BUSINESS AND MINES.

Union Stockyards in the Hands of Eastern Creditors.

VISIT TO THE SUGAR FACTORY.

Call for Convention in Salt Lake.—Mr. Joyce Going East.—Miscellaneous Items.

Mr. J. C. Leary is now fully in harness in his new position as manager of the Union Stock Yards, north of this city, which position he assumed as announced in the NEWS of Saturday evening.

The Union Stock Yard company was incorporated by local capitalists over a year ago, with a capital stock of $150,000. The business got along fairly for some months, but in common with other enterprises felt the pressure of hard times and a light volume of business this summer. The consequence was that the company was unable to meet a coupon of some $20,000 due to Morse & Richardson, as the latter, under the mortgage of trust deed executed by the company to secure it, had to foreclose, entered into possession of the property, and will hereafter conduct the business.

MORE SILVER DIVIDENDS.

Today the quarterly dividend of the Horn Silver Mining company, for the three months ending on Saturday last, is being paid out to stockholders. The amount is $90,000, and the distribution shows that the Horn Silver is one of the rich, if not the richest of the Rosclaire group in position and the low price of silver. The mine is being worked by a good force, and the shipment of ore goes on regularly.

VISIT THE SUGAR WORKS.

Tomorrow the directors of the Utah Sugar Works company will go down to Lehi on the morning train from this city to visit and inspect the factory. They will be accompanied by a number of public officials and leading citizens who have been invited to take a look at the works in full operation. The party will return in the evening.

TO GO IN THE MORNING.

Secretary Snyder of the Chamber of Commerce expects to leave on the morning train for Chicago, where he is to be one of Utah's representatives at the World's Fair. His advertising matter is packed up and ready for transport, though it is possible that Mr. Snyder may have to delay his departure for another day. After he is through with his work at the Fair he will make a short trip to the east and then come to Salt Lake. He expects to be absent six weeks.

A CONVENTION CALLED.

After the NEWS went to press on Saturday evening the following call was promulgated:

At a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a resolution was adopted authorizing the president of the Chamber to issue a call for delegates from the various counties throughout the Territory to attend a convention in the Chamber of Commerce hall, Salt Lake City, October 10, 1893, at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of establishing a permanent bureau of information for Utah Territory.

Owing to the great interest manifested in Utah by the people of the Eastern and Middle states, and the immense travel which will be occasioned by the Midwinter fair in San Francisco, it is deemed of the greatest importance to Utah that her vast resources and possibilities be placed before them, setting forth the numerous advantages of this section of the country.

It is desired that every county in the Territory be represented in order that reliable statistics may be obtained showing its agricultural, horticultural and mineralogical resources, the manufactures products, and the opportunities for the investment of capital and the establishment of new enterprises.

In this way each and every county in the Territory would receive its proportionate benefit from the influx of people from Eastern areas as would be sent abroad.

W. S. HYNEMAN,
President Chamber of Commerce.

The basis of representation is as follows: Salt Lake 7, Weber 5, Utah 4, Cache 3, Cassville 1, Pain City 2, Davis 2, Box Elder 2, Sanpete 1, Beaver 2, Juab 2, Emery 1, Garfield 1, Grand 1, Iron 1, Kane 1, Millard 2, Morgan 1, Piute 1, Rich 1, San Juan 1, Sevier 1, Tooele 1, Uintah 1, Wasatch 1, Washington 1, Wayne 1.

ADVICE TO SHEEP OWNERS.

Sheepmen, stick to your sheep, for if you desert you will have to depose of them at a great loss, and when the storm is over you will have to pay for the fodder, says the Davis county Clipper. It is said that Australia grows the finest wool in the world, but one only has to go to Chicago to see some fine American wools. The men who began in the sheep business fifty years ago and were in his paper that the politicians are going to send the American sheep raising industry to the dogs, bought a flock, made another pile of money and have more sheep. Some faint-hearted sheep men say that Australia will soon block our wool selling business with their frozen mutton process, but that is all bosh. Those who are conversant with the situation in Australia have no fears on that score. Somewhere that mutton is frozen and that it costs something to ship it. Some of our wild predictions regarding the sheep and wool industry in the United States sound more like dreams than anything else. Some of our calamity stricken friends would live to have no battle so that such an enormous industry was born built upon a sure foundation and that the fleece trade will withstand it, but we may be assured that the industry is founded upon a rock.

