The Pacific Mail company's steamship Arabic sailed several days from China and Japan, according to her schedule time. The line of passengers but has considerable Oriental freight.

The catch of the Arctic whaling fleet up to September 7th is reported as follows: Grampus 18 whales; Mary D. Hume 6; Narwhal 37; Beluga 11; Bowhead 26; Narwhal and Narwhal, nine.

Colonel McKinney has finally decided upon the Presidio reservation, San Francisco, for the new military hospital and the selection has been approved by General Merriam. It will be located near the present post hospital.

Louis Kramer, an engineer at the Rosita steam laundry, was accidentally killed Friday. Kramer was chasing a small girls from one school to another and his head came in contact with the sight. Death resulted in a few minutes.

A. W. Fennimore, collector of the port of Los Angeles, Cal., was found dead in his bed Friday. Heart disease is ascribed as the cause of death. The dead man was appointed collector of the port here by President McKinley about a year ago. He was a warm friend of the President.

The sailing of the steamer Australia, which was to have for Honolulu on next Wednesday, has been postponed until the following Saturday. The reason of this is the necessity of the steamer being re-docked and overhauled. After her return from Honolulu she made a trip to Honolulu, but her time was very slow.

A dispatch saying that Denver Ed Smith, the famous heavy-weight pugilist, had been killed at Wichita, Kan., in a shaved with his pistol, has no foundation in fact. Smith is the proprietor of the Colonial hotel in Victoria, B. C., and his wife says that he is in Dawson and that she received a letter from him, dated Whitehorse Rapids, two weeks ago.

There is an epidemic of typhoid fever raging at Whipple barracks, Ariz., and several deaths are reported. The post is garrisoned by volunteers. Orders have been issued at army headquarters in Denver for Major W. W. Gray, surgeon, to proceed at once to the scene from Fort Hamilton and do everything in his power to stay the progress of the disease.

The Southern Pacific, together with the other overland roads, will put in effect today (Saturday) reduced fares for the benefit of soldiers traveling between San Francisco and Chicago. They will be given a first-class rate of $25, to the Missouri river, thence a second-class rate of $15. Rates east of the river will also be reduced. Many soldiers are going east on sick leave or furlough.

James Moore, a native Norman, has filed the papers of the seventh wheat in Fresno to the Hon. of State Darius court for Hiram Moore alleges that he shipped from San Francisco on the steam Wheat Notcutt and that before the vessel sailed he was transferred to the Freeman. At the expiration of his three years' contract, he says, he requested Captain Foster of the Freeman to send him to San Francisco, but the captain refused to comply with, his demand. Soon afterward the Freeman was wrecked and Moore with others performed many hardships until rescued by the revenue cutter Bear.

FROM THE MISSION FIELD.

Elder J. D. Kendall of Oxford, Idaho, recently returned from a mission to Yuma and was a caller at the News office this week. He left home to engage in missionary labors on February 14, 1896. He says that a great deal of prejudice has been alleged in the state in which he has labored during the past two years and a half, and he has enjoyed a good spirit and was loth to leave the many friends who had administered to his wants while away from home.

Elder John S. Blair, of Spring City, Sanpete county, returned September 27, 1898, from a mission to Virginia, in which state he labored during his entire absence. Elder Blair left home May 14, 1896, and entered his labors. He states that conditions in that section are favorable, the missionaries making good headway in promulgating the Gospel.

Elder J. W. Kay of Mona, Juab county, has also returned from a mission recently. His labors were in the Northern States mission. He left home June 18, 1896, and found the field in which he labored a fruitful and pleasant one. He was admirably met with kindly favor and succeeded in winning scores of righteousness in the souls of many honest persons. He has had good health and is pleased to be at home again.

Elder John P. Apodaca of Manassa, Colorado, returned home on October 8th from the East Tennessee conference, where he labored since October, 1896. His ministerial work was cutting by confined to the eastern portion of Tennessee, where he reports good progress being made by the Mormon Elders who are laboring in that section.

Elder H. J. Bennett of American Fork called on the "News" a few days ago. He returned from the Indian territory, for which section of country he left on September 7, 1896. He reports having thoroughly enjoyed his labors. He was accompanied to the city of Salt Lake, where they crossed considerable interest during the course of open air meetings held there this summer.

Elder J. F. Wakefield from Huntington, Emery county, returned from the Southern States mission a few days ago. He labored in Alabama for fifteen months and in Kentucky for one-half month. While in the "Blue Grass" state he acted as president of the Kentucky conference. He enjoyed excellent spirits and fair health while away from home and is now pleased to return to his kindred and friends.

Elder R. J. Hillpock of Provo, Utah county, who departed for North Carolina conference on August 24, 1897, is also home. He labored in Carolina during his entire absence from home. He enjoyed the best of health until the latter part of his mission. He attended the semi-annual conference of the Church, held in this city, after which he returned to his home.

Elder H. C. Butler of Ogden, who left home for a mission to Virginia on March 16, 1896, is home again. He reports having had a very pleasant experience, having made many friends and some converts, and says he is delighted to be back to his mother home once more.

