CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

W. H. Marcy, a soldier at Fort Russell, W. T., was found dead, about a mile from the post, about 9 o'clock last Friday morning. Alcohol and exposure did it. Marcy was originally from New York, and had served three years.

On Tuesday of last week Walk & Ellis, prominent ranchmen and stock owners near Billings, M. T., had sixteen head of horses run off from their ranch on Canyon Creek. The animals were all branded with a bar W. It is suspected that the Piegan Indians are the thieves.

A Miles City, M. T., dispatch states that word has been received at that place that a band of eight Indians had made a raid on Hanging Woman Creek and captured two horses belonging to a trapper. The band divided into two parties to elude pursuit.

A few disaffected young men and Liberals, of Beaver County, are getting up an opposition, under the name of the "Independent Party." They claim, at least some of them, that they can carry the election, and threaten to make it a county affair. Joseph Field gave them the use of his hall free, and made a speech in their meeting. Henry Emerson, who was elected county clerk by the people's party, was their chairman.

A few evenings ago Master Cliff Bliven, of Dillon, M. T., was engaged, by candle light, unloading a few large sized shot gun cartridges for the purpose of filling up smaller shells. He had a cup two-thirds full of powder before him and was opening a cartridge when, it is supposed, grains of powder flew into the candle, igniting and exploding the powder in the cup. He was severely burned in the hands and face, but luckily the injuries received are not of a crippling character.

A. A. Warrington was held up at the corner of Galena and Washington streets in Butte, Monday evening by three men who evidently had murder and booty in view. He was struck over the eye with the butt end of a pistol, producing a severe contusion, but he recovered himself sufficiently to knock one of the miscreants down, and made away leaving the robbers in possession of the corner, without having gotten anything for their trouble.

One of those unavoidable accidents which constantly threaten the life and limb of railroad employees happened on the engine of train No. 6, a few days ago, as it was leaving Green River. The water gauge broke, throwing a quantity of boiling water and escaping steam in the face of the fireman, James Measures, badly scalding him about the face, neck and arms. A telegram was sent to Rawlins to have a conveyance in readiness to take him to his home on the arrival of the train, and he is now as comfortable as skillful treatment and tender nursing can make him.

The Laramie Boomerang is informed by a gentleman who is thoroughly conversant with the affairs of the Crow Indians, that the Colorado syndicate have had their paid emissaries at work among the Indians during the past three weeks, and that a large number of the Indians have already signed the release of the reservation to that syndicate. This gentleman states most positively that the operations of these Colorado schemers have been connived at by the Indian agent, who is doubtless working under instructions from the Secretary of the Interior. The cause for the action of the Secretary is apparent; in his struggle to secure the senatorship for Colorado he has had to give this syndicate some consideration to work for him, and this lease is the consideration. These matters will be thoroughly investigated and properly ventilated.

A year ago last April the unfortunate victim of Friday's cruel murder left Montrose, Colorado, with a partner, with the intention of purchasing cattle with which to stock his ranch at Climeron. Arriving at Green River, he was unfortunate enough to lose his partner by drowning in that treacherous stream, together with quite a sum of money. Alone and considerable poorer, he became discouraged and retraced his way to Montrose, where during a year of industry he succeeded in accumulating enough means with which to make another venture. This time after several months' trading, he was on his way back with about 150 head of cattle, when at Cisco, 140 miles east of Green River, he was intercepted by a reputed hard gang of cowboys, named Thomas Tidwell, his son Frank Tidwell, and Joseph Anderson. It is claimed that these men accused Sorensen of driving a heifer belonging to them in his herd, which was denied. The Tidwell gang tried to force the return of Sorensen to Green River, which, being resisted, resulted in the shooting of the latter through the neck and abdomen, resulting fatally. Officer Redfield, on Friday, who was out with a warrant for Frank Tidwell on another charge, succeeded in making an arrest of all three men, and yesterday brought them to Provo. The Tidwells claim that their victim fired two shots at them first, and that they killed him in self-defence; Sorensen's herder, however, though scared half out of his wits, claims that he was a witness to the deed and that his employer was foully murdered. An examination was conducted on Tuesday afternoon before Commissioner Smoot.
