SHAME AND SUICIDE.

A Woman of The Town Ends Her Life in the City Jail.

Between 6 and 7 o'clock last night, Lena Morris, a young woman who has been leading a life of shame for the past two years in this city, and who appeared to be perfectly familiar with the thirty paths of vice when she arrived here, was arrested by Officer Davis and taken to the police station and locked up on a charge of prostitution. Six hours later she was found cold and lifeless in bed at the side of Frankie Eddies, a woman of the same stripe.

When the Morris woman was arrested she was somewhat under the influence of liquor and was placed in the ward for female prisoners with Frankie Eddies and Cora Stacey. Eddies is known as a notorious thief, and had a bottle of the drug in her possession. The women soon became familiar with each other. Miss Morris threatened to commit suicide, but was persuaded temporarily to do nothing of the kind. It seems that the other women watched her squirming apart, awhile and while Cora Stacey made an effort with a piece of glass to sever one of the arteries of the wrist. The wounds produced, however, were very slight and caused the loss of but little blood. Her companions again took up a favor with her and succeeded in dissuading her idea of the self-destruction crime. They were successful for the time being only, as during the night Morris got hold of Eddie's morphine and swallowed enough of it to put her to sleep—the sleep that has no waking in mortality. She lay at the side of Eddies until midnight, when the latter ascertained that she had been dealing with a corpse and she was badly frightened. She rang up a Sun scribe that brought the officers out of the jailhouse where the dead woman was removed and taken to the morgue, where Coroner Taylor held an inquest this afternoon.

At the Beach Resorts.

The Odd Fellows were very much in evidence at Saltair today and the pendulum of fraternal feeling and general joviality swung back and forth with steady stroke through the day. A good program was arranged for and rendered to the satisfaction of all.

Tomorrow is Mutual Improvement day at Saltair and the enterprising committee having the general arrangements in hand promise an entertainment of the highest order. Tickets will be issued by M. de Veda Pratt and Judge Pyper with numerous other features, musical and otherwise.

The Irish-Americans claim they had one of the most pleasant outings at Saltair yesterday in the history of their society. It was fairly well patronized as to numbers.

The ancient order of Foresters of America will give their first annual excursion to Saltair Wednesday, August 22d. Vocal selections by the Vocal Glee club, conducted by Prof. Daynes. The dancing program will be under the management of Prof. Younger, introducing the Flora dance and other costume and fancy dances.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 16.

AN EMINENT JURIST HERE.

Judge Jackson, of the Supreme Court of the United States, in Salt Lake.

Salt Lake is honored today with the presence of Associate Justice Howell Jackson, of the Supreme court of the United States. He reached here Sunday evening, coming direct from the coast in a special car.

He is accompanied by a party consisting of Mrs. Jackson, two daughters, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Louise, his son, William H. Jackson, Mrs. Nathaniel Baxter, Miss Baxter and Dr. J. P. Drane. During their stay in Salt Lake the distinguished party are the guests of Judge Judd, who is an old time friend of Judge Jackson. They were to go out to Saltair on the 4:10 train this afternoon. "I believe," said Judge Judd, "that Judge Jackson for more than thirty years. He is one of the very best lawyers in the United States and no mistake was made in naming him for the exalted position he occupies. There is not a man on the Supreme bench who is his superior. Not more than one or two are his equals."

The Judge is traveling for his health during the summer vacation and is, unfortunately, considerably indisposed at present. Tomorrow afternoon, according to present arrangements, he will call on the First Presidency and visit the Tabernacle and grounds. He will probably remain here about three days. Judge Judd is arranging a reception to his honor so that he can be met by members of the bar before leaving his departure for the East.

Judge Jackson is a native Tennessean, and a grandson of Andrew Jackson. From his early childhood he has been prominent in the public affairs of the South, and was elected to the legislature of his own state, served two terms in the Supreme Bench of Tennessee, and was United States senator from 1881 to 1887.

BACK FROM YOKOHAMA.

Mr. C. E. Jennings Left Dr. Benedict and Son There and Came Home.

Mr. C. E. Jennings, familiarly known as "Dick," was seen on the street this morning, much to the surprise of his friends and acquaintances, who believed that he was completing his tour around the world with Dr. Benedict and his son.

Asked for an account of his travels, Mr. Jennings replied that he had very little to say further than that he left San Francisco with the doctor and his son on the City of Peking, June 7, and on the 24th of the same month reached Yokohama, after an uneventful voyage. They arrived there just one of two days after the American steamers had left out of port. As to the war, that, he said, was a strong topic of conversation for about ten days, when the subject was suddenly dropped and peace was supposed to prevail. He then went to Nagasaki, a distance of 1,000 miles, which was covered in eleven days. He arrived there he was astonished when he picked up a paper and learned for the first time that 2,000 Chinamen had been sent to the bottom of the sea in a naval engagement with the sturdy little Japs. At Vancouver the boat was interned and he remained there for three days, when he set sail for home.

When questioned concerning Dr. Benedict he said: "I left the doctor in Yokohama. He is determined to complete his trip around the world and is due in Naples, Italy, on the 22nd of this month. He is feeling well and expects to get home in time to eat his Christmas dinner, after start on starting out. I would have liked to have gone on but the weather was altogether too hot for me, and so I came back."

HAYING AND HARVESTING.

Promising Potato Crop—Sugar Beets Growing—A Warm and Seasonable Week.

