The tramp question is becoming a serious problem in Atlanta.

The Butte, (Mont.) city council has drawn the color line by refusing to confirm the appointment of a negro on the police force.

Street car lines of Butte, Mont., will hereafter charge 10 cents for a ride to those not having tickets. The tickets are sold for 5 cents each.

When engine 1003 reached Tucson, A. T., recently, and was run into the roundhouse backwards, it was the second time in the engine. It was the 13th anniversary of a tramp killed at Deming.

W. F. Hayes, who was arrested at Silver Bow on a charge of attempting to incite forgery convictions, has been released from custody, as the charge was proven to be without foundation.

C. J. Wetmore of the state Viticultural commission, Cal., expressed the opinion that the prospects next year for large crops are very bright. There will be an increase of 5 million gallons over the vintage of 1892.

There is some talk of a new and lucrative industry in some of the Idaho towns. The Bonners Ferry (Herald) says a shipping line books to orders either for buttons or pearls. It is proven to be the best freshwater material in existence.

Edgy, son of F. H. Dole of Lowell, who a few weeks ago was blinded by a stone, the lens entered the sight of his eye and possibly the boy's death, is now reported convalescent. He is confined to the house in the center in the city.

One of the largest mountains in the state of California will soon be established at San Gregorio, near Pescadero. A company has been formed with $20,000 capital and the contract for erecting a factory has been let. It will handle the milk of 2,000 cows.

An interesting group was that which was standing on the corner of Fourth and Montgomery streets Saturday afternoon with the Saints Rest (Cal.) Democrat. It was composed of five of the oldest citizens, each one a pioneer. The youngest of the old boys is 75 years and the oldest 87. The aggregate of their ages is 391 years.

Two men named John Hastings and Perry Hampton recently caught what is believed to be the largest bear ever trapped in the Big Horn basin. The animal's hide measured ten feet in width and twelve feet long. He was caught in a trap with two logs attached to it. It had managed to travel two days before the hunters overtook him.

On Sunday afternoon while Mrs. Anna Whitney, of Minturn, Colo., was out driving with two small children, her horse became frightened and ran runaway. The buggy was overturned, knocking all senseless. The children were unhurt, but Mrs. Whitney sustained internal injuries which will more than likely prove fatal.

The Bonanza, Wyo., Enterprise says that at the rate the state is now developing it is only a question of a short time when millions of feet of good lumber will go to an imperative need. The homely log house will give place to handsome dwellings, and the dry metal with its gay canopy will be supplanted by commodious barns, granaries, etc., like in eastern communities where primitive institutions have passed away.

George Kimmell, a colored man, has been found lying on the back of Bitter creek, says the Rock Springs (Wyo.) Independent, in an unconscious condition. Although all means known were used to an endeavor to resuscitate him, he died shortly after being discovered. He had been drinking hard for a considerable length of time, and his death is attributed to alcoholism and exposure.

H. H. Thorn, a foreman of Lander, Wyo., has been shot and instantly killed by Tom Osborne, a cattleman. Some time ago Osborne sold to Thorn a ranch near Lost Cabin and took note therefore. A few days since Osborne concluding that the notes were of no value without some sort of security, tried to get Thorn to give a mortgage on the improvements on the ranch. This Thorn refused to do, whereupon Osborne shot him, with the result above stated. Osborne is now in jail.

Says the Bonanza (Wyo.) Enterprise: John Hunsinger and Perry Hampton recently caught what is believed to be the largest bear ever trapped in the basin. He was known to the hunters as "Old Big Foot," having been trapped several years ago and got away. The hunted bear was very lean and bargained for him his name. His stomach was measured fourteen inches long. Though caught in a trap which had two logs attached to it, he managed to travel two days before being overtaken. His hide measures ten feet wide and twelve feet long.

A frightful accident occurred near Laurel station, in the Santa Cruz mountains, Cal., on the narrow gauge railroad Sunday afternoon. The three-year-old son of Tim O'Mahoney, a section boss, was playing with a butcher knife when he stumbled and fell. The knife penetrated the floor under the chin, passed through the tongue and roof of the mouth into the nose cavity. The child's father will draw the knife and stanch the wound as best he could until the train came to a stop, when he took the child to Los Gatos for medical treatment. The little one's injuries are serious, but he may recover.

Miss Louie Luger, living near Pacific, Cal., was attacked recently by a ferocious bear and narrowly escaped with her life. She had an experience that she will never forget and the marks of which she will carry to her grave, even if she recovers from the terrible injuries inflicted by the vicious brute. She had ventured into the woods on the ranch. She was passing through the vineyard when without warning the bear made her, and knocking her down somewhere in mauling her severely before she could get away from him. A second time the bear attacked her, and had assistance been promptly given her she would not have lived. As it was the claws of the brute tore and lacerated her side in a terrible manner.

A discovery has been made near the Vista mine, twenty-five miles southeast of the city says the Arizona Republican, which will prove much more valuable than the average gold mine. It is an almost limitless deposit of mica of a high grade. Samples have been submitted to experts, who, after a close inspection, declared Vistaite to be the finest mica in the world. The samples are transparent of a high polish, which is as easily split. There are two veins in the claim. The larger one is 8 feet in width and the other varies from 4 feet to 6 inches. The larger vein is being worked by a tunnel on the side of a hill. The smaller one is in the only straight part of the claim, and will be worked by a shaft. The difficulty of transportation is the only drawback, as the nearest point to which wagons can come is 15 miles. The mica will be shipped to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago, and will be a rival of the Indian mica in the market.
