Burglars at Work in American Fork, Utah.

BIG BEAR STORY FROM BRIGHAM.

Land Operations in Idaho.—Rexburg Townsite Declared Cancelled.

American Fork Independent—Wednesday night safe blowers entered the Union Pacific depot and wrecked the city-generous safe. They did not get anything of value. Several hundred dollars was sent away the previous day and those the thieves were looking. Station Agent Black was aware of the weak points of the safe and was in the habit of hiding money under lumber piles during the day and remitting it every evening. The depot was in a demoralized condition next day; papers and tickets were scattered all over the floor, and every drawer was ransacked. No clue can be found to the perpetrators.

Elmore, Idaho, Bulletin—Last Saturday, while Mrs. J. T. Gilman and Mrs. H. Swadkins, of this place, were returning from a visit to Mr. Melton's ranch on the South Boise River, they met an experience that will not soon be effaced from their memories. They occupied a road cart with one horse attached, and when within a few feet of the top of Green's grade the animal became unmanageable and backed off the road, precipitating the ladies, cart and horse down the steep bluff to the river below, a distance of 75 feet or more. The horse was almost instantly killed and the cart badly wrecked, but the ladies miraculously escaped serious injury. Mrs. Swadkins received several severe bruises, and has been kept confined to her room, but her companion was quite fortunate, escaping with but slight injuries. The stage fortunately came along soon after the occurrence, and Charlie Grim, the driver, and Judge Golden, a passenger, rendered the ladies all the assistance in their power.

Weiser, Idaho, Signal—Settlers in the Calispel Valley in northern Idaho are alarmed over the menacing attitude of the Indians in that section. Moses, chief of the Calispels, it is reported, has ordered all of the white settlers out of the country and the Indians are running off the settlers' stock and others are annoying the whites. General Gatlin, commander of the Fourth Infantry, now in camp in Spokane, has been urged to take measures of precaution. He has sent for Indian Agent Hal Cole, who will arrive here in the morning. Troops of cavalry, under command of General Gatlin, are ready for marching orders and may start tomorrow for the scene of disturbance. The Calispel Valley is isolated and all supplies have to be sent in by pack trains.

Brigham Bugler—A monster grizzly was killed last Friday in the mountains east of Manila. He weighed about 800 pounds. Before he was finally finished he came near "doing up" two young men of Manila. Hyrum Ipsen and John M. Jensen were on hunting. They came upon unusually large tracks of a bear, which they traced through brush, until and snow for nearly three miles, the animal leaving a blanket of scrub oak in his wake. When, finally, they suddenly heard the cracking of dry willows, and before they could bring their guns to their shoulders, a huge, fierce bear sprang out of the clump almost upon them. Fortunately for the boys he was killed in his second bound toward them, by a shot which struck his right ear. The ball entered his ear, when he fell to the ground, doubled up and died almost at their feet. Their position would have been an extremely perilous one, had not the second lucky shot have killed the big grizzly stone dead.

Idaho News—General Land Commissioner Carter has cancelled the townsite of Rexburg and South End and ordered Judge Stevens, probate judge, to relinquish 162 acres thereof as being in excess of the acreage allowed by law for townsite purposes, said relinquishment to be made within the next sixty days. Following this, Mr. A. Robitham has filed papers of contest thereon in the land office at Blackfoot. This will be startling news to our neighbors in the quiet town of Rexburg, who, of late, have been possessing their souls in peace and, as they believed, in perfect security and possession of their homes.

Idaho News—A private letter received at Blackfoot yesterday from United States Senator Fred T. Dubois at Washington, gives the glad news that General Land Commissioner Carter had ordered the survey of Fort Hall Indian reservation, with a view of allotting the lands in severalty to the Indians and opening the unallotted to settlement. This is good news to the citizens of Idaho. Fort Hall reservation contains about two and a quarter million acres of land, and this at present is held and occupied by about 1000 Indians, including men, women and children.

Pearl Diving Today.

The pearl diver is no longer the romantic and daring figure painted by the poets. He is a submarine laborer using the modern diving machinery. Dressed in the primeval fashion and holding of the breath for forty or sixty seconds, the diver now, with glass fronted helmet, rubber suit and air tube, goes down into the depths and stays there for hours. A boat with an air pump follows the diver.

