Flourished a Revolver.

Fred Rogers, a 18-year-old lad residing at 255 west, First North street, was before Justice Wenger today, charged with flourishing a deadly weapon. The boy, it appears, got hold of his mother's revolver and in the midst of a neighborhood row, flourished it to intimidate the other party. It had the desired effect, so far as intimidation was concerned, but placed Freddie in a rather unenviable position. He may was discharged on motion of the prosecution, after being thoroughly lectured by the court.

A VERY BUSY BOARD.

New County Commissioners in Almost Constant Session.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED TODAY.

A Long List of Applications for Positions of Various Kinds—Action Deferred in Most Cases.

Another meeting of the county commissioners was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by Chairman Armstrong. County Clerk Dunbar was present acting in capacity of clerk of the board. After the reading of the minutes of yesterday's meeting and their acceptance, the board transacted the following business:

Assessor R. S. Quinn, made a requisition for plate belonging to his office, written up to date. The request was granted and the county surveyor instructed to furnish Mr. Quinn with the same. A communication was received from County Surveyor Wilkes, notifying the board of his appointment of Edward Nixon as draughtsman. The appointment was confirmed, at a salary of $2.50 per day.

The county surveyor was authorized to procure the necessary supplies for his office.

Judge Cherry made a request at the board for a set of the compiled laws of Utah 1888 and section laws of 1890-92 and 1894, and also for a copy of his right in civil statutes. Granted.

County Auditor Caine notified the board that he had appointed George W. Wood as his deputy. Confirmed.

Mr. Wood's salary was fixed at $75 per month.

Ex-County Auditor Fisher sent in a communication, which in effect stated that in order to complete his annual report for 1896 it was necessary for him to get an estimate of the values of the county. He asked for an estimate of the following as taken from the county records:

First—Undivided half interest in all rights 28, plat A, Salt Lake City survey and half interest in—commencing at northwest corner lot 3, block 37, plat, Salt Lake City survey, being the joint city and county building and ground, tower home and grounds, buildings, improvements and machinery.

Second—Two acres in improvements of Poor House. Also other property, including furniture and fixture in county building, south half of building, including elevator. The matter went over until two o'clock, to which hour the board took an adjournment.

It was 2:20 this afternoon when the board reassembled. Mr. Assessor Lynch had been asked to attend this afternoon.

The board had been informed that Mr. Lynch had taken some exception to the letters from which assessments are made. Asked as to whether he considered these as his property, Mr. Lynch affirmatively, at the same time admitting that tentatively they were the property of the county. He considered them his personal property for the reason that they were of no particular value to anyone else. On motion of Hall the question of whose right it was to be in possession of the letters was referred to the county attorney.

REFERRED CONFIRMATION.

The board refused to confirm Treasurer Lynch's appointment of William Young as his deputy until it could be satisfied that Mr. Young had used Mr. Lynch and for a deputy, seeing that he himself did not assume the duties of his office until next June. The report of Auditor Fisher was referred to Assessor Quinn.

OTHER APPLICATIONS.

Several more applications reached the clerk's desk this afternoon: Hinard S. Horne asks for a position of some kind, as also do Knut Case and W. H. Chapman. H. Roberts for clerk of the board, Frank H. Rudy, road supervisor North Point, and Alfred A. Jones, road supervisor district 17, George F. Taylor, road supervisor district 4, Mill Creek precinct, Thomas E. Vessing, fruit tree inspector.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Joseph W. Taylor, the undertaker, made a proposition to the board tendering the use of his morgue as the county's public morgue," free of cost.

The board had several miscellaneous matters under consideration when the NEWS report closed, among them several applications for matron of the county infirmary.

Room for Judge Hiles.

Judge Hiles called on the new board of county commissioners this morning and remained on request, made of the old board Saturday, for the use of the room occupied by the county auditor. His honor informed the board that he was put to a great deal of inconvenience in not having proper chambers; his papers, etc., were piled up in a corner of the court room, and that he had to either get a place in the building, which ought to be near the court room, or he would be compelled to go as office up town. Commissioner Hall said that the board was merely going along as with the way matters, in that respect, stood, and thought a few day's time necessary to give the matter proper consideration. He believed that Judge Hiles would not have Mr. Caine move out into the hall, which it is what it would mean were Mr. Caine given notice to vacate, as he did not know of another place in the building she could have. Mr. Armstrong expressed himself similarly, and with the understanding that the commissioners could give the matter their consideration within the next few days Judge Hiles then withdrew.

