NEWS OF THE WEST.

Sudden Death of an Aspen, Colorado, Lady.

INSURANCE AGENT DROWNED.

Suit Against the Southern Pacific for the Accidental Killing of Two Men in a Mine.

Professor Kennemale of Coquille, Or., has 10,000 silk worms that he expects soon to be ready for business.

The Visalia, Cal., Fruit and Land company has received and refused an offer of $6,000 for the peach crop on 160 acres.

George H. Hall, aged 26, special agent for the New York Life Insurance company, was drowned Sunday in Pennsylvania reservoir on J. H. Mills's ranch while bathing, says a dispatch from San Diego, Cal.

The new creamery at Tillamook, Or., is receiving 8,000 pounds of milk a day, its capacity is 3,000 pounds. The butter is made into cheese every day, and about three tons of cheese is made each week. Ordinarily ten pounds of milk make one pound of cheese.

A Chinese named Yee Too Foo was found lying in a doorway on Baker alley, at an early hour Monday morning, says the San Francisco Chronicle, suffering from the effects of a potion of some kind. The shot entered the wounded man's stomach. The officers discovered a Chinese attempting to hide himself. He was arrested and gave the name as Ah Fong. The wounded Chinese died on the way to the receiving hospital.

A Tacoma, Wash., dispatch says: William Chessler, administrator of the estates of Emil Hermes and Thomas Sanderson, has brought suit to recover $10,000 damages from the Carbon Hill Coal company. The cause is the accidental killing of these men in December, 1881. He recites that they were working in a mine which caved in, owing to the proper timbering, killing them. Damages of $5,000 are asked in each case. The Southern Pacific company owns the mine.

M. R. Shelton and party have returned from the Clear Water country, says a Post Falls, Idaho, dispatch. They report the drowning, six miles below the mouth of the North Fork, of Eugene Williams, of Post Falls. One of the boats was swamped and Williams was carried out to the confluence of the two currents and immediately sank from sight. The party visited the scene of Colgate's desertion by the Curtis party and found several articles that belonged to Colgate.

News has just been received from Cornelius, Mexico, says the Deming, N. M., Headlight, of reports having been brought there from Sonora, that about three weeks ago, Yaqui Indians attacked a camp of eight Americans, engaged in placer mining on the Yaqui river and killed the entire company. The remains were found by natives a few days after the tragedy. One of the miners, supposed to have been the last one killed, was literally surrounded by empty shells and the whole eight only succumbed after a desperate resistance.

George Zimmerman, a prominent and well-to-do resident of Petaluma, met with a serious accident at Santa Rosa, Cal., says a dispatch. He was driving a high-spirited horse, and when he started home the horse became unmanageable, running into the sidewalk. Zimmerman was thrown out of the buggy, his head striking on the stone curb. His scalp was cut across the crown of the head and stripped from the skull on the right side down below the eyes. Mr. Zimmerman was unconscious for some time after the accident. He did not recover his senses until after his injuries had been dressed by a physician.

Mrs. John Flavan, a laundress from Aspen, and who was one of the unconscious from that city Sunday, says: Ouray Springs, Colo., Sunday, she suddenly seized with convulsions brought on by heart failure while in bathing in the pool and died half an hour afterwards. She was accustomed to heart trouble and her death was the result of too much excitement. Before leaving Aspen she had to run very hard to catch the train, and this fact, together with various incidents that occurred after arriving in Glenwood and previous to her visit to the pool, are supposed to have occasioned her death. When seized with convulsions she was assisted from the pool house, and the company physician and Dr. Lewis were hastily summoned and worked with her for half an hour, but could do nothing for her.

A San Jose, Cal., dispatch says: Some boys playing in the bed of Guadalupe creek about three miles southwest of the city Sunday afternoon made a startling discovery. In a clump of bushes they found a coal oil box which contained the dissected remains of a human body. The sheriff's office was notified and a deputy in company with the coroner drove to the place and secured the ghastly find. There was every evidence that the body had been placed there recently, and that it came from the rooms of either medical students or a physician who desired a skeleton for anatomical purposes. The flesh had been stripped from the bones in large slices, the face and head being in one piece, the former badly disfigured by the knife. The flesh of the body was in four pieces. The arms with hands attached and the legs and lower part of the body were in separate bits. The whole plainly showed the hand of a person skilled in dissection. As to where the body was obtained there is no clew. The man was probably about 25 years of age and very large in size. The coroner will have the find buried. The officers are at sea as to where to look for a clew that will lead to the detention of the guilty parties.
