

MOTHER GAVE LIFE FOR CHILD.

Sad Accident on Oregon Short
Line Near Market Lake,
Idaho.

MRS. PENNINGTON KILLED.

Four-Year-Old Child Also Loses Life
After Being Run Over by the Train.

The four-year-old Pennington child who sustained serious injuries by being run down by Oregon short line passenger train No. 19 on a canal bridge Saturday, followed its mother to the great beyond last night.

The accident was one of the saddest that has happened for some time. Mrs. Z. Pennington and four children were out walking on the Short Line track at a point about one mile north of Market Lake, Idaho, on Saturday. As the train was just approaching in the distance the mother rather than her children together and stepped to the side of the track. However, the four-year-old child got away and ran on to the bridge. The mother, seeing this, started to run to save the little one. The next moment she was struck by the engine and the train passed over her, cutting off both legs. The child also lost one leg and then fell through the ties into the canal. Just as soon as the engine saw what was happening he applied the emergency brakes, but could not stop in time and simply accomplished nothing beyond shaking up the passengers on the train. Mrs. Pennington was picked up with the children and taken on to Pocatello. The unfortunate mother, however, died before the train reached Idaho Falls. The three remaining children, the eldest being eight years old, were so badly frightened that it was impossible to get any straight story from them of the affair.

UNIVERSITY S. S. SESSION.

Dr. Talmage Discusses "Christ the Creator"—Prof. Mills, Nephtic Prophets.

In the advanced class Dr. J. E. Talmage continued the lectures on "Jesus, the Christ," treating as the special "Christ the Creator." The constitution of the Godhead was briefly explained, and the association of the Father and the Son in the work of creation, received special attention. It was proved by citations from Jewish, Nephtic, and modern Scriptures, that Jesus Christ is the Creator, having accomplished the work under direction from and in connection with the Father. In the revelations given to Moses, the Father refers to Christ as "The word of my power" and through the power of that "Word" the worlds were framed. It was through the authority and power of Christ that Satan was expelled from the Garden of Eden, and the evil one has ever since been compelled to recognize and obey.

The dealings of Christ with man in the flesh then received attention, and the first or Adamite dispensation was considered in this connection, illustrated by the related history of the Fall of Adam, Cain, Seth, Enoch, and Noah. In the other section of the work, Prof. Mills discussed the "Deliverance of Alma from Bondage." The speaker referred to Alma's early experiences in the city of Nephi while associated with King Noah, and his noble defeat of King Amulek, and his subsequent flight to the land of the Nephites. The organization of the church by Alma, and his future career, were spoken of. Alma had been brought into bondage by the Lamanites and the wicked priests of King Noah, and had suffered great indignities at the hands of Amulek, and his noble defeat of King Amulek, and his subsequent flight to the land of the Nephites. Under his direction Alma's people were prevented from praying, but in time they were delivered from their persecutions by the Lamanites overleaping. When Alma's people asked him to become their king, he refused for the reason that "one flesh should not be esteemed above another." This, the speaker said, was the real beginning of the change in the Nephtic government from monarchy to Republic, which was made by Mosiah, who, no doubt, was influenced by Alma. This change in the government will be discussed next Sunday.

In accordance with a change made by the general Sunday school board, the school will hereafter convene at 12:30, dismissing in time for the meeting in the Tabernacle. This will give those attending ward Sunday schools an opportunity of receiving the benefit of the lectures given by Dr. Talmage and Prof. Mills.

STANFORDS ARE COMING.

University Football Team from the Coast Arrives Tomorrow at Ogden.

At the University of Utah there is a strong sentiment in favor of trying to arrange a game with Stanford on its return from Denver. Today Coach Maddock was seen in regard to the matter, and he was enthusiastically in favor of it. To ascertain how the faculty committee on athletics regards the game, a query addressed to them this morning brought the reply that they would meet this afternoon and pass upon it. Objection has been raised herebefore on the ground that the University authorities desired the football season to close on Thanksgiving day and would not favor a game later than that. Should the action of the committee be favorable today a representative of Utah will meet Coach Langman of Stanford at Ogden tomorrow, and attempt to arrange the game.

The small number of substitutes possessed by Utah, and the hard game with Colorado college, Thursday are items that make it impossible to know how strong Utah can lineup against the great western team.

The Stanford University football team will be in Utah a few hours tomorrow. At two o'clock they will arrive from the west, over the Southern Pacific and after a brief rest at the Junction city they will resume their journey over the Union Pacific for Denver. Thursday they will meet the University of Colorado team at the Denver hotel, where Utah recently won its big victory. The Stanford team, which contains several of the greatest stars in Western football, will lineup exactly as at the Berkeley game except for the fact that Roosevelt, right guard, will be replaced by V. A. Stickle, a new man. Coach Langman is bringing in addition to the team, five substitutes, and Treasurer Barrett. The game Thanksgiving day is looked forward to, anxiously on account of the fact that it will give a splendid opportunity to compare the football of the coast with that of the middle west.