Before Judge Cherry.

James C. Cummins vs C. E. Stanton; demurrer overruled and judgment rendered.

The reading from the transcript of the Morris case, of May, 1895, is going on in the criminal court.

AMUSEMENTS.

Spartacus at the Theater.—Louis James and his company made their appearance last night in Spartacus at the Theater, before an audience that completely filled the house from the pit to the topmost gallery; it was an enthusiastic gathering, too, and Mr. James may well feel proud of the many admirers he has in this city. He has given us many delightful impersonations and has always acquitted himself with credit. If a effort last night as Spartacus, in the play of that name, which was the principle written for Edwin Forrest, by Dr. Bird of Philadelphia, a quarter of a century or more ago, was certainly in the with his many other successes. The story had by this celebrated author, has been made into a play, full of the gor. Scenes and merciless barbarity practiced by the ancient Romans over the hapless victims captured in some campaign against aggressive or nation. Spartacus is represented as being a student of the precious of Tarn, who has been captured through treachery and made to almost lick the feet of his servitors by the use of the hooted scourge apparently, though only pretending to be one of the slaves, he secretly plots for the safety of his wife and child who, like him, are in bondage and under the Roman yoke. The scene in the great amphitheatre where under promise of liberty he himself and his wife he does battle against the gladiators for the amusement of the Praetor and his lords, and directors in his superior generalship greeted the effect. The tendernesses of the Roin, when fighting for his liberty, and the meekness of the lamb, when his brother spoke before him as his opponent and who stands between him and the liberty he so much desires, were well delineated and show Mr. James to be a master in his art. The supporting company were for the most part such as are usually seen in a star attraction where the interest centers in one actor, though Mr. Lindley and Miss Kruger did some very effective work. The scenic effects were gorgeous and the stage property used did some bangling work in the manipulation. Mr. Weihe's orchestra played exquisitely a Cavalleria Rusticana selection and one from Traviata, and received well merited applause therefor.

Spartacus will be given for the last time tonight and tomorrow afternoon by special request Mr. James will give a matinee of his new comedy My Lord and Some Ladies, and will close his engagement here with another presentation of the same bill on Wednesday evening.

The Grand.—A small audience due to counter attractions and the usual Monday night nuisance witnessed the production of The Banker at the Grand last night. The play is interesting throughout, and, while it gives no one character a very great chance, still all are prominent enough to give the performer opportunity for very creditable work, of which they all availed themselves. The curtain rose between E. E. Ward and Mr. Rowlands, who the unusual prattle of two little girl sisters the cause of the hardened criminal, is but another demonstration of the universal sympathy in women's child like nature, and the pathos of the scene reaches a very telling climax when the burglar discovers the little child who has moved so much that was lost in his nature, to be his own child, and engaging his intention of carrying off the child by force, retures, leave in its place the little lock from the curly head of his child. Edwards's work throughout was very creditably done, the particular scene of the court role being entirely lost in the mannerisms and manner of the hardened criminal as well portrayed, Stephens as the young lawyer, lover to his ogle, gave excellent support, while Edson and Rose took good care of the comedy of the piece. Miss Vaughan played the girls sweetness and shows improvement in the more pathetic parts. Miss Belle as Fanny was quite entertaining in her role. The burglar should draw well the balance of the week, as it is distinctly one of the successes of the season.

Monte Cristo at the Lyceum.—The National Book company of this house played to light business last night, a condition that was to be expected considering the heavy rain which interfered at the Tivoli and the Grand. Monte Cristo hardly received at the hands of this company the condition that was expected, the players in some instances being somewhat lame in their lines, though there are many things that would account for this on opening night with a new piece, and it is confidently expected that a very smooth performance will be given this evening and for the balance of the week.

As a passing sage Edwin Milton Royle's new comedy drama Capt. Impudence, a romance of the Mexican War, will be given at the Auditorium Theater, New York, Monday (January 11) next, one week from, it will be about the management of W. M. Wilkinson, who directed the tours of the late Alexander Salvini, Capt. Impudence has been in rehearsal months and rehearsed and so the scenes are all laid in Mexico, it will give a chance for a wealth of picturesque coloring. Among the more prominent people who will be seen in the cast are McKee Rankin, H. Dott Falen Hilts, Edwin S. Royle, Mrs. Selena Fetter Royle, Amelia Bingham and Edna Hong.

