Graduating Exercises of the Salt Lake Collegiate Institute—The Business Academy—Notes.

Principal Dyke and his corps of assistant teachers have the satisfaction of knowing that their labors have been attended with success. The last year has been a discouraging one to college work, but this institution has established for itself a commendable manner in well earned reputation. The exercises of graduation were very praiseworthy. The productions by the students were excellent and the addresses to the principal and by Mr. Rooks were replete with that which will add to the practical affairs of life. The rings was very neatly delivered with fervent and the graduates are honorably remembered as regards.

The University annual graduating exercises of the Salt Lake Collegiate Institute were held at the Tabernacle on Friday evening before a very large audience. The list of graduates was the first D. Hoffman, who chose for an essay "The Madness in Art;" Ida Edith A. Peterson, who chose for an essay "Lessons from the Heathen Gods;" Louisa Hulette, who chose "Ancient Conditions and the Poets;" Miss Nora H. Brown had as early as "Science Bulletinsets," and Miss Beatrice's subject was, "America Through European Spectacles." A memorandum of the productions of the graduates was their originality and freedom from Studies of themselves. Art and humanity. The essay was an interesting part of the program, especially the one by Miss Lucy Tanner and the music by Miss Lucy Tanner and Mr. Lorenzo Snow and the quartette by Mr. C. T. Dunham, Miss Annie F. Balmer, Miss Tanner and Lorenzo. After the essayist part of the program had been completed, Rev. S. R. Wilson spoke to the interest of the graduates, giving a brief account of Antiquity, and according to the female graduates in their special regard, which they have so freely done in the past. The diplomas were presented by Dr. McOlver, who spoke appreciatively of the graduates coming under his charge, also holding them for spots as they enter upon the duties of life.

The exercises at the Summer school on Friday afternoon were well attended, and were of an interesting character. The participants in the declamatory contest from both schools did well, so the contest was very close, so close that the Board was compelled to call the school to a decision. Although the decision was given to the Summer school, The speakers for the Summer were: Minnie Kate Meadows and Ida Bryan; for the Fall-Health, Minnie Lily Fielding and Bertie Keaton. Considering the age of the contestants, the success may be said to have been exceedingly well—much better than is an average school. The audience was agreeably surprised both in listening to the skill in declamation as well as the elements displayed in the contest. Resolved, That the steam engine has been of more benefit than the printing press. The arguments in the main were not only good and well prepared, but were presented in a convincing manner. The session was a decided success from every view point.

The University boys propose to have a jump time on the occasion of their field day exercises, June 15th. Prizes are offered as follows: For the best jump swimmer, an elegant bathing suit, valued at $7. For the best gymnastic swimmer, a handsome bathing suit, valued at $6. Notice.

The Primary conference of Salt Lake Stake will be held in the Assembly Hall Saturday, June 16th, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Please bring lamps. E. C. CLAWSON, President.

The New Resort.

Active preparations are being made for the opening up of the new pleasure gardens at Bountiful, on the line of the O. S. L. & Hot Springs railway. The improvements in progress are making the place one of the most delightful resorts in the locality. The river side of our suburbs today has caused the extension of a more extensive notice.

Sells and Renfrew's Circus.

The first circus of the season will show here on Saturday next and the small boy is accordingly happy. It is under the management of Sells and Renfrew, who announce that they will admit, free of charge, all the orphans of the city.

Kanab Stake Conference.

The Kanab Stake conference was held in Orderville, June 2nd and 3rd, 1894. There were present, of the authorities, on the occasion, Elias Kimball, D. Woolley and Daniel Stagemiller, of the Kanab Stake presidency, some of the members of the High Council and Bishops of the various wards. Conference was not attended by the female portion of the Stake, but on account of so many of the brethren being away out of the Stake and otherwise hindered, they were not so perfectly represented.

Saturday morning after the usual opening exercises, Prest. E. D. Woolley addressed the Sunday school, dwelling on the subject of teachers and early praying. Belief destroys that the Saints in this Stake should be willing to endeavor to carry out the wishes of the First Presidency in this matter, and cause the practice of these things, as he considered it to be the mind and will of the Lord unto us. Resolutions having been adopted, the High Council and Bishops that they would refrain from the practice of these evil habits in the future, an expression from the Saints assembled was had, in which the action of the High Council was sustained, without a dissenting vote.

Elder Heber J. Meeks, a fully informed missionary from the Southern States, occupied most of the remainder of the session in the exhortation and edification of the Saints. He was followed by Bishop Macdonald of Grass Valley ward that day.

