FORTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 28.—The galleries were crowded by sight-seers, anxious to hear Mahone's speech. After reading the journal, Mahone expressed regret at being again compelled to interrupt the deliberations of the Senate. He had been provoked, and if those who found pleasure in varied and ungenerous assaults did not justify him, he was sure of the brave and independent spirits here and of his own people. He must believe the action of these senators comported with their ideas of manly deportment and senatorial dignity. Virginia was accustomed to an independent, Anglo-Saxon way of asserting its rights. He would repel any impeachment of the constituents who sent him here with clearly defined duties which they and he comprehended. Confident of his devotion and loyalty to her every interest, he was elected to do her will, and not the will of a caucus. Virginia earned the title of "Old Dominion" by a broad and independent action. Her sons, without the help of those who would now interfere with her affairs, had earned that title. As to the intimation, which he was loath to believe, that he was influenced by impure motives in his action, he had but a denial to make. He regretted and was amazed by the fact that Johnston had joined in the assault, introducing him, not as his colleague, but as a repudiator. He must apologize for Johnston's criticism and perversion, whatever he and his cohorts may attempt, by the cheap logic of an attorney to demonstrate what I ought to be. I am, by my convictions, and my sense of honor, what I am. In this particular I have largely the advantage of my colleague, for if I take him by his record, diminutive as it is, he never knows what he is or what duty he came here to perform. (Laughter.) Mahone then proceeded to give an exhaustive review of the political and financial history of Virginia for the last decade. Mahone proclaimed his allegiance to Virginia, and not to any party. He was opposed to Bourbonism and radicalism. The Virginia colored people were a part of God's great family, and he stands by them until all their rights are secured, until they are given the same opportunity to progress and push forward as the whites. Calhoun's dream of the southern empire was quenched in blood, and the south accepts the decision. He was here to renew the allegiance of Virginia to the Union, in all truth and sincerity, and would do all in his power to aid Virginia to resume her place as a legal state. Mahone concluded, and Harris moved an executive session, which was defeated by the republicans.

After Mahone's speech the roll was called on several dilatory motions, but there was no action on the pending resolution, or any further debate, and at 4.15 the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

AMERICAN.

THE NEBRASKA FLOODS.

OMAHA, Neb., 28.—The situation in the inundated district on the Platte River is much better than anyone had reason to expect. The telegraph repairers went to work early yesterday morning and succeeded in getting up the fallen wires between Fremont and Columbus this afternoon, by which through communication along the Union Pacific was resumed. Dispatches received at the Union Pacific headquarters give the condition of the track at the old washout, three miles west of Fremont. The new track, which was finished last Thursday, was mostly washed away, many of the timbers being floated clear into Fremont. Further west, a stretch of nearly six miles is so badly washed that it will have to be almost entirely rebuilt. At North Bend there is a serious and extensive washout. From North Bend to Columbus the track is in fair shape. The pile bridge just east of Loup River bridge, was partially swept away, and on both sides of Loup River there are extensive washouts. A gang of nearly 100 bridge repairers are working hard at Loup River pile bridge, and large gangs of track repairers are working from each end of the flooded portion of the road, the water subsiding yesterday, so they push right along. By the end of this week, at the farthest, trains will be running over the eastern division as usual. To-day they were started west by way of the Kansas City road to St. Joe, and from there over the St. Joe and Western to Grand Island, on the Union Pacific main line, beyond the flooded section. The Burlington and Missouri road, over which the Union Pacific has been running trains is in bad shape, owing to high water having rendered two or three bridges unsafe, and several Union Pacific trains are now delayed on the road, but expect to get in to-morrow. The Burlington and Missouri road ran no trains to-day between Omaha and Lincoln on account of high water on the track and the insecurity of the Platte river bridge.

The Union Pacific bridge over the Missouri River was considerably shaken by the breaking of the ice gorge yesterday afternoon. It was tested this morning thoroughly and found to be all right, after which trains were allowed to pass over as usual. As yet no reliable reports have been received of the loss of human lives either in the Loup or Platte Valley, but a great many cattle, hogs, etc., must have perished as they were seen floating down with the flood. Some cattle, it is said, were destroyed here and there by the occupants all escaped. Some, however, had a close call. The Missouri River is reported to have risen 22 feet at Yankton yesterday, owing to an ice gorge, and it is expected that this will raise the river considerably here to-day. The river is rising and gorges at the Union Pacific bridge, and more are expected there.

