SENATE

WASHINGTON, 8.—At the expiration of the morning hour, the chair laid before the Senate the unfinished business, being the resolution for the admission of P. B. Pinchback as Senator from Louisiana.

Hitchcock moved to lay aside the unfinished business and proceed to the consideration of the bill for the admission of New Mexico; rejected, yeas 21, nays 29.

West then spoke in favor of the admission of Pinchback.

The debate was lengthy, and participated in by Logan, Harvey and Morton, who favored the admission of Pinchback, and Haddock, Morrill, of Vt., and Edmunds, who opposed it.

The question then being on the amendment of Edmunds to insert the word "not" before the word "admitted," so that the resolution should read—"Resolved that P. B. S. Pinchback be not admitted as a Senator from the State of Louisiana for the term of six years, beginning on the 4th of March, 1873;" it was agreed to, yeas 32, nays 29, as follows, yeas — Bayard, Caperon, Christiancy, Cockrill, Cooper, Davis, Dennis, Eaton, Edmunds, English, Gordon, Johnson, Jones, (Fla.), Kelly, Kernan, Key, McCreery, McDonald, Maxey, Merriman, Morrill, (Me.), Morrill, (Vt.), Norwood, Paddock, Randolph, Ransom, Saulsbury, Stevenson, Thurman, Wallace, Whyte, and Withers, 32. Nays—Allison, Anthony, Boutwell, Bruce, Cameron, of Pa., Conklin, Conover, Cragin, Dorsey, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Hamilton, Hamlin, Harvey, Hitchcock, Howe, Ingalls, Jones, of Nev., Logan, McMillan, Mitchell, Morton, Paterson, Sargent, Sharon, Sherman, Spencer, West, and Windom, 29.

Both Wadleigh, Goldthwaite and Dawes, who would have voted in the affirmative, were paired with Alcorn, Oglesby, Cameron (Wis.), Clayton and Wright, who would have voted no. Those not voting were Burnside and Robertson.

The question then being on the adoption of the resolution as amended, it was agreed to, yeas 32, nays 29. The yeas and nays being taken and recorded as above.

While the vote was being taken Pinchback was on the floor of the Senate, and stood near the entrance to one of the cloak rooms. As the roll call proceeded he manifested some nervousness, and soon after the vote was announced he left the chamber.

Anthony submitted a concurrent resolution to amend the fifth and sixth rules of Congress, so as to have bills printed on paper instead of engrossed on parchment.

The Senate then, on motion of Hitchcock, took up the bill to enable the people of New Mexico to form a national government for the admission of said State into the Union, so that it would come up as unfinished business to-morrow. After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Legislative and Executive Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, 8.—Randall, chairman of the committee on appropriations, reported the legislative and executive appropriation bill, and made a statement as to the reduction proposed in it. The estimates from the departments for subjects embraced in the bill amounted to $20,773,306; the appropriations in the same bill last session were $18,714,000, and the appropriations reported in this bill were $12,799,883, so that it was a reduction of about eight million on the estimates, and a reduction of about six million on the bill of last year. Besides that, the committee had laid, in this bill, the foundation of further reductions to the amount of five million more. The committee recommended the transfer of the Indian bureau to the War Department, which would effect a direct reduction of one million in the Indian appropriation bill, and he had the authority of General Sheridan for saying that it would effect a reduction of $3,500,000 more in the army appropriation bill. The committee had also recommended the abolition of fifty-three special agents of customs, because they were believed to be utterly inefficient or unnecessary, and they would admit amendments to be offered by the chairman of the committee of invalid pensions, Jenks, to transfer the pensions bureau from the Interior to the War Department, by which the services of three hundred persons could be dispensed with. The report had been reached by the committee with great unanimity; there was no difference in the committee with regard to the propriety of the reforms and reductions recommended.

Holman, another member of the committee, concurred in what Randall had said, and added that the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department would in no wise affect the efficiency of the agencies heretofore resorted to to civilize and ameliorate the condition of the Indians, and would leave in full force the peace commission.

Foster, another member of the committee, said that what the chairman of the committee had said was mainly correct, but he thought he (Randall) had placed additions which the minority of the committee would not recommend, and the minority of the committee would propose various amendments aggregating a million dollars, probably one and a half million, notably in the Internal Revenue Department, where sweeping reductions have been made, such as might endanger the collection of the revenue.

Randall said that when the bill should come to be discussed he should be able to establish the fact that these reductions ought to be made.

The bill was ordered printed, and made a special order for Friday next.

The recusant witness A. B. Wolf, who had refused to answer certain questions put to him by the committee on naval affairs, was brought before the bar of the House, and Whitthorne, chairman, was proceeding to state that the witness had, this morning, appeared and answered, and that he might therefore be discharged from custody, when the witness himself fell on the floor in an epileptic fit, producing much excitement and sympathy in the chamber; he was attended by a physician, and was subsequently carried from the hall, when Whitthorne concluded his statement, and had the witness discharged from custody.

On motion of Whitthorne the two sub-committees of the committee on naval affairs were authorized to carry on the investigation at the navy yards of Charleston, Mass., and Kittery, Me. The sub-committees are Mills, Burleigh, Jones (N. H.), for Kittery; and Mills, Harris (Va.) and Jones (Ky.), for Charleston.

