

LOCAL NEWS.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, MAY 14

Treseder Back.—Detective Adam Paul returned from San Francisco today, bringing with him the notorious Frank Treseder. Mr. Paul arrested Treseder for his bondsman, and it is not likely he will be again permitted to go at liberty, for a while at least.

Court Proceedings.—In the Third District Court to-day, a decision was rendered in the suit of J. C. Bowring vs. W. C. Bowring; the court finds for defendant, and orders judgment accordingly.

Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. vs. M. T. Glesborn, et. al.; trial in progress. Anders Anderson, of Wasatch County, was admitted to citizenship.

Admitted to Bail.—Brothers Levi Minnerly and R. C. Smith, who were arrested on a charge of living with and acknowledging their wives, at Wellsville, Cache County, yesterday morning, were brought to Ogden last evening and admitted to bail in the sum of $1,800 each. The witnesses were also required to give bonds for their appearance when wanted.

Correct Registration.—Legal voters should not forget their duty to see that their names are properly on the registry lists. Not only should they be sure that they are there, but that the names are correctly spelled, with special reference to initials. Those who have removed from one precinct to another should see that they are registered in the one in which they now reside. This is a matter of vital importance and should not be neglected.

Held for Trial.—The young woman who, on Monday last, killed her seducer at Elizabeth, Colo., is Miss Alice Burts, of Denver. All of the testimony taken at the examination goes to show the treachery and villainy of Wright in his treatment of her after he had accomplished his infernal purpose, but Miss Burts and her brother, who was with her at the time Wright was killed for his crime, have been committed for trial without bail. The character of the girl prior to her engagement with Wright was irreproachable.

Matters at Mount Carmel.—R. M. Englestad sends us the following little budget from Mount Carmel, Kane County: On April 17th, Orissa Jolley died; on the 26th a corn and a quantity of lucern belonging to Brother Englestad were consumed by fire, the cause of which was the usual combination of small boy and matches. There are daily losses by water, which lately caused a cave of land into the creek, resulting in considerable loss. The weather is clear, and the thermometer stands at 65 at noon and generally from 28 to 32 at 6 in the evening.

Served Right.—Yesterday afternoon Moses Burns was convicted of drunkenness, and was fined $5 in the Police Court. He declared that he had come in from Stockton; Tooele County, to be cared for at the hospital, and had taken some laudanum and fallen asleep at the place where he was picked up by the police. The evidence, however, showed that Burns' story had little truth in it, and the offense was clearly proven. The fellow paid his fine, and also deposited enough cash to liberate the notorious Mrs. Passey from jail. Later in the evening the two were found together in a state of beastly intoxication in a house of ill-fame, whither they had resorted after being set at liberty. Both were lodged in jail and this morning entered a plea of guilty to a violation of the city ordinance against prostitution, and were each sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $50. To satisfy the judgment they will remain in jail 189 days.

A Few Words from a Veteran.—A letter has reached us from the veteran Leonard Sobe, of Beverly, New Jersey, from which we extract the following: "Enclosed you will find five dollars for my year's subscription to the weekly DESERET NEWS, and the balance for the treasurer of the emigration funds to help the poor to come to Zion."

"I am past 78 years. I joined the Church in 1830. My grandfather fought under General Washington; my father died in the war of 1812, now all our rights under the Constitution seem to be gone. Now I appeal to Him who has all power in heaven and earth to redress my wrongs and the wrongs of my brethren and the wrongs of the daughters of Zion. Tell the latter Bro. Sobe says if they are faithful the day is not far distant when they shall have the right to vote and say who shall be the fathers of their children."

"I send my love to Brother Cannon. Although I have never seen him, I know of his great sacrifices. May his heart be comforted."

