Releases—Elder Richard Jefferies has been honorably released from laboring as traveling Elder in the Nottingham conference, to return home November 7, 1895.

Elder Henry Holyoak has been honorably released from laboring as traveling Elder in the Birmingham conference, to return home November 7, 1895.

Mr. H. C. Barrell brought to the News office Friday a piece of white pine cut by him from President Brigham Young's dining room table. The sample was 6 inches square and is to be presented to Mr. Wilson for use in the State table which is now being made by that gentleman. The table from which it was cut is now in use in the Lion house and is the property of Mrs. Twist Young.

Samuel Littlelycke, of Smithfield, came near losing a hand the other day, while attempting to de-cap and re-cap a rifle cartridge. Although repeated blows of the hammer of the gun alled to explode the cap, the entrance of the de-capper gouge sent it off and the copper shell flew into numberless pieces, a number of which entered Littlelycke's hand, and one of which passed entirely through. Dr. Snow extracted the remaining pieces and dressed the wounds.

Another old time resident of the Tenth ward died Wednesday at 8 p. m. at his residence on the corner of Fourth South and Seventh East streets, where he resided for more than twenty-five years. He came to Utah in 1861, and has resided here continuously ever since, making for himself during that time a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Galsford was born in Trowbridge, Wiltshire, England, sixty-one years ago, and his health has been failing for some time past. He leaves a wife and many children and grandchildren to mourn his departure.

Dennis Sullivan, foreman of the Bullion-Beck mine at Eureka, was the victim of an accident Monday evening which ended his mortal career. Mr. Sullivan was working on a stopin when a stupendous mass of rock fell upon it, causing it to break and throwing the unfortunate man a distance of fourteen feet, the rock falling on top of him and crushing him, so that life came to an end shortly after. Mr. Sullivan was well known and highly respected, and his untimely ending will be read with great regret by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

To the Charitable Associations and Aid Societies of Salt Lake City:

AND WINDER.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 12, 1895.

At 11 o'clock Friday night, Mrs. Mary Crandall, wife of J. R. Crandall, of Ogden, and sister of the late David W. Evans, of this city, died suddenly at her home in Ogden. She had been ailing for about six months, but of late has been much improved. Last night she was feeling exceptionally well, and there being no thought of danger three members of the family were at a dance when the sudden end came. The cause of death was droopy, arising from a complication of diseases. The deceased was the mother of nine children, all of whom are in Ogden, except one daughter living in Lander city. A number of relatives reside in Salt Lake City. The deceased was a most estimable woman.

On Saturday evening, as Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denney were returning to their home in Union, this county, an accident occurred which they will not soon forget. The buggy in which they were riding was quite heavily laden, and the horse trotting an easy gait. When near Mr. Walter's corner, in South Cottonwood, a team of dark horses drawing a wagon and bayrack came dashing up behind them, and before they were aware of it had crashed into the rear end of the buggy smashing and heading forward the iron uprights which supported the buggy top. Miss Minnie E. Denney, who was riding on a parcel at the back had a very narrow escape from serious injury, the tongue of the runaway wagon striking her on the hip and was only prevented from doing her serious bodily harm by the resistance of the iron uprights with which the neckyoke came in contact. The horses became considerably tangled up with the buggy, but with the assistance of Mr. Steffenson, who was passing at the time, they were extricated and put in Mr. Walter's stable to await the owner's arrival.

The reception given Thursday in the Seventeenth ward assembly hall, in honor of Elders Wm. N. Davis and Elias Woodruff, (the latter a grandson of President Woodruff) who have been called to go on missions, was a very pleasing entertainment.

The singing by Master Charles Pike, Nellie Druce Pugsley, Andrew Peterson, Edna Dwyer, Alice Bowring, and Messrs. Pyper, Whitney, Patrick and Spencer, was artistic and beautiful. Prof. Evan Stephens aided their success by the excellence of his accompaniments. A nice diversity was given by guitar and mandolin selections by Messrs. Campbell, Davis and Wallace, and by the humorous recitations and readings of E. H. Pierce, B. M. Young and W. B. Dougall Jr.; also by amusing selections on the wonderful graphophone by Mr. D. G. Calder.

There was no charge for admission, but a substantial sum was voluntarily contributed for the benefit of the missionaries, by their numerous friends present. The hall was crowded to excess. We join in the sentiment expressed, "God speed the missionaries."

The official canvass of the ballots cast at the last election will be completed by December 1 or very soon thereafter—at least that is the opinion of Judge Norrell, chairman of the Utah Commission, as expressed by him to a News representative Monday afternoon.

The time when the work will begin depends entirely on the promptness shown by election officials in remote parts of the Territory in forwarding the returns to headquarters. Last year some of them were very slow and had to be written to as many as three times before doing their duty. In one case the returns did not come in until after the middle of December, a circumstance that retarded the canvassing board considerably in its labors.

It is presumed that the canvass will commence this year about the 20th inst. It is quite generally believed that a canvassing board will be appointed to do all of the work but that idea is not correct. It will simply canvass the returns of the county, school and municipal elections, while the Utah Commission itself will go over the ballots for and against the Constitution and State officers.

Now that the results of the election have been determined sufficiently for all practical purposes and it is known positively with but an exception or two who will preside over the various courts of Utah uncommon interest on the Federal judgeship has been aroused among politicians and members of the Utah bar.

Several attorneys have been prominently mentioned for the high position, among them being Judge, (Kentucky) Smith of Ogden and John Marshall of this city. Both are strongly endorsed, and both have numerous eastern friends of high
