NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Cold-Blooded Assassination Occurs at Lower Dearie, Cal.

A SKELETON FOUND AT DENVER

An Officer's Peculiar Experience with a Prisoner.—Sad Death of a Baby.—Killed on the Railroad.

John Ryan, formerly postmaster at Pike City, Nevada, for the last few years engaged in prospecting, was found dead in his bed on Thursday.

Peter Jones, eighteen years of age, white laborer, lay on a northbound freight train near Tracy, Cal., while getting out of an open car, yet was not discovered by the crew. He was a Mexican.

While Eugene Rose was working in the field the other day, says the Lodi Sentinel, he dug up a last year's sugar beet. On cutting it open he found the inside filled with very sweet syrup, which fills the entire interior of the beet.

Extreme precautions have been taken in Provo, Utah, in a more or less successful effort to capture those who set fire to the Mormon Tabernacle. An account of these precautions appears in the Provo Dispatch, which says: "Our Provo correspondent telegraphs us that the Provo Dispatch office was entered by some one last night and the office set on fire. The fire was discovered by some one who was passing and the alarm given. The fire was soon extinguished and the office was saved with little or no damage. The fire was evidently set with the intention of burning the office, and the matter is being investigated by the officers of the law."

Justice Bond, president of the State Bank of Cortland, Institute county, Neb., which was robbed of several weeks ago, was arrested Thursday night on a warrant charging him with accepting deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent. He gave bonds for his appearance August 15. The affairs of the bank are said to be in a bad condition, with collectable assets in only some cases against deposits of nearly $70,000.

The Silver-mouthed daughter of Policeman Dixon, at Pueblo, Colo., got hold of a box of one-grain morphine pellets and swallowed several of them. The mother found the child with the box, and counting the pills, thought she had not taken any of them. Soon after, they went to spend the remainder of the day with a relative, and shortly after arriving there the child gave evidence of having taken some of the pills. A physician was sent for and worked with the child for several hours, but she died the same night.

A young man who gave the name of C. H. Harris, and who drives a delivery wagon for the Wasatch laundry, has been accidentally shot, says the Salt Lake Herald. It seems that Harris was driving along Second South street west of Main, and was handling a revolver which he thought was not loaded, when the weapon was discharged. The bullet entered the fleshy part of the right leg, between the hip and knee, and came out two inches below the knee. The wound although not serious is painful.

A Chinese highbinder murder was committed in Oakland on Thursday. The shooting occurred at a Chinese lodging-house. The highbinder escaped after the shooting and the dead man was taken to the morgue. Three highbinders from San Francisco were noticed lurking about the jute mills Tuesday. It is said that a price had been placed on the murdered man's head and the three assassins plotted his death. They finally disappeared and it was thought that they returned to San Francisco. Shortly after noon Thursday a single highbinder went to the Chinese lodgings at the jute mills and demanded entrance at the door of the house. A Chinese inside went to the door, but failed to open it quickly enough to suit the intruder, who fired four shots through the wood, killing the man inside instantly.

One of the Denver city relief gangs, while grading on West Colfax avenue Thursday, uncovered a skeleton. It was buried in an upright position, as though cropped feet first down a hole. A workman's shovel came in contact with the skull. Ex-Alderman Jones, who is the foreman over the gang, had the remains gathered up and placed in a box. They were examined by Dr. Robertson, who there was little of the bony structure left that the doctor was not even able to say whether the departed was a man or woman, white or Indian. The body must have been buried many years ago. It was impossible to tell whether death was from violence or natural causes. The bones were placed in a box and quietly buried again near where they were found. Old residents, familiar with the vicinity of West Colfax avenue, are unable to recollect of anyone being put under ground there.

On Wednesday evening a cold-blooded assassination occurred at Lower Dearie, one mile east of Monrovia, Calif., which is liable to remain a mystery for all time. At the time mentioned five men were seated about a table standing outside a house under some shade trees. About the table were the proprietor of the place, his wife, two nephews and Pedro Lancarino, an Italian, who has been employed on the ranch for over two years. Pedro occupied a seat almost opposite to and in direct line with the door of the house. An ordinary lantern was suspended over the table. Pedro was the only one at work. The party was enjoying a repast when suddenly a rifle shot was heard, and almost instantly Pedro fell forward on the table. An investigation was made at once, and it was found that he had been shot in the back, the bullet passing through and lodging just under the skin at the pit of the stomach. He lived for two hours, when he breathed his last without uttering a word. The shot came from the corner of the house, and it is thought that the bullet was intended for the proprietor, and not for Pedro, who is generally liked in that section, and has no known enemy.

On Thursday Sergeant Avon of Fort Francisco had a peculiar experience, which might have ended disastrously. On the arrival of the Los Angeles express Deputy Sheriff Jameson brought a prisoner en route to San Quentin. He turned him over to the sergeant, who is stationed at the Market street ferries for safekeeping while he went to see a friend. The unmanly had been taken from the prisoner. The sergeant is a cautious officer, and he objected to the prisoner being unmanned. It is well he did so, for in a few minutes the story came out that the prisoner was no albino from the Sierra Pinoso, convicted of rape in Los Angeles county and sentenced to penal servitude at San Quentin for twenty years. On the steamboat he was taken across the bay and safely lodged in the penitentiary which is to be his future home. Of the train robbery from Los Angeles the prisoner made a daring attempt to escape. With his legs bound he succeeded in reaching the platform of the car without the knowledge of his keeper, who thinking him safe when shackled, was taking a quiet smoke. Two women behind himself of the prisoner. When the train was near Anderson and going at a rate of thirty miles an hour he jumped or was pushed off by the women at his request. An alarm was sounded by a passenger who saw what had taken place. The engineer pulled the bell cord and the train was stopped and backed to the spot where the prisoner was lying on the ground. He was captured without resistance. Strange to say Parson was uninjured.

FRANKLIN, VERMONT, Oct. 1, 1891.
PUTNAM NAIL CO., Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen: Inclosed find order for one case of nails. I have used the Putnam Nail for the last two years, and find it the most reliable nail in the market. I do not shoe any other but to be sure that the Putnam Nail Company will not disappoint me. Which shoe and nail is good? This is what they say, and answer for themselves.
Very respectfully yours,
Chas. Marvin

The Putnam Nail is the only exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammer-Pointed nail.

Look in your smith's shoeing box, if the nails have smooth edges for the whole length they are the PUTNAM, for they are Hammer-Pointed and are not sheared.

The above letter from a celebrated driver, Mr. Marvin, is one of hundreds received by the Putnam Nail Co. Ask your smith for Putnams, and take no other. Will not work in the North of a fair size, and the Putnam Nail Co. will supply, on receipt of 50 c. and name of this paper, one pattern of any size desired.
