THE PRIZE FIGHT BURNER.

By which name of its spectators call the unfortunate accident to a prize fighter named Carter for short today as a result of a sling battle held last night in this city. The tone of regret with which people on the street speak of the affair is startling in its gentleness even among officials there appears but little of that stern indignation, that desire for swift punishment for outraged and violated law, which ought to and does characterize the larger element of this community. The expressions most frequently heard, in the time at this writing, are those of sympathy with the club or parties who arranged the fight, the spectators who betted it, and the surviving participant and his sling, while there is a sort of disappointment that "the sport" itself in this city has sustained a blow from which it will not recover for a long time to come; as for the poor dead dupey, his spikes came adrift unexpectedly, but, say the surviving "fancy"—it's the fortune of war.

We want to call the attention of the authorities and of the community away from such nonsense, and to concentrate them once and for all upon the lordly determination that prize-fighting forevermore shall be prohibited within this fair State. The dreadful event which has just happened ought to be a warning that shall last for all time. It is a blot upon the city's name which the healthy conception of the community's instincts would never have permitted. No future euphemism can be allowed, under the guise of a glove contest, to cover the brutality evinced in pitting a pair of trained sluggers against each other for the paltry prize which they have the strength, but not the honesty, to earn in the reputable ways of life. Our moral tone as an inviting hound for broken-down reprobates and loiterers must be removed; our officials must be compelled to cease winking at violations of law and decency; our people must be impressed with the raised ridiculousness and brutality that each way step in the preliminaries, progress and conclusion of a prize fight. The "squared circle" as a means of evolving the toughened bullies and a place of entertainment for vastly low caliered spectators, must go.

Whatever the law can do to vindicate itself in the present case it must be encouraged and assisted to do. As fighting goes, the people who managed this affair have attempted in the past to combine their entertainments at as nearly as the business would permit—and they have been favored with the presence not only of municipal officials but also of otherwise fairly good citizens. As trainers go, Bob Thompson is perhaps as clean and square a bruiser as ever sat in a rapid carrier. But all this evidently in the strange concurrence under circumstances. A new law has been killed, and an amount of regret can excuse the promoters of the fight and the dead man's accomplice for their share in the crime. Further laws, alive to all probability, there would have been long ago. Bills have been in process of passing, by the labor cannot be acquitted of the grave moral blame of being so nearly to the mark.

NO "SUCH THING, GENTLEMEN!

Never the city Council of Salt Lake [illegible] any other city in the State has the right to license public halls for boxing, prize fights, etc. It is not quite true to say that the Salt Lake City Council never licensed such matters in previous. We know it to be so; it may, that we do not see the Council is anything to have the power to do anything of its official acts at the time they are performed, but assuming the confidence and respect of the public.

Not knowing for certain whether the current reports of the meeting are correct—they could not secretary to secretary of private offering an exclusive account—the [illegible] notice for a word or two, of reference, that before it is too late, the Council may and state not performed or attempted, then of course the complaint lies to the present Ministry, if any of the members of the Council remain in office to each side. Gay escape, with our number saying, the odium with which we would treat their subjugation.

Now it is certain rumor here if that one of the acts performed in the second session was a [illegible] in fact of public money, a scheme was worked up which the public treasury would have been mulcted of a thousand dollars without the people ever knowing of it, if the proceedings of the session could have [illegible] but point. The plan was that On the 4th of August of Tuesday evening's session is an appropriation of $1,000 to the Mayor's contingent fund, but now it appears that the money was appropriated to that next with the distinct understanding that it go to and the five minor aldermen to be used in the city in August next. There seemed to be an impression that under present circumstances the taxpayers of the city would not feel to donate $1,000 to any other fund, the city being practically bankrupt, hence the notion of working in the dark, and passing the appropriation through in a form intended to deceive our about the people.

There are two very sad features in this business. One is that the City Council has no right to appropriate public funds directly to the aid or accomplishment of any recreation or any such effort, using the city money to be used only for corporate purposes, and this is surely not one of them. Of course it is well understood that under some circumstances the citizens have [illegible] and again might consent to let money go to any purpose or another without any remuneration, even though such purpose might not be within the letter of the statute. But it is never a sale proceeding, because illegal; and it is hardly possible to conceive of a time where it should be resorted to.

The other bad feature—it is much the less creditable of the two—was the clumsy attempt to make the appropriation in an indirect way, in order to escape the scrutiny of the taxpayers' protest. If the donation might not be legally given direct, surely it legally could not be secured by giving the house indirectly. There is something in the latter proceeding that commends the cause and the reward. It will inspire nothing but contempt, and to all likelihood will stimulate a feeling of hard sympathy.

As to the prevention of fire which everybody wants it to be a success, such as the good name and the well known hospitality of our city would give warrant for. In deciding to aid this convention or any other gathering that may be looked upon as a public good, the committees, if manly and courageous enough to do it openly, with no attempt at concealment, will always find considerable support. Such a course would have to be regarded as honest and honorable, even though it might be looked upon by certain parts of the community as mistaken. But dark, secret and cloaking methods are indescribable at any time or for any purpose in a public Bland.