SCOTT CHARGED WITH INSANITY.

The initial step in securing the commitment of Roy Scott, the youth who attacked two girls in Salt Lake, and attempted to cut their throats while under spells of insanity, to the State Mental Hospital at Provo was taken, late this afternoon, when Geo. R. Hancock swore out a complaint charging Scott with insanity. The boy's examination will occur late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

JACOB RILIS' BAD BREAK.

Forgets to Inquire Into Politics of Auditors Before Telling Joke.

Jacob Rilis spent today in Provo as the guest of Senator Reed Smoot. Tonight he delivers a lecture there, and tomorrow returns to Salt Lake, where he will spend the day, prior to his lecture at Barratt hall, in looking over the city as a guest of the M. I. A. lecture bureau.

Yesterday he was driven over the town as the guest of a committee, of which Matt Thomas was chairman. During the drive he was telling some amusing anecdotes of the days when Roosevelt was police commissioner, and among them was a peculiar definition he had heard given once of the Democratic party. "The Democratic party I once heard described," he said, "as like unto alcohol, because it kills everything living, and preserves everything dead."

He was informed that his host was Democratic county chairman, and that among the committee was a former Democratic state senator, and then even he had to join in the laugh his joke made.

The lecture tomorrow night will begin at 8:15 and will be on the subject of the "Battle with the Slum."

THE LADIES' INVITED.

What is more beautiful than a grand display of fine china, glassware, bric-a-brac, etc. Such a display is dear to the heart of every woman who presides over a home.

All the newest creations, collected from the markets of the world can now be seen at the store of the Great American Importing Tea Co., where visitors will be shown most courteous and considerate attention.

JILTED GIRL INSANE.

Anna S. C. Nelson's Mental Condition
Subject of Official Investigation.

Because of being jilted by her lover whom she thought was true to her, Anna S. C. Nelson, who resides at 550 west First South street, has become insane and is now occupying the padded cell at the county jail and will be examined as to her mental condition this afternoon by Judge Hall and Dr. Ewing and Odell. The girl for some time has been keeping company with Jens I. Larsen, an employee at the Paust Creamery company, and it is thought that they were engaged.

Another girl it seems appeared on the scene about six weeks or more ago and won Larsen's affections from Miss Nelson. The mother of the girl said that she told her daughter that Larsen had been going with the other girl, whose name is Christine Sorenson, but her daughter still believed that her sweetheart was true to her. About six weeks ago Miss Nelson found a letter which Larsen had received from Miss Sorenson and since then she has been despondent and has brooded over her blighted affections until her mind became unbalanced.

About a week ago she came from the place she had been working to her home about 4 o'clock in the morning in her night clothes. Yesterday she became violent and broke down a door and smashed some of the furniture at her home. She was taken to the county jail by Sheriff Emery and after arriving there she quieted down. She is 22 years of age. It is very probable that she will be committed to the State Mental hospital.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial.

It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into Consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." Mrs. E. T. Snyder, Troy, Ohio.

"I was troubled with scrofula and came near losing my eyesight. For four months I could not see to do anything. After taking two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could see to walk around the house and when I had taken eight bottles I could see as well as I ever could." SENS. A. HARRIS, Withers, N. C.

AMELIA BRINK CHANGED HER MIND

When Suit Against E. F. Stolzenberger for Breach of Promise Was Called.

SHE PASSED UP $5,000 CASE.

In Absence of Plaintiff the Suit Was Accordingly Dismissed Without Prejudice at Plaintiff's Cost.

The $5,000 breach of promise suit filed in the district court some time ago by Amelia Brink against Edward F. Stolzenberger was dismissed without prejudice this morning by Judge Morse at plaintiff's cost. It appears that plaintiff failed to appear this morning when the case was called for trial. Her attorney, Ray Van Cott, endeavored to have the case postponed but Judge Morse refused to grant a continuance and ordered it dismissed.

It was alleged that defendant promised to marry plaintiff but refused to keep his promise and thus caused plaintiff great damage. Defendant denied any such promise and claimed that the suit was the result of some trouble between plaintiff and defendant wherein the latter foreclosed a mortgage on some of her personal property.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Member of Mormon Battalion Dies at Shelley, Ida., of Old Age.

News reached here today of the death at the residence of his son George W. at Shelley, Ida., Saturday, Nov. 19, of old age, of George W. Clawson, well known in this city as a wagon maker and a prominent member of the "Mormon" Battalion. For more than 39 years the deceased has been a resident of Farmington, where the funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the meetinghouse, the remains have been brought down from Idaho this morning. Mr. Clawson was one of the early settlers of Draperville, and had a host of friends throughout the state, who will regret to hear of his demise.