Fatal Accident.—About 9 o'clock on Wednesday night a terrible accident occurred at Dry Creek, on the Utah & Northern Railroad, a few miles north of Eagle Rock, Idaho, resulting in the death of one man and the injury of three others, one probably fatally. From what can be learned of the sad affair, some ten or eleven cars broke from a freight train at the place named, and ran down the grade at a heavy speed. Another freight train, with a double header, was standing on the switch, and it being at night the runaway cars were not observed in time. The switch had been turned, and the heavy-loaded cars went crashing into the two locomotives, making a fearful wreck. One engineer named Clark was killed almost instantly and a fireman, Ezra Meech terribly injured. Mr. flood, the other engineer was considerably bruised and frightfully burned about the face and upper part of his body, his face presenting a shocking appearance. The other fireman was also injured and burned, but not so seriously. Flood and Meech were brought to the Union Pacific hospital at Ogden last evening, to receive proper treatment. The former will probably recover, but Meech, whose right leg was severed in the accident, and the left one amputated after his arrival in Ogden, has but slight chances of life. A number of friends of the unfortunate men came to Ogden with them.

DEATH OF JOEL GROVER.

The sad intelligence conveyed in the following special to the News, received this morning, will cause a sensation among the numerous friends of the well known gentleman to whom it relates:

"President Joel Grover died at his residence in Nephi, at 12 o'clock last night, from indigestion."

L. A. BAILEY.

The sorrow that will be felt by those acquainted with Brother Grover, who has been cut down in the full flush of manhood, will be mingled with astonishment. We doubt if there existed a suspicion of his being afflicted with any malady. His appearance seemed to denote unusual physical vigor. He was a useful and capable man and will be missed by the community in which he resided.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY, MAY 15

Fire at Logan.—A disastrous fire occurred at Logan early this morning, in which the U. O. M. & B. Company's shops were destroyed. The loss will amount to $6,000.

A Good Old Age.—Sister P. Sessions, of Bountiful, was in the city, to-day; she is in good health and able to attend to her business though she is now in her ninety-second year.

An Alarming Accident.—On Friday evening a serious and distressing accident occurred to Tacy Hardy, eight years of age, daughter of Bishop W. B. Hardy, of Mountain Dell. When in the act of drawing a bucket of water she leaned against the boarding that protects the well. She was seized with a sudden pain in the breast, ran into the house told her mother, and shortly after swooned. She was in a restless condition during all of Thursday night. On Friday morning Drs. Richards and Bower cut into the locality of the distress and found a needle imbedded in the cartilage, the point reaching the heart. It was extracted and the patient is about all right again. It was an alarming and dangerous accident.

Burglar Bound Over.—On Thursday morning Mr. Wm. W. Winegar, of South Bountiful, Davis County, went away from his home for a few hours, and on returning about noon, discovered that the house had been broken into, and a razor, hat, hatchet, some soap and other articles taken. He suspected an individual whom he saw going northward along the railway track, and mounting a horse, followed, and captured him with the stolen goods in his possession. The thief refused to give his name, and was booked as John Doe. He was taken before Justice R. E. Egan, who bound him over in $300 to await the action of the grand jury. As he was unable to give bonds, he was brought to the city jail this morning by Sheriff D. O. Willey, for safe keeping. At the City Hall it was discovered that the fellow's name was George Evans.

Jail Delivery.—Early this morning the county jailer discovered that the number of prisoners under his care had been reduced by three since Friday evening. These were the burglars who stole some goods from Alexander's auction store two weeks ago, and were arrested by Nightwatchman Watson, and who gave their names as Quinby, Kelly and Trancer. They had been confined in a cell on the west side of the building, and had removed part of the floor. Through this they dug down to the bottom of the stone foundation under the west side of the building, then tunneled in under and came up through the lawn, about two feet from the wall. The aperture made was barely large enough for a man to get through. They then climbed the fence and escaped. The tunneling was done in the soft soil with an iron washbasin. The officers have telegraphed in all directions, and are making efforts to recapture the trio of thieves.

An Elder Banished.—We are enabled to present the following extract from a letter from Elder S. W. Musser, now a missionary in Germany, to his parents in this city. The communication was dated at Dresden, April 20th: "A few changes have been made since my arrival here. Elder Schultness has been sent away up into the north-eastern corner of Germany, near the borders of Russia, while Elder Thurer, the President of this conference, has been banished from Berlin and the whole of Prussia. This is quite new to us all, as Prussia has been our best state, while in Berlin is the largest branch we have in the whole of Germany. The way President Thurer was treated should give the Federal officers of Utah a hint. He was simply summoned before the police authorities and handed his banishment certificate without having been asked a question or having had anything in the shape of a trial, not even the formalities. It must be admitted that this mode of doing things saves much valuable time and means exactly the same thing. At present we have no one in Berlin. The charge trumped up against Elder Thurer is that of "assisting 'Mormon' emigration." The German government is greatly opposed to emigration, especially to the United States, and anybody who advocates it is severely punished."