Elder J. W. Nixon arrived home a few days ago from California. He labored one year in the southern conference in that state and one year in the northern conference of the same state. He presided over the latter conference for the last six months and was very successful in the work which he says is progressing very well in that section of the country. Prejudice is fast being allayed and good feeling is taking the place of the animosities that once existed there as elsewhere. Elder Nixon's home is in Huntington, Emery county.

Elder Elias Nelson of Idaho left home on October 14, 1896, to engage in missionary work in the Southern States. He is home again. The whole of his time while absent was spent in south Alabama, where many friends have been made and where there are subject accession to the Church.

Elder George D. Snider of Brigham City called at this office today on his way home from the Southern States mission, where he has been laboring for the last twenty-five months, in the South Carolina conference. He reports a growing interest to be manifest in that district regarding the principles of life and salvation.

Elder George Christensen of Mount Pleasant left his home on May 3, 1893, and proceeded to Denmark, where he labored in the Danish mission for twenty-eight months. During the last four months of his mission he occupied the position of president of the Scandinavian district. Now and editor of the Weekly Church Journal, published in Copenhagen. Elder Christensen reports at this office on the occasion of his visit to the News office, his progress, especially in the city of Stockholm, where there were reported at the last conference held there, 110 baptisms in five months.

Elder W. D. Turner of Murray, and one of the likewise conference of the Mormon church, received at this office yesterday. He left home July 14, 1896, and returned October 8, having spent a most profitable season in England.

Elder W. H. Dye, who left Salt Lake City for the British mission August 11, 1896, arrived home on October 6th. He was a caller at this office on his way home. Within across the seas he labored in the Sheffield conference, which he reports to be prospering. He expressed himself as having derived an incalculable amount of valuable experience during his absence.

Thomas Lowell, who was president of the Missouri conference for one year previous to his return, reached home on the 5 having left for its mission on June 24, 1896.

Elder J. W. Johns of Lewisville, Ida., returned Friday from his labors as a missionary in the Nebraska conference, to which section he hailed himself Nov. 5, 1896. Elder Jones reports affairs prospering in Nebraska, there being a good church there, and not a few sincere investigators of the Gospel. He says conditions for the future are quite favorable. He had good health and feels well in his being discharged a duty. Elder Jones will go northward tonight, visiting relatives in Hooper and Ogden before returning to his home.

Elder Hubbard Tuttle Jr., of Sanford Park, returned today from a mission to the Southern States. He left home on July 21, 1896, and labored in the Roanoke, Va., conference, where he served the church in progressing favorable. Elder Tuttle had good health and enjoyed his labors.

Genealogical Boards.

Consul Peter Hansen of this city said to a "News" reporter today that he has been informed from Christiania, Norway, of genealogical records being gathered, compiled and published in book form of different families (Anne and Regner in Norway. Inequality has such work already been done in Bloor Ant, where every family in that district has been genealized. Some of the Bloor people can be traced back to Denmark. The Dee and Toolrop family genealogy has also been compiled into book form. The compiler genealogists Chri Delgaba and S. H. Flom Group under whose supervision the work is going on, are hard workers and are being praised by the Norwegian press. Other districts are now being gathered and published by help of public money. So Mr. Peter Hansen, who for many years has furnished genealogical records from Denmark and Norway, thinks it is very similar, as many will remember that Mormonism was first preached in above named district. Such will be welcome news to many of Mr. Hansen's Scandinavian friends in Utah who are gathering family records for temple work. Mr. Hansen can furnish further information to anyone who will write to him, or call at No. 243 Seventh East street, this city.

What Peace Means to Russia.

One thing at least is absolutely certain, and that is that Russia is profoundly desirous of having the peace and is sorry for Prince Ito's proposal to have war with either Germany or England. It will be a misnomer of years before the Trans-Siberian railway will be finished, and Russia has yet to be used for transporting troops and supplies to Corea, northern China, or any of those regions where there are no good wagon roads. Russia, even British and American interests, it would be hopeless for the Russian armies to attempt to move in the Chinese empire with the English ships. Russia has plenty of men under arms and could recruit still vastly larger forces, but her resources are so undeveloped that in a great war it would be well-nigh impossible to transport or supply large Russian armies, and in such remote Germany is incomparably superior. Russia has every reason for desiring a long period of profound peace. Her statesmen have observed the progress of the United States, and realized the fact that the material greatness of this country is due to the intensive development of the Mississippi Valley and the far West in the more than thirty years that have followed the Civil war. The profound object of Russia's policy is to build railroads, open mines, bring vast areas of wheat land into cultivation, and, in short, to build up the nation upon a basis of economic progress and prosperity. This Czar Nicholas II would gladly claim relief from the enormous pecuniary burdens imposed upon her by the maintenance of her war strength. She would like to see her railroads and the agencies of peaceful development. But she is the victim of the great military system of Europe, and cannot disarm, or even consider it necessary to argue if her neighbors do the same. It has been very much the European habit of Russia to regard Russia as the great monarch in the world's peace, but the Russian lake precisely the opposite position of their position and are very far indeed from being the peace at all. Moreover, they are viewed diplomats and have secured great points of late years. As matters stand, they have nothing to gain and very much to lose by going to war. The new czar will keep the peace.—American Machine Review of Reviews.
