so infatuated were the commercial pligrims from Salt Lake with the openhouse hospitality of Logan that the majerity refused to return on the special last sight. The train was held at Loan over time, but when Conductor Joe couton swung his lantern there were barely 15 passengers on board-the rest of the excursionists were up town geting shoe shines preparatory to breaking in upon the grand ball.

The hospitality of the residents of Logan will long be remembered. Any individual wearing the blue, yellow and white ribbons only had to lift a finger and he had half a dozen conveyances at his command; if he tried to break into the overcrowded restaurants it was phances to one that a Loganite would is him by the arm and lead him gent-y to his home, where he could plagiar-is from Dumas, and like the gentleman the stood on the rock, after his long wim, say, "The world is mine." BEAUREGARD WINS.

Will Represent Utah in Oratorical Contest at Lawrence, Kansas.

The victor of the oratorical contest of university students at the Theater yesterday afternoon was Donald Beauregard, who spoke on the "Growth and cosmopolitan Character of American Cities." There were five other contest ants, and all acquitted themselves ad mirably, said the judges, but Mr. Beauregard had a shade the best of it and was entitled to the distinction. It devolves upon him now to represent this state in the district contest at Law-rence, Kan, and if successful there, he will contest for the prize cup at St. Louis.

The attendance at the contest was not large, the afternoon being very warm, but the audience was enthys-iastic from the beginning. The general theme was "Improvement of City Government," and upon one phase of it all the speakers agreed-reform in municipal affairs is needed. The judge said in part: "Success in building a great city depends upon material resources. We must encourage manufacturing in-dustries which will afford employment for an increased population; we must increase the city's water supply and ex-tend the sewers; we must look after the health of the citizens; we must keep up the standard of education; we must ex-tend the commerce of the city by in-creasing its facilities and importance as a jobbing center. None of the Great Bargains obtained by our Mr. Lewis while in New York exceeds this unusual pick-up. He accidentally met the opportunity and bought the entire lot greatly below the market price. The purchase has been rushed to us by express.

The full benefit of that extraordinary buying is given the trade. It is entirely out of the ordinary to obtain ribbon worth from 30c to more than 50c a yard at only 15c. Trade in New York has been much more backward than in the West; therefore it was the cash consideration and the disposal of the entire stock, that made the opportunity.

Of standard goods, of splendid assortment, of fine quality, of desirable colors, these ribbons will appeal to women at 15c just as the price enthused Mr. Lewis. It is the best ribbon bargain we have offered. In order to avoid the afternoon rush early forenoon shopping is urged.