The Arnold Case Postponed.—When the case of the United States vs. Orson P. Arnold was called in the Third District Court this morning, the attorneys for the defense stated to the Court that the trial had been rushed so closely upon the finding of the indictment that they had no time to prepare for the case. They therefore desired that the case be continued for the term. Mr. Dickson objected, but said he was willing that it should be postponed until some day next week. Mr. Rawlins replied that there was no necessity for such unseemly haste in the trial, as the prosecution would not be inconvenienced or prejudiced by a continuance, and the matter was one of great importance to the defendant. The attorneys had had no time to examine any witnesses or to find out anything about the case. Mr. Dickson finally consented to the continuance upon the attorneys for the defense stating that they could not get ready, and the case went over for the term.

The witnesses were excused until the September term of the Court, one additional—Mrs. Gardner—being placed under $300 bonds.

The plea of Mr. Arnold, which was to have been received, was not taken. Mr. Dickson, being reminded of this, the defendant was required to come into court again, and pleaded not guilty.

COURT BUSINESS AT BEAVER.

A COMMUNITY UNDER LEGAL BONDAGE.

BEAVER, U. T., May 15, 1886.

Editor Deseret News:

The grand jury was dismissed yesterday afternoon. It found ten indictments, principally for unlawful cohabitation. Wm. J. Cox pleaded guilty to the usual charge and receives sentence on the 24th inst. George Hales plead not guilty. M. L. Shepherd asked for acquittal as he had already been tried for the same offense. Mr. Bickley was arrested to-day on a second indictment for unlawful cohabitation.

John N. Dunning, of Panguitch, was arraigned, and not being able to give bonds, is in Beaver jail. Everybody here who can legally go on his bonds is either under or on bonds.

The trial of Easton is progressing before a jury brought together by open venire. The evidence is all in. The prosecution have got a weak case. The Court helps them all it can.

MOONSHREE

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, MAY 17

Sunday School Conference.—Brother Thomas Jones, who acted as secretary, sends us details of the annual conference of the St. John Sunday School, Oneida Stake. The proceedings were evidently very creditable, a fine programme having been rendered. They are elaborated in the report, however, to an extent that precludes the practicability of according the account space in our columns.

Runaway.—On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. James Kerwin, of Park City, were returning from Midway in a buggy, when Mr. Kerwin was thrown out by one of the wheels going into a "chuck-hole." The team were frightened and ran away, the vehicle passing over and bruising Mr. Kerwin. A short distance down the road the buggy capsized and Mrs. Kerwin was thrown out and severely injured, being unconscious for a number of hours.

Fatal Fall.—At Georgetown, Colorado, May 13th, an accident, resulting in the death of a man by the name of Raymond, occurred at the Colorado Central mine. Raymond was working on the night shift and had descended in the bucket preparatory to going to work and had reached the 100-foot level when he stepped out thinking the platform closed, and fell to the platform 100 feet below. He was terribly crushed, and died soon after being raised to the surface.

Portraits of the Elders.—We have had the pleasure of viewing a very fine group picture of the Elders of the British mission. It contains excellent likenesses of the missionaries now laboring in Great Britain and who have been there during the past year. In the centre is seen the venerable face of President D. H. Wells and his associates of the Millennial Star office. There are in all portraits of nearly eighty Elders. The age of each and the conference in which they are laboring are also indicated.

We are requested to notify those Elders who have subscribed for the picture that they have arrived and may be procured at the Contributor office. Elders living out of town will please send for them without delay.

