

EVENING NEWS. Friday, June 25, 1938

FRAGMENTS.
 MATRONS in court circles are pretty well nowadays.
 Mrs. CHARLES was fined $10 in the Police Court today, for being drunk.
 This fourteen-year-old boy was an excellent athlete at Syracuse yesterday.
 H. A. Noon, Esq., of the Provo American, was up from the Garden City today.
 The Fourth of July committee are rushing things for the celebration at Liberty Park next Wednesday.
 The Home Dramatic Club are busy on "Forget-me-not," to be given at the theatre on the afternoon and evening of the Fourth.
 JAMES HAYS, Thos. Howell, John Fairbanks, Wm. Clark and J. Smith, Colorado teams, were before Justice Puffer today. Howell and Smith were fined $25 each, and the others $30 each.
 JOHN D. SHAWVER has been engaged in the real estate business, but failed to pay his license in the proper season. For his neglect he had to hand out $2.50 costs for the prosecution against him.
 It will be observed by a notice elsewhere in this issue that the infant daughter and only child of Brother Daniel Harrington and his wife Leona, died last evening. The bereaved parents will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends. The funeral service will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow.
 CHIEF JUSTICE ZANE's term of office as head of the Supreme Bench of Utah commenced on July 5, 1938. On Wednesday next, therefore, his term expires, and as the administration is now of the opposite political party to that of which Judge Zane belongs, a democrat may be looked for to succeed him at an early day.
 Another Company.
 By private telegram from Liverpool, it is learned that another company of Scandinavian Saints will leave Europe for Utah the present season. They will sail from Liverpool on July 25th, on the steamship Wyndham.
 Of Unsound Mind.
 Mr. M. Henry, a traveling man, called at this office today and stated that he was intimately acquainted with Peter Polaski who was convicted on Friday last, in the police court, on charges of drunkenness, and that the defendant was out of his mind instead of being drunk. Mr. Henry is the person who set Polaski to this city from Scotland, and the reason why he did so was because the latter was of unsound mind. He is at present in a hospital.
 Z. B. B. S. Meeting.
 Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, the annual meeting of the stockholders of Zion's Benefit Building Society will be held in the City Hall. The business will be the election of officers for the ensuing year, submitting of reports, etc. From the first the Society has been a marked success, and the result this year will be no less gratifying than heretofore.
 The meeting tomorrow evening will be full of interest to the stockholders, and all who desire to become such.
 Nephi Notes.
 We were called upon yesterday afternoon by L. A. Bailey, Esq., of Nephi, from whom we gleaned the following facts relative to that town:
 A $15,000 court house is in course of erection. John Adams & Sons are the contractors. A good district school building is also being erected.
 Groups are high, especially so. Out some of the farms near the town the grasshoppers almost entirely destroyed the grain.
 Business is dull, money is scarce and a stringency prevails in business circles. The union of the wool market has a marked effect on business interests at Nephi.
 At the Theatre.
 While there were features artistic in the varied programme of the Remiz-Stanley company at the theatre last evening, the censorship of the press demands our emphatic denunciation of the evil of such a presentation. The burlesque representation of "Adam and Eve" is beyond the domain of propriety not only from scantiness of costume but from its railery of religious ideas and beliefs and its vulgar and suggestive wit. It is a bold prostitution of the supposed high function of the drama—to teach the humanities, to the plane of low moral principle. A travesty on which is sacred, the design in the religious and moral code, is better fitted for the oblivion of the libertine court of Charles the Second and the school of prostituted literature of that century, now a regular exorcism of past history, rather than as a popular indulgence in the more progressive present. There is a certain homage due from man to his Creator and to his neighbor, and the violation of his will; and we doubt much if the burlesque of last evening can be less profane than the notorious "Passion Play," which not long since, was suppressed in the East. Evidently a property and reserve in material and stage decorum in presentation should characterize the histrionic art as one among many forces tending to purify and elevate the tone of society.
 A Neighborhood Row.
 Justice Puffer's time was mostly occupied today in settling the trial of E. J. Page and John and Annie Danvers on the charge of battery. On Wednesday evening Page went to Danvers' house, and informed the latter that he had twice used insulting language to his (Page's) wife, and if the act were repeated trouble would follow. Page was very angry, and Danvers, who is an old man, likewise became irritated. The outcome was that a fight followed, and the two men had a lively time, both getting the worst of it. Mrs. Danvers also sided her husband by flourishing a maple club, about ten feet long in a manner that made Page feel so exasperated that he threatened to precipitate the trio into a full-blown shooting scrape. During the melee Danvers knocked two of Page's teeth out with his fist, and himself had his hand badly wounded by the same blows. After almost exhausting themselves in the rough and tumble, the parties fled away to the City Hall and made complaint against each other. The result of the investigation of the battery charge was that Mr. and Mrs. Danvers were acquitted, the court considering that they had only acted on the defensive when they were attacked on their own premises. Mr. Page was convicted, and sentence postponed till the conclusion of the trial of Mr. Danvers on the charge of disturbing the peace of Mrs. Page. The latter case was set for this afternoon. Mr. Danvers flatly denies having used the language attributed to him.