Mahone's Troubles.

WASHINGTON, 28.—Mahone's speech was far less sensational than his first effort. The democrats did not interrupt him, apparently having so agreed. At 2.30 he was warmed up thoroughly, and defended Riddleberger, and asserted that Johnston was elected because he had no record and could easily be elected on the record made by Mahone. He flagged about 3 o'clock. This speech evidently strengthened the determination of the democrats to fight. They consider it an attack on the entire democracy [illegible]

South. They say they will never allow the election of Riddleberger. The feeling is very bitter, and even if Riddleberger should be withdrawn, it is doubtful if the democrats would cease filibustering. Voorhees, Ransom and others will answer Mahone. Voorhees has been collecting Mahone's history, and will fight all summer.

Interesting to the Military.

NEW YORK, 28.—The Herald's Washington special says: There is among officers of the army on staff duty in Washington, and New York, a report that the new Secretary of War is about to issue an order limiting the time that such officers shall serve in cities, so as to give other officers equal privileges in performing duties at preferred posts. It is the good fortune of some to have been permanently on duty here for 12 years, while officers of the same department have been exposed to the hardships of frontier life. It is understood that the Adjutant-General is of the opinion that such favoritism is subversive of military discipline and ought therefore to end without delay.

Parnell Not Supported.

World's London: English land reformers are not inclined to work with Parnell, and while his English Land League will doubtless prove an efficient collection box among Irishmen in cities and towns, it will not take root in the counties. The fact is, the Irish leader goes further than the English agricultural class dare to go. He demands the purchase of land by government and its distribution among peasant proprietors, thus completely wiping out landlords. It is needless to say such a proposition would not receive a single English radical vote in the Commons. English land reformers will support him in agitating for the three fs, but they know they would only injure their cause irreparably by joining in a demand for government purchase. Moderate Irishmen of the stamp of of Shaw, member for County Cork, and a large majority of the tenants, feel that Parnell is asking that which he knows is impossible for Gladstone or any other English statesman to grant, and his course is warmly denounced. If the Irish tenant would join with his English brethren in agitating for any reasonable scheme of reform borough radicals would help them, and no ministry could refuse their request. Parnell, however, seems to be anxious to prevent such a coalition.

A Very Good Measure.

It is rumored on good authority that the government land bill will not offer the Irish tenant fixity of tenure, though it will afford increased stability of tenure, and that it contains clauses drawn on the lines of last year's disturbance bill, increasing the fine payable by landlords who are adjudged guilty by courts of arbitrary eviction. Courts of arbitration will be established with power to decide what is fair rent, when disputes arise between the landlord and tenant. The right of free sale will be given to tenants, subject to reasonable objection of the landlord to the incoming tenant. Landlords, however, will be obliged to prove to the satisfaction of the court that their objections to the incoming tenant are reasonable. Valid facilities will be given to tenants to become purchasers of their holdings under the extension of the Bright clauses of the land act of 1870. Provision will be made for the compulsory sale of large tracts of waste land which will be divided into small farms and sold on favorable terms to tenants. Though this programme will not perhaps satisfy the more advanced advocates of "The land for the people," it will, if carried out, in its entirety, produce a great revolution in the condition of the Irish farming class. Landlords will be deprived of arbitrary powers, and tenants will obtain legal security of their interest in whatever improvements they may make on their farms. Under the operations of this proposed law, it is probable that the conflict between the landlord and tenant classes will rapidly subside, and Ireland will enter a new era of prosperity and peace.

Rumors of Danger.

The Tribune's London special says: The alarm respecting the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to St. Petersburg continues, though little public mention is made of it. It is known that warnings conveying explicit information from St. Petersburg police were received before and since their departure. General Melikoff declines to answer for their safety, although he gives assurance that every precaution will be taken.

Ashmead Bartlett Coutts a Tory Candidate.

Ashmead Bartlett Coutts has, I am informed, determined to take to politics, the baroness being an intense admirer of Beaconsfield. He will be brought out under the patronage of the Carlton Club, and I am informed that he has made up his mind to contest the seat of Northampton, with Charles Bradlaugh on the high tory ticket. This will be good news for Northampton but bad for radicalism. Nothing better than plucking a well tory candidate.

The [illegible] is so far off that [illegible] be dangerous to march to India. The political circles [illegible] doubtful that General Biller refused to allow the departure of the regiments already ordered to start.

Greek Anniversary.