Poisoning.—Near Aspen, Colorado, two men named Albert Kline and Tom O'Connell live in a small cabin, and work a farm together. The Denver

News gives an account of how, on the morning of the 5th inst., Kline arose and on going to the stable to feed his team he found a can of unopened honey. After feeding his team he returned to the house and the men ate some of the honey for breakfast. For some reason the top of the can could not be opened and the top was cut off soon after breakfast both were taken sick, and for three days they lay at their cabin unable to move. On the night of the third day a neighbor dropped in and a physician being summoned soon had the men beyond danger. All entertained the belief that the honey was the cause of their illness, so it was analyzed and found to contain traces of strychnine. A small portion given to a cat proved fatal. It is supposed that the placing of the can with the poisoned honey near the house was intentional on the part of some one who had a grudge against the men.

Welcome Home.—F. S. Richards Esq. returned on Sunday evening from the national capital. We are pleased to see our esteemed friend in such good health and spirits. While in Washington he was very unwell a good portion of the time, but by strong determination was able to discharge all his duties satisfactorily. He not only made an elaborate and able argument in the Snow case before the United States Supreme Court, but addressed the Judiciary Committee of the House on the legislation now before Congress, aided our Delegate in his labors in the same direction, had interviews with President Cleveland, Attorney-General Garland, Senator Edmunds and other influential gentlemen and assisted Mr. George Ticknor Curtis in his masterly effort on behalf of the Constitutional rights of the people of Utah.

Mr. Richards has performed able and essential service to the cause of justice and equal rights, and returns with honor to his home and friends. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Joseph A. West, while the rest of the representatives of the People remained at the seat of government for further service. Welcome home.

Suicide at Ogden.—On Saturday morning a shocking affair was brought to light in Ogden, when E. G. Horrocks, of that place was found dead, hanging to an apple tree in his orchard. From evidence adduced at the inquest, it seems that on Friday, the deceased, who for a few years past has been addicted to the free use of intoxicants, had remained in bed all day, and about 10 p. m. arose and dressed himself. He bade his wife and family an affectionate good night, saying he was going over to his other house. This was the last seen of him until he was discovered next morning. The coroner's jury returned the following verdict:

We the jurors in the above entitled case of E. G. Horrocks, now lying dead before us, do find that the deceased came to his death by taking a small ladder and climbing up into an apple tree, and then fastening a leather strap to a limb and attaching it to his neck, then pushing the ladder from under him, leaving his body swinging in the air.

MORONI BROWN,

JOSEPH CLARK,

JAS. M. BROWN,

Jurors.

MARK HALL, Coroner.

The deceased was nearly 50 years of age, and had resided in Ogden about 27 years. His funeral took place yesterday.

Attempted Escape.—Michael Casey, who has been confined in the city jail for a few weeks past, is one of the parties who were engaged in robbing Carter's gun store, and who were captured at the D. & R. G. hotel. Casey also stole a rifle from H. E. Phelps, and being convicted of the offense in the justice's court was sentenced to 100 days' labor. On Sunday night, while the prisoners in the city jail were being placed in their cells after having eaten supper, Casey was one of the first to pass out of the dining room. Unobserved by the jailor, who was attending to some of the others, he went along the corridor past his cell door, and ran upstairs, where he secreted himself in a closet. The jailor supposed all was right, so locked the doors for the night. On entering the prison again this morning, however, he discovered that an effort to escape had been made and proceeded to investigate. Casey was missed from the cell, and was found upstairs in the closet, feigning sleep. He had returned to that place to escape observation, after his failure to get out, and had hoped to join the other prisoners on their way to breakfast, and thereby avoid detection, but in this he was disappointed.

After the jailor had fastened the doors last night, Casey came forth from his hiding place, and by breaking the glass in the transom over the hall door, opened it and climbed through the narrow space into the dining room. Here he found a butcher knife and proceeded to cut a "cat-hole" about fifteen inches square through the double door leading to the kitchen. He had first attempted to remove the hinge bolts, but had been unable to accomplish this. The first layer of boards on the door was cut through, but daylight came before Casey was able to finish his task, so he returned by the way he had come, to the closet. He went out to work this morning, with the rest of the prisoners, wearing a ball and chain to insure his remaining within call.