PARK "MERMAID" FIRES.

The Ontario mill shipped forty-six bars of bullion this week containing 24,000.41 fine ounces of silver.

Charles Bulheler returned this week from Farmington, near which town he has a gold prospect. He brought back several pieces of the ore from the vein himself and partner have opened up and mined it 10 feet, five feet wide. The rock assays $70 in gold and a few ounces in silver. Mr. Bulheler Bulheler himself and partner have a reasonably good showing for a prospect hole, and will continue to develop the ore streak they have encountered.

The Mammoth sampling mill is running every day now. The addition of the Silver King to the regular shipments makes considerable difference at the mill.

A shaft set of each of Max Pierce's and Northland ore was shipped over the Utah Central on it to the Minnehaha & Salt Lake Wednesday of this week. Should the carbon from because there is less lime the base ones contain. Some of the ores are known to be valuable in each mine, and when the market becomes again strong they will undoubtedly be the pioneers.

The Ontario company has begun a side to make a side of ore, though very sooner in the monthly has been interrupted. It has the machinery, however, that within a week or ten days ore purchases will be received on a fair scale and an order given the company. Only enough ore is being brought at the present time to keep the reduction works going.

The Uncle Sam company is prepared to commence shipping ore within a few hours after the receipt of orders, and have ore enough on hand without mining another pound, to fill the order of 300 tons. The company has extended the time for stock to accompany coupons on the last assessment to October 20th, and for sale of stock for delinquent dues to November 20th.

After an absence of several years W. H. Crocker, the old time Grand prospector, turned up with some very rich silver ore. He claims to have prospected the country in the Uintah range at a distance of 150 miles, returning to the south side. While he failed to find any indications of gold, he brings three veins of silver on the southern Wyoming, one of which he claims is a bonanza, and while only a few inches to wash of its sampling gives every indication of widening and in depth is obtained. The ore, consisting to assays made by August Lowell, the Deseret company's mineralogist, shows a value of 42 ounces in silver, 28.4 per cent lead and $4.18 in gold. A sized sample from a second vein showed 59 ounces in silver, 18 per cent lead and $2.24 in gold. Mr. Crocker says himself and son will return and develop the mineral veins.

MICHIGAN "BULLETIN" NOTES.

Much activity can be seen among the miners of Gary Fork and Cedarwood gulches.

Ore is now being extracted at the Tecumseh mine, and considerable prospect work is also being done.

Ore is said to be being hauled down regularly and placed in the bins at the new Markham mill for treatment.

All the teams that can be obtained in this camp are now in use, hauling down the product of the mines to the railroad for shipment.

Thus far there have been over 400 horse carloads of ore shipped from Ringo this year, and it will need no doubting the same length of time to the year 1894.

D. W. Teachnor is taking out some fine ore at the Minnie mine. He is sinking on the ore pipes on that ground, and the mineral taken out averages about $60 to the ton.

Steam was used for the first time and the machinery of the new Markham concentrating mill was given a trial last Tuesday afternoon, and was found to be capable of doing first-class work. However, as with all new places, some few alterations had to be made, and the mill closed down Wednesday evening until such changes could be made, when it will begin operations in earnest.

The Dalton & Lark company completed a billiard shipment of the Rosclaire property of that property the latter part of last week, and began sinking down another lot over the Lost Mountain tramway Wednesday. The company is now employing a good force of men.

P. E. Keaney and Jas Kauffman, who have taken to placer mining, changed their base of operations a little farther up the canyon the first of this week, and, with much vim, are sinking a shaft for bedrock, when they reach which they expect to find rich deposits of the golden treasure.