SEARCH FOR MURDERER OF CHAUFFEUR BATE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Search for the murderer of John Bate, Jr., the young chauffeur, who was found in an automobile near Lemont, was continued today. The fact that the mysterious "Mr. Dove" who ordered the machine from the Auditorium hotel, has not appeared to aid in solving the problem, caused the police to believe that beyond doubt the passenger with the checked suit and the red necktie is the man they are seeking. That Dove had two victims is a new theory developed by the discovery of blood under the cushion of the rear seat of the automobile. One theory is now "Dove" was able to escape without being seen by men who would remember him in the light of the description that has been furnished is that "Dove" had in the canvas suit case which he carried another suit of clothes. It is now thought he removed his bloodstained garment and donned the others, afterward tying his cast-off clothing into a bundle for which search was instituted today. A post mortem examination showed that two bullets entered Bate's head in short succession and their courses were nearly identical. The coroner's physicians said that this indicated that the murderer was highly excited or wished to make sure of Bate's death. Either one of the bullets would have proven fatal.

John Eller, the farmer who first told of hearing a woman's voice raised in dispute among the angry tones of the men, had changed his statement. He now thinks there was no woman's voice. John W. Bate, father of the murdered man, says that his son's voice was high pitched and might have been mistaken for a woman's in a quarrel.

"Dove" is said to have made an arrangement with a chauffeur named McKee to go on a night ride to Joliet, about four weeks ago. McKee thought he was a racketeer man.

Among the letters found in the dead man's pocket is said to be one in a woman's handwriting which contains the words "When I love, I love, and when I hate, I hate." The letter is signed by Lella J. Hall, and was mailed in Auburn, N. Y. Miss Hall, however, is believed to be a Chicago girl who was visiting in the east.

The theory was advanced that the supposed "Dove" may not have been a man but a woman in disguise. Edward J. Miller, telephone operator in the Auditorium hotel, who arranged for the renting of the machine for Dove, bears this out in a slight degree. Slavin says that "Dove" did not know clothing that seemed to be either too large or that "Dove" did not know how to dress himself properly.

Capt. Evans of the bureau of identification today examined the machine in which Bate was found dead. One of the brass oil lamps of the automobile was taken by Capt. Evans to the Harrison street police station where a reproduction of the finger prints discovered on the lamp could be made.

"If any suspects are taken," said Capt. Evans, "examining him enabled to identify him by his fingers."

O. W. POWERS SURPRISED.

Diamondfield Jack Repays a Loan in a Handsome Fashion.

Judge O. W. Powers has recently been made the recipient of a block of 2,500 shares of the capital stock of the Diamondfield Gold Mining company, the gift of "Diamondfield Jack" Davis, for whom in 1898 Judge Powers drew up a death warrant, and later secured a pardon from the Idaho state officials. The gift is estimated at $10,000 in value, and with it comes the assurance that blocks of stock will be forwarded in other companies organizing in the great Nevada camp.

The story of the gift, and the relationship between Powers and the noted miner is full of remarkable incidents in which the saving of Davis from paying the penalty of a death sentence are the main features. Davis was an employee of the famous Sparks-Herold cattle company, during the sheep and cattle wars of 1896. On Feb. 4th of that year two sheep herders, named Wilson and Cummings were found dead in their camp wagon and Davis was arrested for the shooting. The case involved the cattle interests of Idaho, and the case was fought bitterly. Judge Powers was retained by the prosecution, and was largely instrumental in securing the conviction. The death warrant was drawn up by Judge Powers, but had changed his mind, and after the trial Judge Powers, upon appeal to the supreme court of Idaho the case was dismissed in June, 1898. It was then carried to the U. S. court of appeals in San Francisco and later to the United States supreme court, where it was dismissed. As the date for the hearing of Davis's case drew near, a man named Bower came forward and confessed the killing. He was superintendent of the Sparks-Herold cattle company, and was a prominent and popular man. His confession made a profound sensation throughout the west, as he had been a leading witness in the prosecution of Davis. Upon this confession, Judge Powers took a hand in the case that won him the lasting regard of Davis. Without solicitation, and at his own expense he went to Boise and argued before the state board of pardons for the release of the prisoner. He secured a commutation of the sentence of life imprisonment. Later Judge Sparks took up the matter and secured a pardon, by proving that Davis was entirely innocent of the killing.

When he was released Davis came to Salt Lake penitence. He called at Judge Powers' office and asked for a small loan, enough to get to Tonopah. The judge gave him the money needed, and forgot about the case. He has never heard from Davis since until a week ago the block of stock arrived.

WHERE IS FRANK?

Boy Disappears from Infants' Home and Day Nursery.

Frank Wolfey, a 7-year-old boy, has disappeared from the Infants' Home and Day Nursery at 66 I street, and it is believed that his mother, Mrs. Sarah Wolfey, who resides at Murray, has kidnapped him. The boy was taken away from his mother on account of cruel treatment several weeks ago, and by order of the court was placed in the nursery.

Saturday afternoon his mother called to see him. About 6 o'clock he was sent for some kindling and that was the last seen of him. The sheriff's office was notified and deputies were at once sent in search of the woman and the boy. Mrs. Wolfey was found at Murray yesterday morning, but the child was not.