The Logan Fire.—The Utah Journal gives the following particulars of the burning of the U. O. & M. B. Co.'s machine shops on Saturday last, brief mention of which was made in Saturday's News:

"About one o'clock this (Saturday) morning Mr. Charles Wilkes was passing the U. G. foundry, when he noticed that a fire was burning in the machine shops, near the place where the capols issues from the roof. He immediately informed Mr. Wm. Birdno, who lives nearby, and the two started off to give the alarm. In a comparatively short time a crowd had gathered and every effort was made to save the foundry property. The fire, before long, gained immense proportions, and the fact was soon developed that no power could save the machine shop. Attention was directed toward the blacksmith shop, which had taken fire on the east end, and men stood on the roof and poured water on it, even while the fire was scorching their faces. All the surrounding buildings, stacks, etc., were deluged with water by those present, and, thanks to their labor, nothing else was destroyed. Work was continued until far beyond daylight, and citizens were startled this morning at seeing nothing but a few smoldering ruins where once stood the Foundry machine shop.

There seems to be but one opinion as to how the blaze originated. A run was made yesterday, by the company, the castings being left to cool, and although Manager Goddard was at the building last evening, he noticed nothing out of the way. It is thought, however, that the fire originated in one of the casting flasks, and spread to some surrounding timber, as was the case upon an occasion about two years ago, the fire being put out before it had caused much damage. The loss is estimated at about six thousand dollars, a great many valuable machines, castings, patterns, etc., being burned. It will prove a serious loss for the company, who were hardly in circumstances to be able to easily bear such a setback. There was no insurance upon the building. Great credit is awarded those who were present for their effective labor, among whom were Wm. Peacock, Henry Reese, and Charles Wilkes. The lack of a regularly organized fire company, as well as some means of giving a loud alarm, is greatly felt. The Presbyterian chapel bell was rung at the first alarm this morning, awakening a number of men."

The U. & N. Accident.—A correspondent of the Butte Miner gives the following account of the accident on the Utah & Northern road, involving in addition to a loss of life a very heavy loss of property. It appears that about 8 o'clock Conductor Quinn, in charge of freight train No. 618 from Spring Hill going south, was intercepted by orders to slide track at Dry Creek in order to allow a very heavy triple header from Eagle Rock to pass. When the point was reached he proceeded to obey orders, and at once discovered that the slide track was occupied with a lot of empty box cars and eleven cars laden with steel rails. He sent brakeman Taylor ahead to release the standing stock, and pulled in, as is usual. When the engine of 618 struck the box cars and started them, Taylor discovered that the eleven steel cars were not coupled, and being so heavily laden they moved off with a fair start at a pretty good speed. Instead of adjusting the air brakes with which the cars were equipped, Taylor seems to have lost his head, and the presumption is that fearing they would be wrecked, he ran down, opened the switch and thus turn them into the main track, which, at this point, has a very heavy down grade.

In the meantime the heavy train with its three sections in charge of Conductor Collins, which had started from Eagle Rock at 2:55 p. m., was moving along at the rate of 13 or 15 miles per hour. At starting it was drawn by engine 24, Burt Chapman, engineer, and engine 17, George Orem, engineer, but on account of its weight engine 50, George Flood, engineer, was ordered to hitch on at the mouth of Beaver Cañon and help pull it through the heavy grade of the cañon, which was done, No. 50 being in the lead. The train was proceeding in good shape and Dry Creek had been nearly reached, when the eleven runaway cars were suddenly discovered turning a curve and coming at the rate of forty or fifty miles an hour. The sight was so sudden and the distance so short that it was impossible to do anything, and in a second or two the collision occurred, the shock being terrible, the steel rails on the runaway mashing through the boiler of No. 50. The concussion was so great that the three engines and nearly all the cars of both trains were derailed and they and their contents scattered in all directions. As soon as they recovered from the shock, the railroad men began to look around to discover the extent of the accident. That the train was a complete wreck was apparent at a glance, and then came the search for the human victims, the casualties being finally summed up as follows: James Clark, fireman No. 50, killed instantly, skull fractured. Geo. Flood, engineer No. 50, very badly scalded; recovery doubtful. Andy Keach, fireman No. 24, one leg mashed and amputated, the other broken in two places; not expected to live. Burt Chapman, an engineer, No. 24, head badly cut and otherwise bruised; not serious. Geo. Grem, engineer No. 17,