Knott, chairman of the judiciary committee, made the following report in the case of the impeachment of the late Secretary of War—

The committee would respectfully report that, in pursuance of the instructions of the House they have prepared articles of impeachment against W. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors in office; but since preparing the same they have been informed and believe that Caleb P. Marsh, upon whose testimony before the committee on the expenditures in the War Department referred to them by the House, said articles were framed, has gone beyond the jurisdiction of the Government of the United States, and probably his attendance as a witness before the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment cannot be procured. To convict the said Wm. W. Belknap of high crimes and misdemeanors in office they, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution—

"'Resolved, That the resolution instructing the committee on the judiciary to prepare articles of impeachment against Wm. W. Belknap, the late Secretary of War, for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, be recommitted to the same committee, with power to take further proofs, to send for persons and papers, to sit during the session of the House, and to report at any time.'

"Your committee, impressed with the importance of securing the fullest indemnity to such witnesses as may be required to testify in behalf of the government before either House of Congress, or any committee of either House, or before the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment, would also recommend the immediate passage of the accompanying bill, entitled a bill to protect witnesses who shall be required to testify in certain cases. They would further recommend that the accompanying bill, entitled a bill in relation to witnesses, be introduced, printed and referred to the committee on the judiciary, with leave to report thereon at any time."

The following are the bills presented by Knott—

"A bill to protect witnesses who shall be required to testify on certain cases—

"Be it enacted, that when any person shall be required to testify against his protest before either House of Congress, or any committee thereof, or the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment, and shall so testify under protest, he shall not thereafter be called to answer criminally in any court of justice, or be subject to any penalty or forfeiture on account of any act concerning which he shall be so required to testify, provided that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to relieve any person from liability to impeachment.

"Be it enacted, that every person who shall wilfully absent himself from his residence or place of residence, or conceal himself, or absent himself from the U. S., or, being absent, shall wilfully remain absent, or shall flee, or attempt to do so, for the purpose and with the intent to escape the service of any lawful writ or process requiring him to appear and testify or give evidence, or produce books, letters, documents or papers, or for the purpose and with the intent to avoid being required to testify or give evidence, or to become a witness, shall be deemed guilty of a crime, and shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding three years, or by both of said punishments. Nothing herein shall be construed to exempt any such person from lawful punishment, or for a contempt."

After two hours consumed in debate an arrangement was made, which Knott said he had proposed from the beginning, that the half hour left to the committee, after the House had seconded the previous question, should be given to Lawrence.

Lawrence yielded part of that time to Kasson, who expressed regret that the statements which were made yesterday in the heat of debate had to-day been repeated by the cool gentleman from Kentucky (Knott). Kasson undertook to show that Marsh could not have been frightened away by any cabinet proceeding, as Marsh had left Washington at half-past one o'clock on Thursday, three hours before the report was presented in the House, and he could not have learned anything about the mythical meeting of the cabinet till he read it in Montreal on Saturday a.m.

Lawrence yielded a few minutes to Blaine, who declared that he was authorized to say that there never had been any instructions in the Cabinet to prosecute Marsh. Marsh's case had never been considered in the Cabinet, but it was simply the question of prosecuting Belknap; and if anybody stated that Marsh had been frightened out of the country by anything the Cabinet had done he stated what had no foundation in fact. The simple failure of the committee on the expenditures in the War Department to discharge Marsh would have retained him here. He (Blaine) would vote for this bill, even if it were full of outrages, and he begged his republican friends to do the same; but he ventured to prophesy that, no matter what bills of exemption were passed, they would not get Marsh.

Several democrats—"How do you know?"

Blaine—"I do not know, but I am a Yankee by adoption and can guess, and I guess he will not come. Between the great difficulty of the House in regard to the indictment of Belknap, and the halting of the judiciary committee about impeachment, it looks to me as if the late Secretary of War would escape, and drop between two stools. He will neither be indicted, because it is against the dignity of the House to furnish testimony; nor will he be impeached because, on the whole, there is not evidence enough to impeach him."

Lawrence asked which side of the House was responsible for any failure to impeach or to indict Belknap. The republican side had voted, yesterday, to send to the criminal court the evidence within the control of the House, for the purpose of indicting him, and the democratic side had voted against it; then who was responsible for Marsh's absence? He did not entertain the slightest idea that the chairman of the committee on the expenditures in the war department had designed that Marsh should escape for the purpose of relieving the late Secretary from impeachment or indictment; but the fact was, nevertheless, the witness had been discharged when he should have been held; and that if he had not been discharged he would be here to day to testify alike before the grand jury and before the high court of impeachment.

Knott closed the discussion, and noticed the fact that notwithstanding the anxiety expressed on the other side to debate the bill not a word had been said about it. Three speeches had been made as to the willingness of the other side to aid in exposing and punishing corruption; but he reminded them that they had had many years to do so, but had never done so (applause on the democratic side). The bill was then passed, yeas 206, nays 10. Adjourned.

WESTERN.

Denies Being Guilty of Fraud.

SAN FRANCISCO, 8. — Norman Wiard, now in this city, denies the statement telegraphed from Washington, intimating fraud in conducting the ordnance experiments. The amount of money he received from government for carrying out the experiments was about $110,000, the vouchers for which have all been satisfactorily audited. The total amount expended by him was about $228,000, the balance coming from his own pocket, for which he never had made and never contemplated making any claim on the government. If he should receive any intimation that his presence was wanted he should get nearer Washington quicker than he should get further away.
