Representative Fishburn, from Box lder, with his silver-tongue. made lite an oratorical flourish in favor of free textbooks, and added free cloth-ing and free food if necessary. Mrs. Coulter of Weber admitted that he had been a schoolteacher and urged her side of the case from four points of view, the standpoint of the teacher oupil, taxpayers and legislator. said she was not opposed to free text ooks, but favored the purchase of then by those who were able to do so. As a legislator she was opposed to any fur-

alace of the word

ther burden of taxation. She favored legislation compelling children to atend school and made a hen she said that the men and women who had achieved greatness had done to because of the obstacles they had been obliged to overcome. The effort nust come from within and no outside dd would help to distinction if it was not for individual effort. She said the eachers should not be burdened with he care of books and that the childre vould be jealous if one had a new book and another a worn one. Representative Wilson of Piute didn't say much, but what he did say was emphatically in favor of free books. Representative Done of Salt Lake, chairman of the committee on educaion and art, who looks carefully after verything pertaining to either subject e a good argument in its favor and said that so far as the taxation was concerned, it could only amount to a quarter of a mill, so that a person taxed at $4,000, would only pay one dol-lar taxes. Instead of being an addition-ai burden he said it would be a relef to the peor man. We prove that the poor man. Mr. Done told a good story. It was about a Jew whose sor ad died away from home and who had been telegraphed to as to what dis-posal to make of the body. They had vired to the father that the cost of emalming would be $200, and the cost of freezing $50, and asked which he want-ed done. The old Jew replied: "Freeze lakey from his knees up-his feet was "roze last winter." The application was o very much to the point that it created laughter and applause. Mr. Done made a telling hit when he read a telegram from Mrs. Lottie Scott. assis-tant state superintendent of Idaho, saying that the free textbook system in that state was generally satisfactory. Representative Austin of Utah coun y said his constituents were about qually divided and he didn't want chool children made public charges, ad therefore opposed the bill. Representative McRae of Salt Lake, ho has been more of a listener than a speaker during the session, gave sta-distics on the enormous burden of taxtion being carried by Salt Lake couny and opposed the measure and made motion that the bill be tabled, which vas lost. How much longer the discussion ould have lasted no one can tell, had not been for Representative Wilson. the old warhorse from Wasatch, who like many others, had been almost ovreome and much mixed by the flood of oratory which had been indulged in who moved the previous question, which was promptly carried. After a few per onal explanations the vote on question f free textbooks was carried by or to 10 against-there being 6 absentees. A few communications from the senate were read and then the hour for the Leincoln-McKinley memorial services having arrived, the further pro ceedings were interrupted. After th After the ceremonies were over with business was resumed and after the receipt of several committee reopris and senate com-munications the house at 5 o'clock adjourned until Monday at 2 p. m.