THE CABLE ROAD. It is Proposed to Get it Working Immediately.

H. Casebolt, Esq., of San Francisco, who has been in this city for some days, left for the east. The gentleman is the inventor and owner of the elevated cable system for street railroads.

As is well known there are different parties who propose to inaugurate the cable system here, and these have been making efforts to secure from Mr. Casebolt the right to the use of his invention, one offer of $20,000 having been made to him by Hon. Francis Armstrong, president of the Salt Lake City Railroad Company, succeeded in making very favorable terms for his company with Mr. Casebolt, for the exclusive use of the elevated cable system in Salt Lake, the agreement having been finally reached yesterday.

The result of this agreement is that the cable system is now in the hands of a complete revolution in the method of transit on the street railroads. It is expected that by October 1st the first and second south streets lines will be operated by the new motive power and that within a few months subsequent, the miles will be relegated to another position.

The new system may be briefly described as the underground cable in which poles or posts are erected alongside of the track, and at a height of sixteen or eighteen feet arms reach over to a central point between the rails. Pulleys on the ends of these arms hold the cables, which extend over the middle of the track, one rope moving each way. The connection is made from the top of the car, which moves at the rate of eight miles per hour as a maximum speed.

NEWS NOTES.

Items Gathered from Various Sources.

Butte, Mont., June 25.—This morning William Cartwright, unmarried, his wife by splitting her head open with an ax. The tragedy occurred at the home of the man, fifteen miles east of Butte, where Cartwright lived in a cabin. He is known as a desperado, and it is presumed that while he had something to do with it. The body was found in a ditch this morning and was brought to this city tonight and laid.

Tacoma, W. T., June 25.—Charles Evans, aged 12, was killed yesterday near the West Coast Junction, in Kitsap County, by a construction train. Evans was walking down the track, and apparently could not hear the train as it approached him from behind. The engineer did not see him till too late to stop the train. He lay in the middle of the track, and all to no avail, he was killed. The man in the head, killing him instantly.

Denver, June 25.—Mathias Federath was struck by the in-bound passenger train on the Denver and Rio Grande at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon near the Denver, Texas and Gulf crossing, while he was crossing the main tracks. His face and shoulders were frightfully mutilated, there being a deep laceration in the left temple, a hole about one-half of an inch wide over the left eye, a laceration across the cheek, the cheeks pierced in several places, and the shoulders terribly cut. Federath was 34 years of age. The conductor of the train notified the coroner as soon as he reached the city and the body was removed to the hospital.

Oregon City (Or.), June 27.—Sunday morning Rev. W. A. Williams started for Arthur's Prairie, ten miles up the Clackamas River, to marry a couple. Toward evening the couple came into town, and the minister was informed that they had not come to marry them. This created excitement, and a party was at once sent out to search the missing man. He was tracked to the bridge over the Clackamas, and there all traces were lost. The single witness to be married by some other preacher, but Mr. Williams had their license in his pocket, so it could not be done. They went home and sat up all night waiting for him, and about 4 o'clock in the morning he came to hand and performed the ceremony. He had got lost in the woods and had tramped a weary twenty-six miles. He arrived at home at 6 o'clock, exhausted, to the great relief of his friends.

