CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 19.—By a vote of 25 to 13 the motion of Davis, of West Virginia, to reconsider the vote adopting a resolution for the appointment of a committee on the inter-oceanic canal was taken up, and Davis explained his reasons for making the motion which was passed by 29 to 25. After some discussion, whether the subject should go to the committe on foreign affairs on special commission, McDonald called for regular order on the five per cent. bill.

Morrill opposed and Messrs. McMillan and Saunders supported the bill.

After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 19.—Blackburn endeavored to dispense with the morning hour and consider the rules but was unable to obtain the necessary two-thirds vote.

The bill regulating the removal of causes from the State to Federal courts was taken up. While the third clause, 21st rule was under consideration, Stephens desired to address the committee for 10 minutes. The democrats objected.

Speer moved that the committee rise; agreed to.

The yeas and nays were then called on the motion to go into committee of the whole on the state of the Union for the purpose of giving Stephens an opportunity to speak. The motion prevailed, 117 yeas and 114 nays, and Springer took the chair.

Blackburn and Conger claimed the floor. The latter was recognized and eulogized Stephens as the only living representative of the old time Jacksonian democracy.

Stephens then took the floor and opposed rule 21. He said it was not his purpose to speak of the history of the democratic or whig party, although his attachment to the party was as strong as that of any man in the House. He had been reared in the Jeffersonian school of democracy; in it he had lived, breathed and had his being, and in it he should die. Coming to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Warner), he declared there was a great principle involved in it. Whether it was adopted or rejected, neither party would be worsted. He was opposed to the 21st rule individually; why? Because he did not believe that, according to the democratic doctrine of Jefferson, Madison and Jackson it was ever intended that appropriation bills should be encumbered with any other legislation than appropriations. If there had been any progress in legislation in this country, it had been in excluding from the appropriation bills other matters as riders. Mr. Hurd had said the other day that it was a democratic doctrine to seek redress of grievances by withholding appropriations. He (Stephens) repudiated the proposition. It had never been democratic doctrine; it was a monarchial doctrine. The redress of grievances in this country was, first, by petition to the legislative body, next to the judiciary, and next to the ballot box. Under the Constitution the Executive had the same rightful and constitutional power to veto a bill as the House and Senate had to pass it, and the new doctrine of making war upon the veto power through the means of appropriation bills was not democratic, was not republican, but was anti-constitutional.

Being Hooker's point against Warner's amendment, the point was overruled and Warner's amendment to the 21st rule was adopted.

Several amendments by Mills were rejected. They provided for amendments to the appropriation bills, reducing customs and taxes, retiring bank circulation and free coinage of silver.

Robeson offered an amendment that no appropriation shall be in order as an amendment to any general appropriation bill which changes the existing law; adopted, 115 to 43. Many democrats voted for it in order to substitute it for Warner's amendment and to have a chance to support it in the House.

The committee rose and the House adjourned.

EASTERN.

WASHINGTON.

Conger's Introduction of Stephens.

WASHINGTON, 19. — Introducing the speech of Stephens in the House, Conger said he had made a motion in the interest of free speech. He had desired the opportunity to hear the voice of the distinguished gentleman from Georgia (Stephens), whose legislative experience, and whose familiarity with the rules of the House dated back to the time when the fierce democracy of the other side believed in free speech, in free discussion and in the doctrines of the old, hard-fisted Jacksonian democracy of which he (Stephens) was the living representative still, thank God! [Applause.] If in the progress of events in this country it had happened that the democratic party once so honored, once so esteemed, once so respected, once embracing so large a portion of people of all sections and all regions, had slipped its moorings; if it had been wandering for years on unknown seas of adventure; if it had forgotten the principles of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jackson, what a glorious thing it was for the country that there still lived, still breathed, still was one, in all his mental and intellectual vigor, with memory unimpaired, an old representative of the democracy of those days then Whigs, [applause and laughter] then acting with that party, true to the Constitution, but upholding the Jefferson ideas of democracy, and to-day acknowledged by all democrats as a representative of old line democracy, honored by them as such, having brought into the fold the ark of the covenant of Whigery, (laughter) and placed it in the democratic camp. How fortunate was it for the old representatives of the whig party that the ark of the covenant was still held by the gentleman, and that he could tell what democracy had been in early days, what it had been when the whig party had become the depository of its principles, how he had borne that ark down through the scenes of revolution and rebellion through all the driftings of the party, and was ready to present it here to-day. He did not wonder modern democrats refused to hear the venerable statesman. Here was an unwonted spectacle and of refusal to hear him even on the subject of rules. He (Conger) and his friends, together with a few democrats, had at last brought the House a position where the gentleman from Georgia could speak, where the gag was removed from him, and with pleasure exceeding that which he had went to express. Yielding to the earnest longings of his friends on all sides to hear again the old words of democracy from the eloquent expounder of those doctrines, he would yield the remainder of his time to the gentleman from Georgia.

