

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 28 .- Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York opened the political campaign in South Bend tonight, speaking to one of the largest crowds ever assembled at the big auditorium. Gov. Hughes was escorted to the auditorium by a troop of horsenich and ward marching clubs, and when he stepped on the stage he was greeted with a wild demonstration, and waving of American flags, and cheers for Tait, Rooseveit, Hughes, and Watson, the Republican candidate for governor governor. After paying tribute to the president, the presidential nominee and other can-didates, Gov. Hughes immediately took up the discussion of campaign issues. In answer to the question of Bryan: "Shall the people rule?" Gov. Hughes said: said:

"The people have ruled and they have never had a representative ruler that stood so high in public esteem and jus-tified himself as well as a representa-tive of the people as our present pres-ident, Mr. Roosevelt." In regard to the United States su-preme court, the speaker said: "We have three branches of our gov-fornment, executive, judicial and legis-lative, and each one of these is of great importance. We should not attempt to distinguish between them and to show which may be regarded as more

show which may be regarded as more important than the other; but certainly the supreme court, with its power not only to decide important private questions, but with its ultimate voice in the interpretation of laws, with its final power of deciding whether or not laws transcend the constitutional power of the body enacting it, that tribunal is the body enacting it, that tribunal is the most august on earth and as a tribunal which can be depended on for absolute impartiality of judgment, is of most important concern to the Amer-form become ican people. "Now in the course of the next few years, according to the probabilities of human life, there will be four vacancies on that bench. There are nine judges. There will be four vacancies very shortly and it is not impossible or even improbable that there will be some others during the administration of the next president. The character of the next president, his judgment of men, of opportunity of properly chosing wisely in connection with the filling of wisely in connection with the filling of these vacancies is of most serious im-port to the future policy of this coun-try, and the course of its destiny, "Now in Judge Taft we have a man of wide acquaintance with the bar; with large experience on the beach; and with most sympathetic manner; a man who is programming a man who is and with most sympathetic manner: a man who is progressive, a man who looks forward and not backward, a man of keen intellect. He was recognized as one of the strongest judges on the federal bench when he sat there, and lawyers and litigants alike testified to his prominence as a judge. The Amer-ican people must delegate to its presi-dent the choice of these judges of our court of last resort. Therefore the judges' names are confirmed by the senate, but the president has the ap-pointing power. If you look from pointing power. If you look from Maine to California, you would find none better qualified to make that selection, with a finer respect for the bench and better knowledge of men equipped to fill these places; we can not have a better delegate to perform that important duty than W. H. Taft."

His fa-vorite arguments today were on the trusts, guaranty of bank deposits and publicity of campaign contributions be-fore the election. and attacked Mr. Taft for dodging his platform. The fact that South Dakota was car-ried for the Democratic national ticket in 1896 was referred to by Mr. Bryan, and he appealed for that support again on the ground that the Democratic par-ty proposed real reform, while the Re-publican party could not be expected to do anything in that direction. At every place visited by the Demo-cratic candidate, or where his train stopped for a short time, he was met by large cheering crowds. A strong wintry wind from the north did not seem to affect either the candidate or his audience. Mr. Bryan in the course of his remarks there urged the people to remove them tonight and hang up in their stead pic-tures of Mr. Taft and thus show him the "same courtesy that you have shown me." He said he took it for granted that the compliment paid him was not per-sonal, but that it was due to the fact that he was a candidate for the same office," he said, "and one of us will be elected. Bryan arrived here at 11:35 o'clock from Min-neapolis and was accorded an ovation. His ride through the streets to the ho-tel occasioned a big demonstration. Afdressing an immense audience a short time afterwards, Mr. Bryan, in the course of some remarks on guar-anty of bank deposits, publicity of cam-paign contributions before election and the tariff, referred to the fact that Mr. Taft hud explained Saturflay that he would not deliver the speech he had given out because, he said, sometimes after s seech was given out one found that it did mot fit the cond dions. "I am," declared Mr. Bryan, "atraid that no speech he has made will fit the conditions in South Dakota, and it will be difficult for him to make a speech conditions in South Daksta, and it will be difficult for him to make a speech that will fit Republican issues here that would not be out of joint when he gets back to the eastern states." Dusseldorf, Germany, Sept. 28 .- Capt von Atercorn and Lieut, von Goltzheim two well known aeronauts, had a miraculous escape from death this afternoon during the course of an ascent in spherical balloon. Thousands of specfators were horror stricken at the acci dent, which occurred high in the air. On being released from its fastening the ballion soared almost directly up-ward to an altitude of 5,000 feet, when the envelope suddenly ripped open. The gas escaped in streams and the balloon

