THE EVENING NEWS.

Thursday, : : May 6, 1875.

THE BONNY HANDS THAT MAKE GOOD BREAD.

BY SAMUEL EAGER.

I own the charms of rounded arms,
Of eyes that love's soft lustre shed,
Of raven hair and tresses fair,
Of cheeks that vie with white and red;
Of pouting lips where Cupid dips
The arrows that to hearts are sped,
Yet none of these my fancy please
Like the bonny hands that make good bread.

Some hands have art to move the heart
By waking music's sweet appeal;
Some borrow dies from perfect skies,
And through the canvas make us feel.
Some make the dress fair forms caress,
To win the heart and turn the head;
For me, more rare, beyond compare,
Are the bonny hands that make good bread.

Gay maiden, vain! the rustling train,
Those jeweled hands so idly crossed,
That idler mind can pleasure find
In every hour ignobly lost.
Your jewels shine, your looks are fine,
But I'll not seek, whene'er I wed,
For jeweled hands, or gold and lands,
But for bonny hands that make good bread.

—Eastern Paper.

Our Social Evil.

Judge Finletter deserves credit for speaking out plainly and boldly in his charge to the jury in the Perpente case upon the frightful crime for which the defendants in this case were indicted. The subject is one that people usually do not like to talk about. They have a vague idea that the crime is terribly prevalent, and occasionally when the evil is forced upon their attention by some case like the present, they demand that something be done to check it; but no one cares to go very deeply into the subject, and the few who venture to speak plainly upon it must expect to be rebuked by the many who think that crime may be abated by covering it up and assuming ignorance of it. And all this time the poison is at work, weakening and threatening death to our social system. Abortion and infanticide grow every year more common, and men and women carry on their work of death more boldly and openly. The very newspapers that enter many homes contain the flaunting advertisements of professional abortionists, and scarcely a week passes that these papers do not record the death of some poor, foolish woman who has, in sacrificing the life of her offspring by the vile arts of these people, paid the penalty with her own. But nothing is done. We have laws enough, but they have never been enforced. Arrests are made, but prosecutions have not followed. The abortionists' trade has enjoyed an actual immunity, if not a virtual protection, and its terrible results have grown more apparent from day to day.

The crime of fœticide is not confined to those whom we call the unfortunate and the outcast; it is not resorted to only to cover or escape the consequence of illicit passion. The case is far worse than this, and we only temporize with crime in pretending to shut our eyes to it. So called reformers may give us reasons and excuses without number, and we would not have society shut its ears to what they say; but still the awful fact remains that human lives are daily sacrificed to selfishness, and the pride and glory of maternity is becoming obsolete among us. This is the real evil, the great and growing evil that we have to meet. It is undermining the whole social fabric of this country, the safety of the family, the sacredness of married life, and weakening every moral bond that holds society together. We must not, dare not, shut our eyes to it, or cease to battle against it with every weapon that knowledge, civilization, religion or law will put into our hands. The nation whose mothers trifle with infant life is without a future. —Philadelphia Times.

KISSING IN CHINA.—It is a singular fact that the custom of kissing is altogether unknown in China. The Chinese, indeed have no word expressing love as we understand the passion. An American navy officer voyaging China-wards narrates an amusing experience of the ignorance of the Chinese maidens of the science of kissing. Wishing to complete a conquest he had made of a young mei jin (beautiful lady) he invited her—using the English words—to give him a kiss. Finding her comprehension of his request somewhat obscure, he suited the action to the word and took a delicious kiss. The girl ran away into another room, thoroughly alarmed, exclaiming, "Terrible man-eater, I shall be devoured." But in a moment finding herself uninjured by the salute, she returned to his side saying: "I would learn more of your strange rite. Ke-e-es me." He knew it wasn't "right," but he kept on instructing her in the rite of "ke-e es me" until she knew how to do it like a native Yankee girl; and after all that she suggested a second course by remarking, "Ke-e-es me some more seen jine Mee lee-kee!" [Anglice—American], and the lesson went on until her mamma's voice rudely awakened them from their delicious dream.—Ex.

Double-Elastic

STEEL PENS

Were sold in 1874, being a gain of more than 1,000,000 over the year previous; this, with the marked increase in the sales of the other numbers, shows that the superior qualities of these Pens are being more and more appreciated, and that they are destined to take their place as the most popular Steel Pens in the market. They are made of the best steel by the most skilful workmen in Europe, and a common approximation to the real Spencerian Quill action than anything of the kind hitherto invented.

The Spencerian Steel Pens are universally used in the Commercial Colleges throughout the U. S., more largely than any others by the United States Government, and quite generally by the Banks, Counting Houses and Schools of the country, and are for sale by the trade generally.

To gain for the Spencerian superiority over all others in durability, elasticity, flexibility and in evenness of point.

 The Spencerian Pens are comprised in 16 numbers, varying in flexibility and fineness of point, and, for the convenience of those who may wish to try them, we will send a CARD containing A SAMPLE OF EACH NUMBER by mail, securely inclosed, on receipt of 25 cents.
