OGDEN, UTAH, - - SEPT. 28, 1899.

TWO SHOCKING ACCIDENTS

Sudden Death of Julius A. Farley of Mound Fort Ward.

Court Cases—Wessler Murder Mystery—James Pryor Arrested—Birthday Party—Local Briefs.

Tuesday afternoon at about 4 o'clock Arthur Scott, a young boy about 17 years of age, living on Thirteenth street, near Pacific avenue, was riding his bicycle on Lincoln avenue at a rapid speed, and in trying a corner he ran into a team belonging to George Ludlow. One of the horses is young and quite wild, and the young man fell near the horse's hind feet, the animal kicked young Scott in the face, the shoe also hitting him on the forehead. The horse then ran past up the right through considerable distance, when three boys and a young man succeeded in stopping the team. The young man was overheated and fell between the wheels, the heavy loaded wagon passing over his right leg just below the knee, breaking both of the bones, one of the bones protruding through the skin. The injured man was brought down to Ogden and taken to Dr. Hoge's operating room, where the bones were set and the fracture reduced. The skin for three inches deep was torn. Mr. Campbell was taken home last evening in a hacks.

JULIUS A. FARLEY DEAD.

Yesterday morning a shock was sent over the Mound Fort ward, when the death of Julius A. Farley was announced. Last Saturday night he was at the Tabernacle Fair apparently well, on the day he was taken with pains in the stomach. He retired that night at 11 o'clock complaining of severe stomach pains. He was so suffering he was unable to get up, the pains being so agonizing, but he did not send for a doctor until early Monday morning, when Dr. Hoge was summoned, who pronounced the case a serious one. Every effort was made to give relief but without avail, and yesterday morning at 10 o'clock he was called to the great beyond. The cause of death was pronounced as chronic of the right kidney, made so some years ago. Julius A. Farley was in years of age, and he leaves a living wife and several children. His father died some one hundred brothers and sisters reside in Ogden. The deceased was a member of Lafayette Lodge, No. 1, and one of the most active workers in the Mound Fort ward. The funeral services will be held next Sunday afternoon at the Mound Fort meeting house at 1 p.m. Friends may view the remains at the family residence at Twelfth street from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m. on Sunday.

IN THE COURTS.

Damage Suit Compromised—Probate and Other Cases Disposed of.

In the Second district court, before Judge Hinkins, the following business was disposed of:

The damage suit of W. H. Dyer vs. Oregon Short Line Railroad Company, wherein defendant is sued for $10,000 for alleged injuries sustained by plaintiff in an accident on the road on September 18, 1898, after the jury had been called and examined and several witnesses had been examined for the defense and that a compromise had been effected for the $2,500 for plaintiff, by the consent of the court the jury were instructed to render a verdict for $2,500 in favor of plaintiff, which verdict was rendered.

In the case of George A. Craig vs Jonathan Williams, the case was called for hearing on the motion to discharge receiver.

In the matter of the estate of Thomas Jonas Whitney, the court signed an order fixing October 7th as the time of hearing on petition of Emil S. Boshop, administrator, for approval of final account.

In the matter of the estate of Robert John Hewlett, petition was filed by Ann Hewlett, divorced wife of the deceased, asking that N. J. Harris be appointed administrator of said estate of deceased. October the 11th was set for hearing of petition.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT.

Before Judge Holmes, yesterday afternoon. The case of George A. Craig vs Jonathan Williams was dismissed. Two boys charged for throwing stones on the Union Pacific property, were discharged.

WESSLER MURDER MYSTERY.

Trustee Arraigned for the Homicide—Jas. Pryor Arrested and Held.

Thomas Trahern was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Jeremiah Hall on the charge of the murder of Charles L. Wessler. The statutory time to plead was taken. The preliminary hearing was set for Friday at 2 p. m.

There has been no new developments in the case. The officers are making a vigorous search for more information on light on the crime. Deputy Attorney Halverson thinks he has a new lead to some more evidence, but what it is cannot be learned. Yesterday afternoon the officers had the dead man viewed by a number of those who were on the grounds to see if they could recognize the man. It was hoped that some one would come forward and identify the man, but no one did so. Many of those who had a gun or bludgeon, about four inches in size and about 2 inches wide. Witness saw two men get off the train. He got off the car on the north side; the man had a black stock hat on, believed that the man whom he ordered off was Conners.

