite satisfied."

missing from Murray since payday.
On that day he collected considerable

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Ed Weaver met a shocking death in the sampling mill of the American Smelter on Monday last. While engaged in cleaning a revolving shaft, loose jacket which he moved was caught by a set screw in the shaft. In an instant he was whirling about the shaft so fast his fellow workmen could scarcely see his body while it was being battered about among the machinery. The machinery was stopped and the unfortunate man was taken out.
Although he lived one hour after being rescued, it was apparent from the first that death was inevitable.

GAMBLING PROHIBITED.

For some time past gambling has been carried on in Brigham Junction with a free hand, but on Thursday last

GRAZING ON THE
FOREST RESERVES.

Supervisor James E. Meeks Sets Forth Some Interesting Information on Subject.

HOW TO GET TIMBER PERMITS.

Companies, Saw Mills and Corporations, However, Will be Denied The Privileges of Settlers.

To the Editor.

Department of the Interior, General Land Office, Murray, Jan. 12.—The Salt Lake forest reserve is located principally in Salt Lake county. It includes the range of mountains lying east of the city and valley and covers the water sheds of Mill Creek, Big Cottonwood creek and Little Cottonwood creek, and scattering small areas on the water sheds of City Creek, Emigration and Parley's canyons. Its area is approximately 77,320 acres in the main reserve and 12,120 acres in the sectional additions.

The government's object in creating the Salt Lake forest reserve is to protect the watersheds of the different streams within its limits and thus insure a more regular and permanent supply of water for the use of the people of the valley and the City of Salt Lake.

The people almost universally approve of its creation. The reserve shows to have been well forested at one time but owing to the lack of enforcement of government regulations most of the merchantable timber has been culled out.

On the most part the merchantable timber now remaining is clustered near the top of the gigantic peaks overshadowing the valley on the east.

The foremost duty of the forest officer is to protect the young timber and thus insure a reproduction of the forest.

Timber is a much needed product and the success of Utah's industries depends largely upon the protection and growth of forest reserves. The capability of the Salt Lake forest reserve in the future is of greater importance than its present condition.

On application to the supervisor, settlers living in the vicinity of the reserve may be allowed free use of timber, permits for fuel, posts, poles and other building materials to be used on applicants' own premises. This permit is granted as a privilege and not as a right. It may be denied to any person. Companies, corporations, sawmills and other establishments are refused "free use" permits and are expected to buy all timber they desire from reserve lands. The government insists upon the utilization of dead timber where it is possible, especially when it constitutes in its decaying condition a dangerous menace to the growing forest in case of fire.

On Dec. 15, 1904, the secretary of the interior decided that not more than 2,000 head of cattle and horses may graze in the Salt Lake forest reserve during the season of 1905. The length of the grazing season to be determined by the supervisor. This allowance of 2,000 head was made for the purpose of covering all legitimate demands of those who have been in the habit of using the reserve lands for cattle and horse grazing. This reserve having been created to conserve the water supply, no more stock will be allowed to graze there than is necessary to meet the actual needs of those who have been in the habit of using it, and if the number of stock is less than 2,000 no applications will be approved by the supervisor for the purpose of filling the quota of 2,000. Sheep are absolutely prohibited in the reserve and will not be allowed in it under any circumstances.

I shall visit each town in the neighborhood of the reserve during the next 30 days for the purpose of receiving grazing applications, that all parties desiring grazing privileges may have an opportunity to submit their applications.

All applications should be on file at my office before Feb. 15, 1905.

Very respectfully,
JAMES E. MEEKS,
Forest Supervisor,
Murray, Utah, residence Bishop Miller's.
