LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, - JAN. 28, 1895.

Excluding Explosives.

The Bible horse has caused Logan to relent, and the fire has gone forth that gleat powder may not be stored within the city limits. There has been an ordinance to that effect for many years, but the Coop, the only store carrying it, obtained permission to keep small quantities in their store building and has not powder on hand. The Firemen declared they would not attempt to extinguish a fire there as long as the powder was kept, and the Manager decided to dispose of it immediately, and cease carrying it, as the demand is not large enough to justify the expense of building a powder house outside the corporate limits.

Rubbed Finger.

The index finger of John W. Olney's Rhino gun of mid-wall was badly crushed at Paradise on Wednesday, between the rollers of a mangle wringer. Amputation may be necessary.

Old Time Ball.

An old-time Scandinavian party was given in the Union Hall on Tuesday evening. Old fashioned costumes, music, dances and refreshments, and old fashioned celebrity were the rule. The hall is supplied with electric lights, but these were dispensed with and smoking candles and candle sconces substituted. Everyone enjoyed themselves, old or young, who were glad to dispense with the brilliant illuminants of grand balls.

General Notes.

The city has decided to pay only attaching warrants to the amount of $50, issued by the former city council, which have been one more than one year. There was a question raised as to the legality of the manner in which they were issued, but this has been disposed of and they are to be paid.

A livery man's team ran away on Friday evening. A brass-tray commutated and let the horses at the sleigh fall to the ground. On Main street a collision occurred with another sleigh, causing another runaway. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The theological class of the Sunday school Sunday school will a reunion on Friday evening, to which a limited number of friends will be invited. A more intelligent and harmless enjoyable amusement.

The Logan Home Dramatic company will play The Green Lanes of England on the evening of Feb. 19th.

A fine of $2.50 each was assessed against two young men for fast driving. This may have a tendency to stop the street racing that has been a source of danger since sleighing has been good.

Many children at Newton are suffering from scarlet fever. Quarantine regulations are being strictly enforced.

The county is advertising for bids for the reconstruction of a bridge over Bear river, near Lewiston. The old one is in an unsafe condition.

Notwithstanding the intensely cold weather, the attendance at the quarterly conference yesterday was large. Elder A. H. Cannon, of the council of the Apostles, and Bishop Preston, of Salt Lake, were among the visiting Conference conferees during today.

"Jimmy" Poulton, the Co-op. shoe factory's genial hustler, has been visiting the Cache county patrons of the house, and reports his business as flourishing. The home industry movement gives evidence of being strongly rooted.

A Loose Bolt.

An enormous bolt of durable construction was recorded to a Philadelphia paper recently the other day when Jared Monaker was charged by his wife with throwing her life. When the bolt flashed, Monaker, Jr., inquired of the prisoner what he had to say. "Chase, interrupted Justice Gaskill. "Go to perdition," exclaimed the magistrate. "That isn't impertinence," explained Jack. "It's the name of my mother. The way my wife talks we just think I was a sinner. It's our choice for breakfast, dinner for dinner and a Welsh rabbit for supper. We wonder I flicked. I felt like I was full of holes," said Jack wiggled uneasily. "The question of sanity is a matter of faith," replied the magistrate. "And swift, too," added Jack reflectively. "It's a wonder our neighbors don't call in the Justice Department." "Take home, both of you," said the magistrate, "and you, Mrs. Monaker, take either off the bill of fare."—Judge Times.

A Bit Against of the Million Dollars.

The people of Salt Lake are hardly realizing what could have been the result of the blaze at Clark Eddy, in Provo, Idaho, which occurred on Sunday. It was a close call, indeed, the skill and care of the town's best firemen. The origin of the blaze is said to be a bit of lit tinder caused by the refusal of the owner to grant the permission to attach a stove pipe to the chimney. The girl refused to comply by the request, and the result was a fire which, if not extinguished, would have burned the entire block, and the property would have been lost. The girl took her pay in the form of a bonfire, and the experiment has not yet been tried to determine the efficacy of burning wood of anything but the best of coal for stove purposes. A close call indeed, we hardly exaggerate, and the