Walls, Walla (W. T.), June 25.—While searching in an old Indian burying ground near the mouth of the Walla Walla river a day or two since, Charles F. Cummings of Walla Walla, found a silver pipe, two and a half inches in diameter. On one side was the inscription, "Pence and Friendship," with clasped hands and pipe, and a tomahawk crossed. On the other side was the face of a man, and the words, "T. Jefferson, President U. S. A., 1801." The early explorers, Lewis and Clark, camped at Walla in 1805, while on their return to the east, and were hospitably entertained by Yellep, chief of the Indians there, who furnished them with ponies and provisions. Their diary states that they presented Yellep with a medal like the one about described, and there is no doubt that the pipe was a gift to him, and is the one found by Cummings. Lewis and Clark were in the area, and so the medal is a relic of the early history of the country.

Albuquerque (N. M.), June 25.—Like W. Stevens, a well-known prospector, accompanied by Fioche, a Navajo Indian, reportedly while passing through the Navajo reservation from Bloomfield to Gallup, with a pack-train of three horses and a saddle-horse, on the 21st inst., when about 30 miles east of Gallup, this country was fired upon by ambushed Indians whose weapons were bows and arrows. An arrow struck him in the back, near the shoulder blade, embedding itself in the flesh so firmly that it took a stout man with pinchers to extract it. Mr. Stevens succeeded in escaping from the attacking party and reached Fioche's place, where he found protection, the Indians giving him every assistance and coming with him to Gallup. Fioche says that the party who attacked Stevens are ex-United States scouts who were sent to the reservation during Geronimo's raid. He claims that there were a large number of bad Indians in the vicinity where Stevens was attacked, and thinks it unsafe for a single white man to pass over the road at present. He does not look, he says, for any open outbreak, but there will be more serious outrages as that perpetrated on Stevens unless great caution is observed. Fioche has always been friendly to the whites, but says the Indians are now more hostile, and that there will be an outbreak may occur at any moment. The troops of Fort Wingate have been notified.

J. O'Rourke, 18 years of age, who left Globe, Arizona, on Friday last, to go to Silver King, was found on Tuesday by Dr. Alex. Triple, Justice Job Atkins and Henry Dohrmann, about thirty miles from Globe, in the wilderness of the east fork of Pinto Creek, where he had wandered from the trail, and, bewildered, remained four days, fearing to leave the water. He had been without food for five days and undoubtedly would have perished with hunger had the parties mentioned (whose mission was to inspect a mine) not discovered him. The boy had been claiming to be a friend of the whites, but says the Indians are now more hostile, and that there will be an outbreak may occur at any moment. The troops of Fort Wingate have been notified.

Beaver Notes.
 Beaver tattered a rousing reception to the Honorable U. S. Commissioner last evening. The members of the commission present were Hon. A. B. Carleton, Abner Williams and J. D. Thompson. After a speech of welcome from Mayor Emerson and J. D. Gilliland, each of the above named made neat and appropriate speeches, interspersed with music and singing by Beaver's most excellent choir. Speeches from Hon. J. B. Murdoch and Major James Lowe followed. The speakers all seemed to be in a happy mood, and the affair passed off in a most agreeable manner. The strangers expressed interest in what they had seen and the hearty welcome accorded them, and hoped that the amiable spirit would increase among the people the development of our fair territory. The committee on reception of the commissioners, and members of the commission, went to Fort Cameron this morning for an out. They called at the Beaver woolen mills and other points of interest. Tomorrow they will make an excursion to the many tribes of the adjacent streams and a grand ball will be given in the evening. The visitors intend to get back to Salt Lake Saturday morning.

Minersville dam has been injured so as to necessitate its almost entire rebuilding, which will cost several thousand dollars.

Settlers at the mouth of Fremont pass are now suffering from a law suit. A temporary injunction has been served on them. The people of Jackson, just south of Beaver, claim the water.

There have been seventeen deaths in Beaver the last year—eight children and nine adults.

A bounteous harvest is expected by the farmers of this vicinity as a result of the large amount of water for irrigation, and the decrease in the number of jackrabbits.

Fort Cameron, now abandoned, begins to show signs of decay, though a solitary watchman is retained to take care of it, at fifty dollars a month.

The work at the sulphur mines has been partially suspended, owing to the litigation now pending.

The Kanab country seems to have become the rendezvous for the sheep herds that have been driven from the more central part of the territory by the cattle men.

