

shows that there had been a decline in the receipts the last half of the year of $4,000 marks, compared with the preceding half year's receipts. The single tax, however, has increased from $100,000 to $150,000 marks. The decline in receipts from these articles of consumption is taken as proof that the people are already overburdened by taxation. The single tax group in the Chamber, which hitherto has been a strenuous proponent of the military method of the government, have withdrawn on the same grounds. Declining the Polish vote the Minutemen feel confident that they can carry the majority of the state with their present electorate.

Some of Bannister's latest statements are summarized as follows: The Polish Bells call them important relatives. His assertions of the late Emperor William wanted to be king of Saxony in 1848, and that Moltke urged the invasion of France in 1870 are both questioned. Among the stories Bannister tells is one about the Hungarian agent who, in 1848, came to the United States to speak for the revolutionaries, and who is said to have gone to Europe with half a dozen revolutionaries and assassins and other members of the presidential government. Then the Emperor was to be removed from France, and the empire was to be established. Bannister believes the project possible, but refused to agree to the scheme, thinking monarchical France more dangerous to peace than a republic.

Newspapers concur in the expression of regret at the anticipated character of his utterances. One paper, in an article on the army bill, frankly states that to the extent that war is threatened, it will be utilized to help Austria, save the army will be mobilized, she would be too easily assisted by Italy who would be unable to assist France and who would have great difficulty in getting her own troops from the French fleet. Major Klein, a military writer, estimates that war is inevitable. Increased taxation for strengthening the army will be a curse, says the paper, and the nation will be compelled to contract by an unanimous war. Both writers admit the immense advance in the military power of France and minimize the value of an alliance with Austria and Italy.

With the approach of winter distress among the poor becomes more clamorous. The man who collected in one of the poor quarters threatened to pilfer the stores. They threw a pail over him into the canal, whereupon a body of men, who were on their way to the streets, passed him and crossed the street. Postmen saved the agent. A large number of arrests were made.

CRUSHED IN THE ICE.

Adventure of the Whaling Bark Hellen Mar.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—The whaling bark Hellen Mar was crushed in the ice October 6th and thirty-five of the crew were lost. Only five were saved.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 6.—The officers of the bark Hellen Mar, captured in the Arctic region, were as follows: E. C. Thacker, master; W. H. Estes, first mate; W. V. Hasty, second mate; John Miles, third mate; John O'Hara, fourth mate; William Ward, fifth mate; Antonio Laith, Antonio Panganile, Louis Antone and Frank Birch and C. Nelson, boatmen; Willis Smith, steward; Amos Miskell, and G. C. Parker, carpenter. The wife of Captain Thacker, who was a native of St. Helena, recently arrived in this city, where she expected to meet her husband on his return from the north.

Germany Must be Armed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Herald's Berlin correspondent cables as follows: "The same high political authority whose opinions on the army bill I called yesterday gave me another interview. He thinks that the majority of the measures of its international policy are correct. The army bill proves directly that we can no longer trust our allies. We are required to arm to the teeth as though war were imminent."

Hannover Makes a Speech.

Bremen, Nov. 5.—Under the auspices of the Hanover Republicans club tonight, Hon. Theodore Roosevelt made a speech. Rev. Edward Everett Hale presided and made the opening address.

A Tragedy occurs.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Twelve hundred police concentrated in and about Trafalgar square today for the purpose of watching a gathering of unemployed workmen who had come to demand employment in the square. Instead of the crowd expected not more than 200 people were present. The affair was a complete fizzle.

Debt and Reid.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—In all its many historic years, the large hall of Cooper Union was never so densely packed as this evening when a mass meeting was held under the auspices of the Republi- can party. The hall was filled to overflowing. The speaker used was the oratorical speaker, Chauncey M. Depew and Willoughby Hall addressed an audience of 50,000 persons at the large auditorium in Prohibition park theater.

WHERE THEY ARE.

Changes Made in the Polling Places Since Last Election.

There have been several changes in the location of the polling places since last election. This year they are as follows:

The first precinct polling place is at the exposition building on Ninth East street, instead of the Ninth Ward school house. The second precinct polling place is at Independent hall, just west of Walker Street & Walker's store.

The third precinct polling place is at the Burlington school, corner of Third and H streets, instead of the Twelfth Ward school house as heretofore.

Sunday Saloon Business.

Saloons were open in all parts of the city yesterday, and many of them did a large business. There were 100 saloons remaining in and out of the saloon on day. The proprietors of the drug stores, however, were unimpaired, and a politico store was made.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Religious services were held at the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Sunday, November 6th, 1892, commencing at 2 o'clock p.m., President Angus M. Cannon presiding.