After ordering the man from the train witness noticed four men on the south side of the train, one was running east, another was walking rapidly after the other man, and two were standing still. The man running went around the cars. The man walking was an officer and passed through the train between two box cars, behind the rear car. Witness then crossed over to the north side and again saw the officer. He did not see the man supposed to be Conners. Witness passed again to the south side and saw the two men standing. They were then walking east. Just before the train was leaving Witness saw two men standing near the rear car, where he had put off Conners, he recognized one as the officer. As the train pulled out, witness caught the officer and he again saw the officer and his party. He counted about twenty feet from him. They were standing east of the water tank. Witness thought he could see the man and who might have crossed from the south side to the north side.

The hat was by the side of the man whom witness saw with the officer was like the one worn by the man whom witness left off the box car.

Mrs. Florence Pike was next called. Lives across the road from the scene of the shooting. Was sewing in the southeast upstairs room. About midnight heard the report of a gun or pistol; sat up in bed and through a window saw a man running west on the street. The night was dark; it looks a moon-light night. The man was in a stooping position. Could not tell whether the rubber man had a hat on or not, did not know how he was dressed.

Adjourned until 1:30 Thursday morning.

POLITICS.

A meeting of the Republican city committee was held in the county court house last Monday evening at which it was decided to hold the Republican primaries on October 11th and the city convention on October 14th. The delegates were apportioned as follows: First ward, 16; Second, 14; Third, 16; Fourth, 20; Fifth, 12; total, 78. The nominees will be announced and ward committees will be elected at each primary.—The Nation.

A rather amusing disturbance occurred at the Ballard school in the east ward one day yesterday afternoon. Miss Nellie Hawkins has charge of the school, and yesterday she chastised a refractory pupil, a girl by the name of Jones, by being rather rare. At the close of school the girl was requested to remain behind, as the teacher wished to talk to her. Some of the other pupils informed Mrs. Jones, the mother of the girl, that the teacher had whipped her "terrible," and forthwith the mother, the girl and her father, proceeded to the school with a good-sized club, which she gave to Professor Hughes upon the arrival of the teacher. The girl became, the little parent, resolved to kick, and after calling out some of the teacher's friends and attempting to remove the teacher, the girl was taken home. The teacher was left to go to her boarding house in the Ballard building. Professor Hughes at the matter quite differently, and announces the condition of affairs Mrs. Jones will have to settle the matter to the school board which will have to exonerate Professor Hughes from any blame in the matter, in charge of their duties and would suggest that the director in the school.

COALVILLE.

Trade and Business Brisk—Death of Mrs. Willis.

Coalville, Summit Co., Sept. 27.—The coal trade is quite brisk and the miners are steadily employed. Business in all the branches and the merchants report better sales and easier collections.

It is a pleasant sight to see the men who have signed on their farms and prepared to make comfortable homes in better circumstances than those who neglected their land to seek employment at the mines or in the cities.

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIS.

Mrs. Cordia Pearson Willis, one of the oldest settlers of Coalville and Summit county, died last Saturday. The deceased was born in Nauvoo, Illinois, December 6th, 1841. She joined the Church in 1856, and emigrated to Utah 44 years ago. With the exception of a year spent in Salt Lake City, her home has been in Coalville ever since. Mrs. Willis was the children of Sister Willis have preceded her to the other side and she died with the assurance that they will be industrious characteristic of the sturdy race from which she sprang. Sister Willis, widely known throughout the county for her kindness and beautifying of the dear dead, left the faith of this city, whose cause she was a strong and sincere advocate, were in attendance to the funeral and all other Mormon people who had known her therefore was the entire industry she displayed. Although 67 years old she was quite active and her mental and general activity continued her to her bed for the last three months. Sister Willis was a sister of Mrs. Jesse N. Smith.

Something accomplished, something done
Has earned a night's repose.

The funeral services were held in the Stake Tabernacle in charge of President W. W. Craft and Alma Eldredge delivered sympathetic and appropriate discourses. Interment was made in the Coalville cemetery on the hill.