The 6th of April is the anniversary of the Greek Independence. A grand review will be held, when the king will present colors to the regiments composing the garrison of Athens and a select detachment from other regiments. The meaning of this act and the reasons for the choice of this occasion are obvious. The ceremony will be followed by orders for the departure of the various corps for their allotted stations on the frontier.

A Mistrustful Town.

St. Louis, 28.—The Republican's Kansas City special says: Passengers who arrived here to-day from Deming, at the intersection of the Topeka and Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroad, say, although that town is only a week old, it has fully 5,000 inhabitants, and building is going on at a lively rate. It bids fair to become a large and important place. Some trouble has occurred between the settlers and the Santa Fe road, in consequence of the latter having fenced off a strip of land along the railroad track. Settlers declare that this was not according to the customs of frontier life, tore down the fence and squatted on the property.

Property Shielded.

CLEVELAND, 28.—A bully from Hayville, Ohio, went to Londonville, on Saturday, and among other things, cried the editors of two papers published there. Finally the town marshal arrested him, but half a dozen citizens took him away, and after a liberal castigation, put a rope around the bully's neck, led him beyond the town and made him swear never to show his face again in Londonville.

A Religious Lunatic.

CHICAGO, 28.—This city has also developed a faster in the person of Wm. Cooney, of 95 North Clark St., who came here from Sturgeon Bay, Wis. He claims to be the Holy Ghost, the successor of Christ, and is a remarkably intelligent lunatic. He had fasted 25 days, only drinking water during the time, and says he will live on faith and water until Easter, April 17.

A Big Fire.

CINCINNATI, 28.—A large five story building, on the east side of Home Street, north of Fourth St., occupied by a steam laundry and in part by machine lithographing works, took fire near midnight, and at one o'clock it looks as though the building and contents will be destroyed.

Pacific Coast Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, 28.—The committee of the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association decided that the amount of purse for race heats of four miles next fall should be $30,000; $12,000 to the first, $4,000 to the second, $2,500 to the third, and $1,500 to the fourth. It was also decided to charge 5 per cent. entrance fee for all horses outside of the Pacific Coast States, and 10 per cent. for others. From the present indications there will be a number of entries, and should it be made a post stake, there is little question of at least three eastern horses coming here to run. The committee have this under consideration, and probably will adopt this plan. Efforts will be made to engage horses from Australia.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

There are continued rumors of Gen. Melikoff's resignation.

A shell race yesterday between Stevenson, of Vallejo, and Cottsford, of Victoria, British Columbia, was won by the former, the latter capsizing on the turn. The race was rowed at Sausalito, distance about three miles. Much talk of crookedness.

Great activity prevails in preparation for the defense of Volo-Viroke. The placing of torpedoes has commenced. Troops have occupied Tersieri on the Turkish side of the entrance to the Gulf of Volo, and earthworks are being constructed there.

The Treasury Department's report on trichinae and trichinosis is nearly ready for distribution. The folly of any nation prohibiting the entry of pork from abroad, when in point of fact, no country is without trichinae of its own, is well shown, and it is held to be ridiculous that the foreign variety is more harmful than those of native production.

A Demoralized Electric Generator.

An incident worth recording took place in the engine room of Weed, Parsons & Co's printing establishment on Tuesday. In one corner of the room stands the machine which furnishes the electric light for Whitney & Co's dry goods store on Pearl Street, the power from which comes from W. P. & Co's huge engine. One feature of the machine is the armature, a wheel containing coils of insulated wire through which the electricity flows in powerful currents when the apparatus is in operation. This armature revolves with a terrific velocity and constitutes a powerful magnet. On the day mentioned a young man came in and ground a pair of large scissors at an emery wheel near the generator. Turning to go out past the machine he carried the scissors carelessly in his hand, when they were immediately drawn into the armature, and were soon revolving with it at a frightful speed. The young man got out of the way as quickly as possible and was unhurt. For a few minutes the machine presented a very startling spectacle. The whirling scissors, twisted and broken, but still adhering to the revolving armature, began to cut the wires, and thus broke the electric current, which escaped in streams from the fractured ends of the wires, and in a moment or two that portion of the room was literally filled to the ceiling with whirling lightning, looking very much like a huge piece of 4th of July fireworks. No one dared to approach the monster to stop the machinery for some little time, but the belt was finally thrown off, and the rather dangerous show was at an end. The incident afforded a striking illustration of the power of the agent which man is endeavoring to render subservient to his will.