A summary of Observer Salisbury's weather and crop report for the past week is as follows:

The weather of the week was warm and seasonable. In the northern counties somewhat more rain fell. According to the majority of reports the week was favorable for growing crops, as well as for haying and harvesting. The latter continues to progress, some being still much late wheat to cut. The early fall grain that has been thinned has given a very satisfactory yield, fifteen to twenty bushels per acre on dry land. Grain not yet ready for cutting appears to be filling well. The rains have improved corn, and the potato crop is very promising. Sugar beets are beginning to thrive in Utah county. The force crop this year appears to be about the average, although not uniform in yield. Generally the second crop has been cut in a few places, only the first. There is a prospect of a good third crop in favorable sections. Will hay be cleared this year, and considerable land left to rot or be cut. As a rule, only a small portion of the crop has been applied by rain.

DAIRY AT MILLVILLE.

A Prosperous and Beneficial Home Industry.

On the 13th inst. a correspondent of the News happened to be in Millville, Cache county, and accepted an invitation to inspect the dairy at that place of which Lorenzo Hansen, Esq., a noted cheese maker, is manager. The plant is new and modern, and is located at a point convenient to a large number of farms in the neighborhood. It has a daily capacity of 800 pounds of cheese, and another dairy, also under Mr. Hansen's management, located at Wellsville, a few miles distant, and about the same capacity.

Mr. Hansen purchases milk from 204 farmers, and his cheese wagon can be met with as far Hinckman. He pays seventy cents per hundred pounds, a price which makes quite lucrative the industry of producing milk, provided it is properly manufactured into cheese. The reporter saw there 204 farmers carts from the sale of milk is "quite an item" in the course of a year.

There was on hand at the Millville dairy about three pounds of beautiful cheese, all cream cheese, the only kind produced, and Mr. Hansen said that a similar quantity was on hand at the Wellsville dairy. He gave a cheese to report became shining the satisfactorily and lady of Logan, and more cheese into Utah. Many farmers within reach of these dairies of Millville and Wellsville are seeing their cows to haven gradually to increasing the number of cows they will keep, and Mr. Hansen expects to double the capacity of the dairy at Millville next year.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, Aug. 16, 1894.

BEAR TRAPPING.

The Exciting Experiences of a Young Sheepherder.

The trapping of bears in Logan canyon is becoming quite a business. The trappers spoken of last week as having caught seven more since added two skins to their pile. Some sheepherders have also been trapping near the head of Spring Hollow in the upper part of Logan canyon, and have caught several. One of the herders is a boy about fifteen years of age, who sell a great deal of curiosity about bears, never having had the privilege of inspecting one at close range. A few months since his parents in this direction were fairly satisfied. On going to the trap he found that boy and captured a large brown cinnamon, which was accompanied by two cubs. The boy knew the length of time which by which the trap was fastened, and without fear walked up quite close. The animal growled at him but he stepped up still closer. It happened that the trap had not caught her by the foot, but that the teeth in the jaws had penetrated the skin on her belly. When she became thoroughly enraged she charged at the boy and the skin gave way. In a few bounds she caught him and struck him one blow on the thick part of the thigh that knocked him about fifteen feet, and into an almost ice cold stream of water from a nearby spring. The boy dared not move in fear of another attack, so was compelled to await freeze. One of his companions witnessed the occurrence from a distance and hastened to the rescue, but it was some time before he could get a good shot without having the boy in direct line with the course of the bullet. As the cub approached boys raised up on her hind quarters, and he judged a bullet in her brain the first shot. Between fear and the chills caused by the cold bath the boy was laid up for one day, but strangely, the blow struck him by the bear caused him no little inconvenience. An immense grizzly, judged from his track, walked off with a very heavy trap belonging to Mack Warnick and F. Cookelem the other night. A large bear was attached.

Accidentally Shot.

Lester Anderson, a fifteen-year-old boy who lives a few miles from Oxford, was brought to Logan on Tuesday morning badly wounded. On Monday evening he and another young man were going swimming, and were riding on a wagon to reach the river. On arriving at the place Anderson's companion jumped out and a pistol he was carrying fell from its scabbard, struck the ground and was discharged. The ball struck Anderson on the right side of the chest near the armpit, and ranged by the shoulder blade. At present his recovery is uncertain, but Dr. Ormsby has hopes that he will live.

Notes and Personals.

Hon. Moses Thatcher's health has been greatly improved by his several weeks' sojourn in Logan canyon.

H. F. Harris, formerly postmaster at Bear Lake City, who is one of the proprietors of the Palace hotel, has assumed charge of that hostelry.

A grand ball will be given in honor of the visiting wheelmen at the Thatcher opera house on the evening of the 23rd.

A subscription list is being passed around for the benefit of Robert Hodgkinson, who lost both of his legs in C. P. pass at Salt Lake last week.

Dan C. W. Musser, who recently returned from an extended mission to the Holy Land, gave an interesting account of his travels and mission at the tabernacle on Sunday.

On Sunday the bell house four miles south of Clarkston was burned down, together with all its contents. Foreman Dunbe's numerous guests all went up in smoke.

Charles Hennessy, of Clarkston, injured his leg badly a few days since. He was riding up the canyon on the running gears of a wagon and his leg struck a stump.

Outside of the Logan club, fifty 125 tickets were sold to excursionists to Salt Lake and Garfield at the Logan ticket office, and at every station additions were made to the party.