"With the exception of his hands and feet, my son Clyde (thirteen years old) was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. While they were very kind and did all in their power, yet nothing seemed to re-edies sent to me by kind friends but they all failed. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scabs which he would rub until thay fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Many a time he looked as if his ears would drop off. Friends com-ing to see him said that if he got well ho would be disfigured for life. "When it seemed as if he could pos-try Cuteura. I bought a cake of Cuti-cura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. I used them in the ovening and that was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. This may sound eraggerated to you, but in the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks you could not have told that hehad everhad anything wrong withhim, it reated him twice a day for six months and not a scar on his body. This story and present he has a fine complexion and how he looked. Our leading phy-sician, Dr. —, recommends the Cuticura Remedies for oczema. The aeronauts swiftly clambored into the network in the des-perate hope of avoiding the shock of contact with the ground. After a fall of 2,000 feet, the envelope spread out, seemingly in a purely accidental man-ner, forming a sort of parachute, which checked the descent. The balloon then gradually came down, taking an hour and a half to reach the earth, the two men clinging to the ropes and the basket. They suffered no injury except a few scratches. a few scratches. The cause of the accident was the sudden expansion of the gas.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 28 .- The people of Sauk Center are making merry over what they regard as a fine joke on Judge Taft. "I hope not, madame; I have no doubt that you are the head of a family of sturdy men, whom you con-trol, and I rely on such intelligent ladles as you to carry out your views," was Judge Taft's smilling rejoinder. When the train had started Mr. Taft was informed by one of the local statesmen aboard that it was Miss Sylvia Townsend with whom he had the colloquy.

Whitney's History of Utah at Half Price.

The Deseret News takes pleasure in announcing that it has secured the sole rights to the HISTORY OF UTAH, by Orson F. Whitney, originally published by the George Q. Cannon & Sons Co.

This work, which was begun in 1890, and printed in three large volumes (the fourth volume issued being biographical, and not a part of the direct history of Utah), is one of the largest and most exhaustive histories ever compiled of any western state. The three volumes bring the history of the state from the foundation down to the year 1890, at the time of the issuance of the manifesto, and includes the history of the Church from its organization in New York. The first ten chapters are devoted to this subject.

In the three volumes are included 235 full page steel plates, mostly portraits of leading figures in the history of the State, originally obtained at a cost of many thousand dollars. The volumes each contain approximately 800 pages, a total of 2,351 pages in the three. The binding is quarto size, full morocco with gilt edges, no other style of binding being issued.

The three volumes were originally sold at $30.00, and several thousand sets were placed throughout the state at that figure. The "News" having obtained the unsold copies of the edition, will place them on the market at the coming October Conference and sell to the first comers at HALF THE ORIGINAL PRICE, OR $15.00 FOR THE THREE VOLUMES. NO single volumes will be sold. Without doubt many libraries throughout the country will avail themselves of this rare opportunity, and Utah people who desire to add this work to their libraries are urged to call at the Deseret News book store and inspect the work during Conference.

The low price at which this rare work is offered will undoubtedly exhaust the edition in a short time. The work will then be OUT OF PRINT, so that every book-lover should avail himself of this last chance.

The original subscribers, who already have the first three volumes of the History of Utah are entitled to the fourth volume (containing individual biographics) free, by addressing George Q. Cannon & Sons Association.

The "News" has no interest in the fourth volume, the work being complete as above stated, in the three volumes, now offered at $15.00.