Brief Notes.

Mr. Plixotteus, consul at Lyons, France, in a dispatch to the Department of State, says: The political affairs of England and of Europe have had considerable effect during the past year on the silk trade. Germany has suffered from various economical causes, and is struggling to restrict her production to home consumption. The proprietors of Russia have been compelled to economize in the finer fabrics. Austria, following the example of the United States, has, by her tariff regulations maintained a better degree of prosperity than other countries. Italy and Spain have largely suffered from bad crops. Everywhere the demand for silk goods has been limited to modest qualities as well as modest colors. Since the fashion has favored mixed stuffs in place of rich and pure silks, Lyons has made great efforts to use other materials in order to sustain the labor of her 100,000 workers.

The President sent to the Senate to-day the information called for by the resolution relative to the Spanish Claims commission. This commission was organized under the treaty of 1871, on account of the loss sustained by Americans in Cuba. During the nine years this commission has been in existence it appears that it has sat but 15 days in each year. The amount paid claimants has been $967,000 and the amount of claims entered $26,000,000. There seems to have been a deliberate plan of the Spanish government to postpone payment of its just debts.

The committee on Pacific roads, to whom was referred the petition asking the repeal of the section in the act to incorporate the Texas and Pacific Railroad Company, etc., to declare the rights, franchise and lands granted in said section to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg Railroad Company forfeited, and that said section be re-enacted in favor of the New Orleans Pacific Railroad Company. The report favored the petition and was accompanied by a bill embodying such legislation. Representative Ellis was instructed to report it to the House with a request that it be printed and re-committed.

A member of the House appropriation committee said to-night he thought Congress could adjourn by the 1st and certainly by the middle of May; yet it is a fact that in the history of this country no Congress ever adjourned in the Presidential year until after the Presidential conventions of two parties were held, and it is also a fact that at no Congress at this time in the session has the work of the appropriation committees been so much in arrears.

One Stalwart.

CHICAGO, 19.—The Journal's New York special says: United States District Attorney Woodford says, "After three week's attendance upon the Chisholm trial, after having made a campaign tour in Louisiana and seeing what it costs to be a republican there, and after seeing the attempt to seize the government in Maine, I want to see a man nominated so strong, so resolute, so true, that when he is elected he will be inaugurated in spite of every effort to prevent it. Now you know who I shall vote for if I go to the Utica Convention." The indications are that George William Curtis will not be a delegate to the Republican State Convention.

Blaine's Ascendancy.

The Tribune has another liberal dose of correspondence, showing the decadence of the Grant and Sherman sentiment throughout the country, and the triumphant progress of the Blaine movement. Among the chief points are the following: A federal office holder traveling through the South states that he finds the democrats are hopeful that Grant will be nominated, and believe he is the easiest man to beat. Republicans want a man of less ring notoriety, Blaine or Washburne.

Help for Colored Refugees.

NEW YORK, 19.—The Times prints a card signed by Benjamin B. Sherman, president of the Mechanic's Bank, Jackson S. Schultz, Sinclair Tousey, F. D. Tappen, George Bliss, E. D. Morgan, Wm. E. Dodge, and others appealing for contributions for colored refugees in Kansas. The card states, we are gathering money and supplies for the Irish, which is right, but ought we not to remember our starving fellow citizens in our own country?

Political News.

The election of delegates yesterday to the Richmond county convention, Staten Island, to choose delegates to the Utica convention, resulted in a sweeping victory for the republicans, making the county convention almost unanimous for Grant.

COLUMBUS, 19.—About 800 citizens responded to the call for a meeting in the city to-night. Several delegates from neighboring towns came to attend the meeting. Hon. A. C. Hoffman, of this city presided. Among the speakers was F. F. Mack, of Sandusky. The meeting was enthusiastic. The principal points of Mack's remarks were antagonistic to the precepts laid down by Governor Foster in favor of Sherman a week ago.

Summary Dealing with Ravishers.