Elders James Lardbaal, Daniel Stagemiller, of the Kane Presidency, Richard R. Hellewell, Bishops Dodge, Jolley, Henry W. Lapish, Joel H. Johnson and Hoyt H. Cutler, and Elder Charles S. Crane were also speakers during conference. The spirit bestowed upon were the signs of the times, bearing out Christ's inspiration, obedience to the counsel of the Priesthood, Sabbath day observance, Word of Wisdom, and many other points of interest. The genuine and close authorities were announced by standard and we felt very heartening and instructive prophetic counsel and in the confirmation of the faithful and encouraging and faithful to spread.

In regard to our prosperity it cannot but be satisfactory as we stand here to see it. There has been but very little rainfall during the last winter and spring so far, but plenty, and in consequence there is not little green growing on the range, and cattle have thriving. It is quite as recent as I can locally remember. We have had a cool, dry, backward spring, considerably cool early by frost and a poor prospect for dry land farmers, unless we receive more rain. The Virgin river is very low for this time of the year. It is Orderville Woolen mill is being put into use. Orderville fair prospects of our territory being enlarged and peopled and put to better account. Hoping that Kanab may make no but a little more serious efforts for home interests.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Interesting Proceedings at the Weber Stake Academy—Principal's Report.

The commencement exercises in connection with the Weber Stake Academy were brought off with real eclat. Never in the history of that institution has a season been attended with so much success in every department of the work, and never has such a successful examination been brought to a successful issue.

The lecture room of the Academy was prettily decorated with flowers and waiting for the occasion, and the exercises were largely attended by citizens and the parents of the students. The music pieces were well carried out under the able direction of the principal, Dr. Geo. F. Pitkin.

The exercises were of a very multiform order, and were attended in a manner that reflected the highest credit on the principal and faculty. The theological exercises, under the direction of Bishop G. J. Stevens, and the report on the department by the Bishop showed it to be in a very satisfactory condition. The songs and recitations and musical numbers given by the students were of an unusually high character, and the same received by Mr. Chas. Kent and Mr. Joseph Richardson, and the musical selections given by Mrs. Sigrist Cragg were exceedingly enjoyable.

In the course of the afternoon Elder Franklin D. Richards addressed the assembly. He spoke at considerable length on the need of the Saints taking an increased interest in the Academy, for it was in their behalf that they asked for securing the Church with Bishop and Elders. He exhorted the people on a proper observance of the Sabbath, and urged them to see that the children attended Sunday school and church. Much good he said, would be done if we could encourage the children to be men of righteousness, and he implored upon his hearers to unite with the children a spirit of respect for civil others and self-respect for themselves. He vigorously denounced the work of those who speak of curtailing the academy, and congratulated the board on their obtaining the services of such a gifted school as principal of that noble institution. He also congratulated the school, characterized with earnestness and fervency, and the good counsel he gave greatly impressed one example.

The following is a copy of the report read by the principal, which shows the flourishing condition of the institution from an educational point of view.

To President Smithill and the Board of Education:

Brethren—It affords me much pleasure to submit to you the following report. The academy opened on September 4th with 145 students, which had increased to 152 at the close of the first term. This number wonderfully augmented and finally reached the total of 207, being 30 more than the year previous. The school was divided into five departments, primary, preparatory, intermediate, academic and normal. The usual course were pursued in the primary, preparatory and intermediate, while in the academic and normal the following studies were offered and held: Grammar, arithmetic, rhetoric, elocution, English literature, logic, military, bookkeeping, pedagogy, physics, algebra, geometry, Latin, French, psychology, theory and practice of teaching, phonography, type writing, general history and physiology.

In the academic department Prof. Wm. H. Jones was the instructor. In his work Mr. Jones was unusually assiduous and effective and the able instruction he gave are amply evidenced in the commendable degree of excellence to which his pupils have attained, as manifested in the examinations recently held. Mr. Jones is a gentleman of experience and of a high order of talents and is an acquisition to any school in Zion.

In the intermediate department you were exceptionally fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Mattie Barker. The department over which this lady presides was the largest in the academy and taxed the capacity and ability of Mrs. Barker to the utmost. The work done has been of a most satisfactory and thorough nature and Mrs. Barker is to be congratulated upon the efficiency and good condition to which her department has been brought and which are the best evidences to be found of her ability as a good instructress.