High Council.

The High Council of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion will convene on Wednesday, January 6 at 8:30 p.m. Members of the Council and others who may have business to come before the Council are requested to note this, and govern themselves accordingly.

JAMES D. STERLING, Clerk.

THE GREEN BAG.

C. B. Foll is clerk of Judge Cherry's court.

Ralph R. Thompson has published the district court to change his name to Ralph R. Sharkey, the name of his mother.

Two applications for the appointment to the office of notary public received today by Secretary of State Hammond from Cache and Box Elder counties, were returned to the parties through their having failed to take the oath of office.

John E. Shorten filed a suit in the district court this afternoon against Olaf J. Carlson et al to recover $600 on a promissory note, with interest. The parties made an entry of appearance this afternoon and waived issuance and service of summons, and take ten days in which to answer.

An effort is being made to retain J. W. Smith, the present elevator boy at the joint city and county building. It is claimed that the elevator is not a particularly easy one to handle, owing to the fact that it is run by electricity. Young Smith is capable, courteous and obliging and it is thought he will be re-appointed.

EACH WARD TWO.

Proposition to Reduce the Number of Councilmen to Ten.

BETTER AND CHEAPER SERVICE.

So Says Representative Shepard of the State Legislature—Will Work for such a Law.

A proposition is now being considered by members of the Legislature, which will, if enacted into law, work a radical change in the manipulation of the municipal machinery of Salt Lake City. It contemplates a reduction, through legislative operation, of the number of councilmen from fifteen to ten, two from each of the five municipal wards.

The movement has for its strongest supporter Hon. R. B. Shepard of the lower branch of the state Legislature. Mr. Shepard in conversation with a News man today said the bill had arrived at the conclusion after a careful study of the question that ten men could do the business of the city just as well if not better than fifteen, provided, of course, that they are elected by reason of the ability they are known to possess. Besides this, he argues that the change would lead in the direction of economy—an essential feature in these times of financial distress. Specifically a saving would be made in salary compensation of nine men at five dollars per day. While this is not a great sum, says Mr. Shepard, it is worthy of consideration.

Then again it is proposed to have five members of the council sent at a time—the method that now governs in the case of members to ministerial boards of education. In that way half of the members would always be familiar with their duties. In this connection a consolidation of municipal and school elections is contemplated, together with a change in date from February and December to November.

DIED

DAVIS.—Louisa S. Wolcott Davis was born in Chautauqua Lakeside, Pennsylvania, North Wales, May 24, 1844, and was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the year 1860, emigrated to Utah in the fall of that year, and married to J. G. Davis; was the mother of twelve children, nine of whom survive to mourn her loss. She was a faithful Latter-day Saint and died in the hope of eternal life. She was a woman who lived with patience and fortitude for a period of some years of the terrible disease of a cancer, and has left the world was ready to depart to her immortal home.

Funeral in Grantsville, Monday, December 28, 1896, conducted by her family and friends, assisting a full lodge of a goodly congregation. Elder M. F. Anderson and Elder Wm. H. B. Rowe spoke as the funeral service very encouragingly and impressively to the large assemblage of family and friends. A long cortege followed her to her last resting place.

To think that thousands upon thousands have to live a life of misery because they have to hire a regular licensed guide to tell them the sex. It would be a joke if it was not a fact. But when a woman who suffers from weakness or disease of her sex has to hire her life to consulting an incompetent, inexperienced man, there is no use thinking to prevent it, except the authority of some more experienced man.

The strange manner in which women delicate and intimate attention to subject can be well understood for by an educated, experienced physician Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has given a life time to the study. No physician living has a wider practical experience or greater existence as a specialist in women's diseases. He has treated more than half a million of the most for cure for these troubles ever invented. It is the only remedy which soothes and renovates the internal organs of the delicate sex, strengthens and invigorates weak women.

Any serious consulting Dr. Pierce, either personally or by letter, will receive free of charge the professional advice of a skilled specialist. No more expensive, however excellent, she may be as a guide, but the best advice or skill to prescribe remedies for complaints peculiar to the sex, and no scientific man will risk her life with an inferior guide.

Women will find the most valuable knowledge about their own physical condition in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a work of 1,000 pages, illustrated, and sent on receipt of stamps only, to pay cost of mailing only, send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered edition, or 31 stamps for the cloth edition. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. Pierce's Pellets, one a dose, cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, sour stomach, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Sugar coated, easy to take, as candy.