The Mobegitics nacquettites is not valuable alone for the sparse pearls it secretes, but for the shells. From the shells sold for manufacturing purposes the principal profits are derived. But three are pearls lost. In three months about $15,000 worth of pearls are gathered. The pearls are graded into nine classes. The lower grades are the most numerous. In 1887, shells at moderate depths having been all taken, the pearl fishery languished. Twelve fathoms for the diver was the extreme limit. Today, the appliance being efficient, the deepest waters can be searched.

In thirty fathoms Captain Tanner, on the Alistoria, dredged pearl shells, and perhaps there are new grounds discoverable. In the Bay of Malaga, near Los Cayetos, were found, toward the close of the last century, pearls which afterward formed the culberite of the queen of Spain. A pearl of twenty eight grains was found a few years ago, and was sold in Paris for 50,000 francs.

USEFUL ARRANGEMENTS.

Plan for Storing Horses—Right and Wrong Ways of Making Trenches.

A well-known farmer, who evidently intends to get the most and most information out of his land and who believes in imparting the same to fellow workmen, sends to The Farm Journal the following:

"I saw at a farmer's institute in Pennsylvania the excellent arrangement here, with illustration. He had a boiling house, built in the form of a shanty, and then fastened into a framework in two rows. One end of a manger is set long ways."

In the same journal John M. Bond discusses the subject of storing of forages. "I find the most economical trenches are those made from posts. I use pine plank two inches thick. The plank just contains six feet of "total stance," or boys stacks. The necessary effectiveness of a trough especially depends upon the way in which it is made. Two drawings will show best and quickest the right and the wrong way. Leaving one part from another inside the trough tighter, and if to be so shown in Fig. 1, but not as shown in Fig. 2, the trough will be made much stronger and more durable. The bottom is let into the side also. Nails or screws by hand to be set in. Let them against the plank to be screwed, make a mark close to each edge, and then saw just a little inside of each mark, so the groove is a little narrower than the edge to be fitted in it. Saw a long quarter of an inch deep and then only cut the sawed with a chisel, making the groove of the same depth throughout. Paint the grooves and edge with thick paint before screwed paint is changed and bolt-tightened or get together.

"In Fig. 1 the cut saw is the end piece let into the bottom, the center is not in concluding that the better way is to let the end of the bottom into the end piece. The bolts should be of iron, so that back in diameter. With the grooves they will hold the trough well together and no nails should be used. Such a trough is durable. I have one that has been in constant use for fourteen years. I have a hole in the bottom of every trough and it is with a perforated plug. Then the water can be let out on running water. If a good, tarred string is tied to the end of the plug and fastened to the top of the trough, the plug will not be lost, and one will not have occasion to reach into cold water to pull out the plug. It pays to have plenty of good troughs about the farm. Finally, cover material is required, compared with capacity, for V shaped troughs than for square ones."

Effect of Dress Shoes on the Feet.

The foolish expression of one is always greatly affected by its occupation. Dirty bonnet and high pumps for comely women, the fear of the sickness, high moments and a moral, temperate life is always marked by the benevolent, self disciplined look. A bright, that does is other attractive time a handsome but expressionless face and too can't—obtained by always being cheerful and happy.

Beauty in woman is often the mobile, expressive face, which very few have to lose, even if they do affection. It looks expression and firmness, and this is due to the tyrannous, ill-merited, orderly life which they lead. If they had a proper to this, combined a knowledge of proper time with, were to be enabled the arts and women, your face would take on a very different appearance. It would possess that indescribable grace and attraction which respect more than all of the simple gifts of nature.

Occupation makes the face, and are always necessary it daily. If the work is trying and disagreeable it is very likely to make one irritable, and a worried, harassed, hopeless facial expression will accordingly take itself on the face. Be wary of it.—Vogue Bride.

Forever it Before Leaving Home.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass County, Iowa and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place for the past thirty-five years. On the 25th of last May, while in Des Moines, en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of diarrhoea. Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. For sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept.

3000 pounds beeswax wanted at Johnson & Pratt's drug store.