The shipments of ore from the camp are increasing daily, and to such an extent that the D. G. & W. crew has to often make a night run from the junction up to bring supplies and empty cars. Thursday evening the train brought in was so heavy that two engines were necessary to pull it. Indeed, the oldtimers actually hesitated to the Old Jackass.

Andrew Pellerson informs us that he has contracted with Higham & Stein, the Markham millmen, to haul 100 tons of Nail ore for the Iron of York ore, which is now being hauled down from those properties. He also says the new ore body recently ear marked in the Nail is yielding very nicely, and that much improvement is noticeable in the ore bodies of the York mine.

NOTES.

Beautiful Upper Dawn has been quite a rush around Woods Cross during the past week. The gas pipes that were distributed last winter, are now being loaded on U. P. cars to be shipped to the Nemaha, Kansas, where they are to be used to bring water from the Brownell ranch to supply the Mammoth mine.

Dewitte, Wyoming, Journal: Mr. Kitt, who has just returned from London, says that sales are worth ten cents a pound in the London valley, but that wool is down to one cent. All harvesting is completed and the ranchmen feel satisfied with their season's work. All citizens of that section have their eyes on Lewiston and Minor's Delight at the present time. New discoveries are being made almost every day. At Lewiston, J. D. Woodruff's stamp mine has opened up a fine vein of free milling ore that takes $2,000 in gold. The amalgamator is now in operation and forty men are employed there. At Atlantic about sixty miners are at work on the Bunker Hill group, and the ten-stamp mill is operating day and night.

It is stated that the owners of the Dick mine in Dutch district will soon recommence operations, and will extensive reconstruct works.

SALT LAKE CLEARING HOUSE.

Today's clearing house exchanges amounted to $21,363.

YOUNG ARNUP'S TRIAL

He is Indicted for Causing the Death of a Chinaman.

The Defendant's Counsel Will Make a Hard Fight for Him—The Hearing Will Last All Day at Least.

The trial of the boy Charles Arnup on a charge of murder in the second degree began in the Third Judicial District court this morning. It is alleged that the accusation causes the death of a Chinaman, named Wong Kong Kee, by throwing a stone at him, in this city, on July 2nd of the present year.

For the prosecution Assistant District Attorney Howat and Attorney Velton (the former minister) appear, the latter in representation of Judge Powers and Attorney W. C. Bailey and J. H. Hirst.

A determined fight will be made by counsel in behalf of young Arnup, it being understood that he deeply feels his situation when he forced upon the unknown Chinaman, who, it is proven, ran at him with a club. There are a dozen or more witnesses to the tragedy of the day, including one of the Kee's boys, testifying.

The deceased was about sixty years of age and had a livelihood by going around with a wagon, selling vegetables. On the 3rd of July he was looking for wood daily remains, and Wong Kee, Tiffie Kee and Ah Ling, the owner of Ninth Last, the defendant and some companions began to annoy him. Soon in the allegation of the prosecution, it is alleged that they then followed the Chinaman and began to throw stones at him so he drove on east. He got out of the wagon, Arnup picked up a large rock and hurled it at the deceased, knocked him a heavy blow on the left side of the head, sent the man, bleeding and stunned, crawling to the front to Kee. He got up, washed the blood from the wound, and was able to drive down the road. In such a condition and the injury was obvious to The Chinaman died, however, on the 4th July, the following after the occurrence, and the defendant was indicted.

Among the witnesses called during the afternoon was a lad named George Sharpless, who testified to having seen Arnup throw a stone and he could not say whether he did so after the Chinaman started from his wagon. He understood the defendant to remark that he would "kill all the Chinamen wherever he met them anyway." This was shortly after the local show had been struck. Attorney Harris handled the cross-examination of the witness to quite a radical extent, and while the boy—who is about 13 years old—is quite a very intelligent, clear and straight-forward story, contained enough on several answers favorable to the accused.