With a possible exception of the Horn Silver mine, silver mining in Beaver County is at a stand still. An early awakening is predicted by the knowing ones of this industry.

Contracts for the cutting of 30,000 ties have been taken by residents of Beaver and parties of choppers are at work on the timber.

Politics will be contested on the old party lines this season in Beaver County.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in the style in Beaver. Quite a sum of money has been collected to make it a success.

The following appears as a special in the Denver News: Atchison, Kansas, June 25.—This is Ingle's home and the indication which his letter to P. P. Bonebrake, as made public in Chicago, has aroused among the Republicans, cannot be measured. It is denounced as a case of treachery and opinion are free that he is surely coming down to his proper level and that the natural character and capacity are becoming known in their true light. The Kansas delegation are disgusted and feel sore over their support of a man who could indite an useless letter as so critical a time.

Cheyenne, June 25.—John Cowan, a cowboy employed at the Fort-Patchon horse ranch, near this city, was detected by his fellow workman while in the act of stealing a horse. The thief had been going on for some time the cowboys held an impromptu trial and Cowan was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. He was taken out the rope placed about his neck and he was about to be put to death when Foreman Lecompte appeared on the scene. After strenuous persuasion Cowan was released. He was paid off and ordered to leave the ranch.

BATTALION PENSIONERS. Why So Many of the Mormon Battalion Left Widows.

Editor Desert News: According to some eastern journals the government is surprised at the heavy per cent of widows of the Mormon Battalion applying for pensions, as compared with other soldiers of the Mexican war, whilst those who are posted marvel that there are not many more than we see. This wonderment on the part of government officials is probably one reason why the commission seems so unwilling to grant their pensions, and appoints so many special examiners where the evidence is clear and the most positive that could be given. Such is the identity of the soldier, her legal marriage to him, his death and every other requirement of the law.

Whilst we do not question the integrity of the officer referred to, nor his wish to do justice to all, his policy works a great hardship and does injustice to the widows of those brave soldiers who were devoted to their country.

Among the many reasons that might be shown why a heavy per cent of the Mormon Battalion, as compared with other soldiers must be expected, are the following:

HISTORICAL FACTS: "The call of President Polk for the Battalion could not have been made so inconveniently timed. The young and those who could have been spared, were then sent from the main body (of the Mormon exiles) either with pioneer companies in the van, or their salt unannounced, seeking work and food about the northwestern settlements, to support them till the return of the season for commencing emigration.

The force was therefore to be recruited from among the fathers of families, and others whose presence it was most desirable to retain.

But the feeling of country prevailed, and, in three days, the force was reported mustered, organized, and ready to march."

(See Col. Thomas L. Kane's discourse before the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, History Mormon Battalion, pages 10-11.)

It was enlisted too much by families; some were too old, some feeble, and it was much worn by traveling on foot, and marching from Navajo, Illinois.

I will here add, in relation to Col. COOK'S ASSERTION "made at Santa Fe, that the Battalion was much worn by traveling on foot, and marching from Navajo, Illinois," that while his statement is strictly correct, it was equally true, that the Battalion was much worn by traveling on foot, and marching from Navajo, Illinois.

The Clough & Warren Organs and Piano, Packard Organs and Lindeman & Son's Pianos sold by Young Bros. Co., 35 Main St., Salt Lake City, are among the most popular in the market.

But few of other companies when they die leave widows, whilst the rule is just the reverse with the Battalion.

As to the comparative death rate we are not posted, but when we consider the class of men enlisted and the hardships of the campaign, with the then and previous exposures, it is reasonable to expect that it is to be much greater.

LONGEST HISTORY MARCH recorded in history, packing over one half the distance their guns, knapsacks of clothing, blankets and thirty-six rounds of ammunition, amounting in all to over forty pounds to the man, pulling at long ropes to aid the teams and much of the heaviest load on the journey on less than quarter rations, the only wonder is that there was one left to tell the tale! Which then is the greater wonder that there are so many widows of that there are so few?

We hope the good people where those worthy widows reside will not allow one of them to be marred for the comfort of life, while waiting the action of our tardy government. They are the wives of those who offered their lives not only to serve their country, but also to save the Latter-day Saints from a general massacre on the banks of the Missouri River.