As to the matter now at issue, we find the reports current may prove to be exaggerated or at all events that any such action as is charged may be treated. If a wrong has been done, the only way the people can be assured that it was done unintentionally is by a speedy repentance in restoring the stage tickets.

OUTRAGEOUS JOURNALISM.

According to the report of "Desperado Johnson" which the News treated at some length last evening, we quote the following from the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, one of the cleanest and most honorable newspapers in the United States, and certainly an authority of merit in journalism wherever the profession may be found:

The story published in a New York paper yesterday morning of desperado Johnson's death at the hands of Deputy Sheriff Wheeler, who was sent to Kansas to arrest the desperado, is a fake. Yesterday, just as a division of the regiment of Kansas militia was leaving the town, a messenger arrived with a telegram from the sheriff of Lincoln county, Kansas, to the effect that Johnson had been killed by a posse of citizens, and in any case is not wanted by the sheriff. The family of the desperado, who are well known here, received a telegram to the effect that Johnson was not killed, and that the sheriff was not in the town. However, the report has caused a great local sensation, and many people have been to the office of the Republican to learn the truth, with little or no success, for the telegraph offices there are closed at night. It is impossible to get information, but from what we have learned it is clear that the story published in the morning papers is a fake.

SUICIDES VS. PAUPERS.

The officialdom of the conducting class in the Community high school [illegible] and that with the persons of the city on the subject of dressing, and in the proper [illegible] of suicides. The time and place are [illegible] Wednesday. We want to say, in [illegible], that we do not see the Council is anything to have the power to do anything of its official acts at the time they are performed, but assuming the confidence and respect of the public.

Not knowing for certain whether the current reports of the meeting are correct—they could not secretary to secretary of private offering an exclusive account—the [illegible] notice for a word or two, of reference, that before it is too late, the Council may and state not performed or attempted, then of course the complaint lies to the present Ministry, if any of the members of the Council remain in office to each side. PREHISTORIC EARTH.

An interesting piece of the history of nature has been revealed through the discovery of prehistoric forests in a coal closure in Niederwiesa in Prussia.

It is well known that long before the dawn of the earth assumed the form it now has, the surface was covered with plants of a different kind. The great quantities of coal found are supposed to be formed through the slow combustion in the depths of earth of the immense forests of earth's early days. In the German coal pit first mentioned a large forest has now been found, in which the trees are well preserved and not carbonized. They are very large and the supposition is that every winter, not only the leaves but also the branches fell off.

It is of course impossible to assign anything near a correct date for the period of earth's history when this giant forest flourished in the dense, warm atmosphere that then surrounded our globe, but it must have been ages, compared to which history as we know it is but a moment. The discovery is now of a great interest to geologists. It would seem to furnish another evidence to the prevalent view that the same kind of physical processes now going on in nature have been at work from the first, producing the changes which appear as geological periods.

THE NEWS has received the sixth edition (just out) of Copp's Mining Code, published by Henry N. Copp, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who has given many years to the study of mining laws. It is a book of more than 200 pages, and will be found of great interest to mine owners and prospectors, as it gives the United States mineral land laws and the official instructions thereunder, the various state and territorial mining laws, miners' liens, rights of way, etc., numerous forms for use from the location to the patenting, lease and sale of a mine, and also a large collection of abstracts of court and land office decisions and rulings. The book is for sale by the principal book stores and by the publisher, in Washington, D. C., and the price is $5 cents.

WHEN OUR concentrate their thinking apparatus on a single subject for fifteen or twenty years, it is hard to make them believe that any other subject has any meaning of thought, on their or anybody's else part. Those who doubtless, therefore, that the tariff is the great issue in the present campaign, are not without method in their madness.

THE FIRST glance at the clock after the conclusion of the prayer which opened the Populist convention revealed the surprisingly fact that it was 10 minutes to 3. Jerry Simpson was born enough to note it, and claim it as a good omen.

A Remarkable Invention.

D. W. Foller, of Cacophonic, New York, says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house, and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he will not be without it, if it costs a dollar a bottle; that Mr. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best Cough remedy; that he has sold it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Not Quite so Fast.—A dose of Ayer's Pills is always many a fine sickness. But when a remedy does not always do all claimed, slight ailments are liable to be neglected, and the result, frequently, is serious illness. Therefore everybody should use Ayer's Pills.

There is "a time to dance and a time to pray," says the scripture. Whether or not the occasion referred to was the proper time for a dance may be an open question in the minds of some. If all things were properly considered, there might be no valid objection; if there were the sensitiveness of persons of unsuitable character, then there was a serious reason for not allowing dancing. But the prevalence at the season was a remarkable way, it is say the least, of stopping the reasonably respectable. If the graduates were to be [illegible] at the various exhibitors, then the house should have been able to much more than its church capacity at all, or at least those [illegible] it might be properly regarded as a piece of impertinence to endeavor to apply the thumbscrews of the civil power to enforce the religious view of the attendants.
