(Continued from Page One.)

PROHIBITION TODAY.

[illegible] which carried on a vote of 31 to 29, and then the whole article as amended and adopted was [illegible].

PROHIBITION FIGHT ON.

The majority and minority reports on constitutional prohibition and amendments relating the question of prohibition, were coming up. The report of the majority favored the adoption of the article as the majority report—and [illegible] the minority report. He said he was a prohibitionist. As a prohibitionist he felt in the interest of this Territory to be not prohibitionist a great deal [illegible]—men who were guilty of murder, robbery, incest, adultery, every vile crime and yet and at least in sentiment of the Chinese were greatly therefore to the use of liquor. He felt that at least one half the citizens of the State could be saved by enforcing the liquor traffic. The whole world is refused from the liquor traffic. In Europe and in the United States the liquor traffic is the source of all evil. Do we want to be in the same. Do we want numerous instances of crime committed by drunken individuals and [illegible] the liquor traffic? Do we want carter, robbers and worse enemies friends.

Cannon of Weber—Day 1 am Mr. Hoyt. Some wise steps should be taken to reach the citizens to be engaged and (laughter.)

Hoyt—I think from personal experience the question was [illegible] rather than I am. (Laughter.)

Hoyt, of Utah, said the force was passed by Congress in the United States [illegible] to hell he was an advocate of prohibition. He had seen the effects of the liquor traffic. He said he was [illegible] of the liquor traffic and the [illegible] to prevent them from [illegible] in the [illegible] traffic. He hoped to see the minister of the liquor traffic [illegible] with [illegible] to be [illegible]. He had signed the majority report because he did not want prohibition inserted in the fundamental law of the State. Later on, however, he would be happy to join in a prohibition campaign and have the Legislature—the first session of the new State—passed a strong law regulating or limiting of prohibition the liquor traffic. He had seen already numerous [illegible] and especially [illegible] of this city who had never [illegible] to be not prohibition. But he [illegible] the liquor and that was sufficient for him.

Burbidge, of Beaver, endorsed Hoyt's position and said he believe [illegible] to be numerous.

Irvine, of Weber, said all that [illegible] was a hidden [illegible]. Just [illegible] should be entrusted to the [illegible] and complaints to each [illegible] the report then adopted the Convention a recital of minutes [illegible] which has been made [illegible] in a story of the liquor traffic and then he finished speaking at 12:00 noon was taken until 2 p. m.

AN EVENING SESSION.

Convention Resolves to Be Calling a Close Delegate a Use—The "Carbon Resolution."

In transcribing the afternoon session of Weber's Cab the Hall, the audience was so much [illegible] that it was [illegible] this morning with [illegible] to the [illegible] of liquor. [illegible] was all the. Neither was there any doubt that crime would be greatly reduced in the world if the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks were stopped. But he didn't believe that prohibition would actually prevent.

Coles—Don't but the prohibition laws of the United States prevent the sale of liquor to the Indians.

Joyce—That law is more rightly enforced than most prohibition measures and yet it does not [illegible] to say that it has in a large degree, so do the same [illegible] in Kansas and Iowa.

Miller—Do you think it is not that prohibition is a failure in Iowa?

Joyce—I do, yes, sir, it is very much a failure.

Miller (seriously)—I hope it will, I hope it.

Coles, continuing, said he believed the liquor traffic would be not by the [illegible] of the [illegible] in Kansas.

RIGHT OUT AGAINST.

Miller, of Weber, said the question of prohibition had had a very hard [illegible] life in the convention and he was glad to see it in such a [illegible] condition today. It was a very live [illegible]. The arguments that had been [illegible] this far by the opposition were [illegible] and [illegible] in nature. They had merely produced [illegible] that had been thrown over [illegible]. The gentleman from Weber [illegible] a very [illegible] and [illegible] he was. He wished to say emphatically that it would. He wished to [illegible] the gentleman's statement that [illegible] in Kansas had failed. If the environments of the territory [illegible] be passed in the [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] of the liquor traffic [illegible] be a dead letter. It had been claimed that prohibition [illegible] the [illegible] the drug stores and [illegible] were selling [illegible]. The history of [illegible] in Kansas proved that this was not so. He was [illegible].

RE ONE MORE.

At the part of his speech Miller, who [illegible] to be a most [illegible] temperance, [illegible] a scandalous [illegible] attack on Delegate Dilver, of Weber, whom he handled rather severely [illegible] the [illegible] the Convention. "He stood on the floor in this convention to make the [illegible] of a lie," exclaimed the speaker. "I have—I know I did not" the gentleman very hot and warm in the region of his nose. [illegible] the right of [illegible] to [illegible] Dilver." [illegible]

The Chair—Mr. Miller, you must not [illegible] that [illegible] your most [illegible] [illegible] to a discussion of the question.

Miller (emphatically)—I wish to say he was the gentleman says is false.

Miller (emphatically, wildly)—I repeat what I said. I heard you and I say it he was in the Black Hawk war.

The Chair (emphatically)—You must, I say, confine yourself to the question. Personalities will not be allowed.

Miller, with increasing anger, said: "I want to say the statement is false."

(Applause.) Whereupon the chairman's gavel.

Irvine—He lies, he lies!

Confusion ensued. This time was running high and Chairman Varian could hardly quell it. When the full tumult had passed Miller stepped out into the aisle, remarking to the chair, which he passed, and with his voice was [illegible] as to a request or [illegible] he [illegible] Mr. Chairman, have been [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and the [illegible] from Davis, I am ready to vacate."

Coles—This is a question of [illegible] and [illegible].

Chair—It [illegible] to allowed in the convention of the whole.

Miller—Very well then, I will wait.

VARIOUS ASPECTS CONSIDERED.

Thatcher spoke substantially as follows:

"The prohibition question is not the domestic or [illegible] which is at the moment. Very [illegible] nothing more than [illegible] and signed by prominent citizens now [illegible] the Convention. A [illegible] and [illegible] without [illegible] the attention of [illegible].

"I listened with profound interest to the speech made by the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Lewis) and my emotional feelings were [illegible] by the eloquent appeal which he [illegible] I would call attention to the fact that the people of England and the United States spend thirty millions on the [illegible] of Great Britain appears to wipe out by a single [illegible] every [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]