It is probable that the length of the interval between the demise of Mr. Johnson and the firing of the salutes is due to red tape, the striking the toe of his right boot, order for them having been but cut through and almost completely lately received.

the whole of the parties whose property was advertised to be sold this morning, to pay delinquent city taxes, stepped up and settled their accounts before the specified hour of sale, there being only a very few remaining who have not done this, the most of whom are absent from the Territory, and probably the notifications of the proposed sale have not reached them. In consequence of this, the sale of the property of those few who have not yet settled has been postponed by the assessor and collector until Monday Sept. 27.

Accident. - On Saturday afternoon, as Martin Andersen, of Holidayburg, in Big Cottonwood Ward, was building a shed for his neighbor, Bre. Olsen, he fell off the ladder and badly fractured his right leg. Dr. Higgins Davis and his medical assistant, H. Longmore, were soon in attendance. The patient is doing well.

a blustery day. In the fore part of the day there was an unpleasant south wind. In the evening a violent gust of wind blew for a short time from west to east, causing the air to be filled with dense clouds of dust, which rolled towards the city from the direction of the Great Salt Lake. The gale appeared to have nearly spent its fury before it reached town, and therefore did little damage. One of the shade trees on South Temple Street, at the foot of Chesnut Street, was partly broken down by the force of the gust. A sprinkling of rain followed the gust, and later there was a cool breeze from northward.

> Just ninety days previous a frost killed many or the equash and potation in this locality, which would indicate that the actual Summer weather is about three months in duration this season.

Changing About.-The old fash loned method of the lady placing her arm in that of the gentleman when a couple are taking a walk is apparently being changed "t'other way about," as couples can frequently be seen now-a-days perambulating the streets of Salt Lake, the male specimen of the genus home holding on to the arm of the female companion. This may be all right in not a few cases, where the party of the male gender is the "weaker vessel," the fashion being, to a disinterested observer, about on a par with parting the hair in the middle and wearing a cane, and about equally indicative of sturdy manhood and self reliance.

Vandalism .- Yesterday a number f young men, whose names are well known, went over Jordan on horseback. They stopped at the place of a widow, about a mile beyond the bridge, entered her lot and cut her sugar cane, which they fed to their animals. This was a piece of inexcusable vandalism, of which the perpetrators should be heartily ashamed. For years have the members of the anti-Mormon ring of this place supplicated Congress for proscriptive legislation. For years have they raised the howl that Mermon juries were unexceptionally certain to find verdicts against "Gentile" offenders and acquittals for "Mormon" culprits.

prejudiced travelers is generally known, but not generally believed, so ready are people to give credence to anything anti-Mormon. It has been the object of the ring here to implicate President Young and other leading Mormons in the Mountain Meadow butchery, but as the testimony of all concerned does, in no degree, do this, the members of the circular combination resort Truly, the Lee jury disagreed, and the Mormon members of it, with one "Gentile," decided for acquittal, but would the evidence have justified them in finding a verdict of guilty? Ringists sought for guilty, and they would not rest with anything less, whether or not facts elicited by the evidence proved Lee a murderer. I have seen that, however peculiar the practice of the Mormons may be, there is not one principle included in their faith but that they consider as holy and divine. A large number of Indians, desirous of learning the art of agriculture and civilization, had collected about six miles up the river from Corinne, for the purpose of farming. They were under the direction of a Mr. Hill, a Mormon, and were as peaceable as could be.

Wednesday or Thursday of last week the people of Salt Lake were startled by the intelligence that Corinne had been attacked by hordes of aborigines and the lives and property of the "Burghites" were jeopardized. This report seemed to be substantiated when three companies of soldiers from Camp Douglas were dispatched with haste for the place.

Bloody tales ran loose for a day or so and people were buoyed to the highestipinnacle of expectation. Hourly did we expect the news of the slaughter and the arrival of the mangled slain, but how different were the facts from our surmissings!