BALTIMORE, 19.—At the lynching of Page Wallis, at Point of Rocks, for outraging Miss Marmon, the latter was allowed to fire fourteen shots into the dangling form as it swung. This is the fourth lynching of negroes for outraging white women, in a circuit of twenty miles, since April.

The Pistol.

NEW ORLEANS, 19.—During the session of the House yesterday, Speaker Ogden's pistol fell from his pocket, causing it to discharge. Today District Attorney Finney filed an information against Ogden, charging him with carrying concealed weapons.

Killed His Wife.

DES MOINES, 19.—Late last night Henry Osborne, a coal miner, who has had frequent quarrels with his wife, struck her with a brick, then kicked her violently and fled. She only lived a few minutes. He was under the influence of liquor.

Going to Try Resurrection.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., 19.—It is understood that physicians will be allowed to experiment on the resuscitation of John Hall and Burrell Smith, the negro assassins of Major Pugh, after their execution on Friday.

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 14, 1880.

Editors Deseret News:

The future United States government bond will be for three and one half per cent. This is the decision of an almost unanimous ways and means committee of the House, and will no doubt prevail.

So much progress has been made towards the establishment of a new form of government for the Indian Territory that a sub-committee on Territories yesterday reported a bill on the subject. There is necessity for action, not only for the protection of the Indians, but for the opening up of parts of the Territory to other classes of inhabitants.

It is probable at this writing that when the case of Senator Ingalls is called up in the committte next week. The vote will be unanimous against disturbing him.

The most exciting contest ever known over a seat in the House has just been settled so far as the committee on elections can settle it. It is that of Donnelly against Washburne, a Minnesota case. Its importance comes from the fact that, if the House should be called upon to elect a President, and Washburne retain his seat, the vote of Minnesota would be given to the republican candidate, while, if Donnelly secures the seat the representatives of the State would be evenly divided and the State lose its vote. The debate in the House when the case comes up, will be long and bitter.

Commissioner Hayt's successor will soon be appointed. Among the gentlemen prominently named for the office are ex-Member Trowbridge, of Michigan, and ex-Member Manypenny, of Ohio, the former is supported by the entire Michigan delegation, and will, in all probably be the lucky man. An effort was made to secure the re-appointment of Mr. Smith, but as he was gotten rid off because he was not a reformer, Schurz would not hear of his reinstallment. He was an able and honest official, better by far than the man who succeeded him.

The proposition to organize a bureau of mines and mining, proposed some time ago, are now considering that subject. Hon. Clarance King, director of geological surveys, was before the sub-committee today and gave his views upon mineral resources of the United States. It is probable that Congress will take steps before long to give more prominent official recognition to this important branch of our national wealth.

LEM.

LOGAN, February 14th, 1880.

Editors Deseret News:

The Cache County Educational Institute met, per adjournment. Roll called, minutes of previous meeting read and adopted. S. Oldham was appointed critic for the session. Mrs. Molen gave a lesson in geography, Miss Langton followed with a select reading from Tennyson entitled "Guinevere." Brother Langton gave an address on the necessity for more school-houses. Owing to the length of the exercises a part of the programme was omitted till the next session. The critic's report was given in a critical manner. Wm. H. Apperley spoke of the importance of engaging the best talent in teaching our primary schools, also referred to the general absence of the Logan trustees from the conventions. He then presented a partial outline of study for the normal school during the summer of 1880, which was adopted, as follows: Elocution selections from the National Fifth Reader; Grammar, correction of errors under the rules of Syntax, commencing on page 173 of Harvey's Grammar, including orthography and punctuation; Mathematics, solving one hundred promiscuous examples commencing on page 314 and equations of the degree containing one unknown quantity, commencing on page 120 Ray's Algebra. Geography, names of all the countries on the Eastern and Western continents, including boundaries, capital cities, present forms of government, principal rivers and mountains of the world. A lecture each day on primary teaching, school government, the graded system or some other popular subject.

Mr. Apperley was in favor of adopting the same order of business during the session as was adopted at the last normal.

It was moved and carried that a standing committee be appointed to act during the normal session, and also to select the best talent in the county to teach during the first week. The following members were appointed to act: J. E. Carlisle, John Donaldson, Ellen Langton, Samuel Oldham, and Jos. Howells.

Mr. Carlysle read the rules and regulations of the Cache County Educational Library, which were adopted.

Programme for March read and approved.

Adjourned till second Saturday in March.

Benediction by J. E. Carlisle.