In the preparatory department, at the outset the services of Miss West were needed, and her work while she remained was exceptionally good. Unfortunately the condition of her health did not admit of her remaining in the school long and the services of Prof. A. F. O. Nelson were secured. Mr. Nelson brought with him an experience and culture that have been a source of great satisfaction to the society. Under his tuition the preparatory department has progressed rapidly and is one of the best features of our Academy. In addition to his work in the preparatory, Mr. Nelson has rendered valuable assistance in the academic department, teaching the subjects of physiography and general history. A report from special teacher of Mr. Nelson's work in pedagogy, which has been exceptionally good. All of the students in the advanced class have supplied a good outline from his lectures on pedagogy. Owing to the illness of Mr. Nelson's sister it was necessary to secure the services of an assistant, and a happy selection was made in the person of Miss Henry H. Emmons. Miss Emmons is a lady of extensive and established her claims with great ability.

In the primary department Miss Clara Chambers was in charge. I could speak in terms too highly commendatory of the work of this lady and her assistant, Miss Bell. And I am sure in consider the statement that no teacher in primary work has excelled Miss Chambers, and very few have obtained the same degree. Miss Chambers is a natural teacher and her methods are refined by profound study and originality.

I would strongly urge the board if it is their intention to open school next year to have in view in contracting all of the above mentioned teachers. The report of the assistant teachers, the work done, the extensive learn from Mrs. Barker, and the exhibition of the classes of the Friday must have been very gratifying to you. Before the retiring of the board, Hon. Jos. Standard had charge of the theological department as well as in physical geography, spare and history and ethics. Mr. Standard has engaged a special class in the art of public speaking which was very successful indeed and produced a much good. Mr. Standard was compelled to leave us in January owing to his duties in the legislature. In the normal department the work has been well done by those students who took the course. I regret that owing to my other duties and the ought of the family I was not able to give that attention to my classes that they ought to have and yet therefore the work done was exceedingly good, all things considered. Special classes were conducted in Latin, French, and Spanish, ably and thoroughly, all of which were satisfactorily attended.

While we have no normal department organized as yet, yet we were fortunate in securing the attendance of our gifted young lecturer, Mr. Sigrist Cragg. It is not too much for me to say anything as to the fitness and aptitude of Mr. Cragg. That is well known to you all. I would strongly urge that some steps be taken to secure his services for the coming year.

A special department of art would this year and one which has undoubtedly seen a great interest to the public was our Afternoon meetings. To Mr. Standard and Mr. Jones special thanks are due for their labors in this connection.

Of course you are well aware of the financial difficulties we were under during the past year and of the very discouraging circumstances surrounding our family. I desire to record my testimony to the faithfulness and energy of my associate. They demonstrated themselves to be noble men and noble women and are deserving of much praise. I would like to state in this connection that it was a matter of regret to the teachers that the people of members of your board were so very infrequent. A kind word of encouragement is a splendid inducement to work and is as good as incentive to teachers as it is to students, equally so that the attendance of a best year's school has most serious disaster of all to the teachers.

My associations during the term of my principalship have been of the most pleasant nature and it is with regret that I severe my connection with the academy. Ogden is settled in and will undoubtedly yet possess one of the best schools in the Territory. I trust this circumstance will soon arise that will relieve the board of the great load they are now carrying.

I would strongly recommend the board to lose no time in deciding upon teachers for the coming season. A school is in a sense a business and ought to be conducted on a business basis. I visited most of the residents in the interest of the Academy during the past winter and found that was a very small percentage of the people were conscious of the full significance of the Church school system. I am well satisfied that if a good faculty were engaged now and the summer spent in advertising the school, that the board would soon realize that treated as a business it would pay. The course was pursued at Provo and the result was an attendance the year before last of over 1,200. These suggestions are prompted by a sincere desire to see the Academy prosper and occupy the leading position which the Weber Stake has a right to expect it shall.

I trust that the spirit of peace and prosperity may attend you, and I beg to subscribe myself,

Yours sincerely,
GEORGE F. PITKIN, M.A.,
Principal.

A Desperado In the Toils.

Officer Pender effected a clever arrest yesterday by landing behind the bars C. C. Sylvester, an escaped convict from San Quentin, Cal. Sylvester was consigned to the California prison for a term of twelve years. Some time ago he was released on parole, and on the 27th of March last, he disappeared. The Vocation has gone. A few days ago Chief of Police Davenport received a notification of the man, accompanying which was the offer of a $50 reward for his capture.

Yesterday as Officer Pender was making his usual rounds he ran across the man on lower Twenty-fifth street. When taken to the jail he was examined, and in almost every detail he corresponds with the description which was furnished. The authorities at San Quentin have been communicated with.
