

PATHTIC STORY OF MOTHER'S GRIEF

Mrs. Elora Shupe, Whose Child
Was Accidentally Killed in St. Louis, Prostrated.

RUN OVER BY HEAVY WAGON.

Bore Up Well Until After Burial on Tuesday, When Overstrained
Woman Broke Down.

A pathetic story of a mother's grief over the death of one of her little tots is that of Mrs. Elora Shupe, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dalton, 1712 south State street. Mrs. Shupe is totally prostrated. The child was 22 months old and was killed June 27 while at play in front of the Shupe home in St. Louis, as previously detailed in the "News." Dr. J. R. and Mrs. Shupe, who have been living in St. Louis for the past four years while the husband attended a medical college there, made it a rule not to let Reed, aged 4 and Forest, 22 months old, play outside of the yard, as the street in front was in constant use by vehicles. One afternoon Mrs. Shupe took her little ones out on the sidewalk and Forest toddled happily along the parking by the sidewalk.

CHILD CRUSHED BY WAGON.

Just as a heavy wagon turned the corner the little child stepped down from the curb into the pavement. The horses were upon it in a second and the wheels of the wagon passed over the infant, crushing him from the little body. A corner's jury found the negro who was driving the team and wagon responsible for the child's death as it was shown he was driving at a rapid pace and was not looking where he was going. Owing to the grief of the parents they did not press charges against him, however, but they came to Springfield, Utah, with the body of their child.

BROKE DOWN COMPLETELY.

The burial was held Tuesday. Mrs. Shupe bore up well until after the funeral and her husband thought she was gaining strength nicely until she broke down completely. Dr. Shupe will remain in Utah to practice as he had graduated from the Barnes College of Medicine.

A MEMORABLE DAY.

One of the days we remember with pleasure, as well as with profit to our health, is the one on which we became acquainted with Dr. King's New Life Pills, the painless purifier that cures headache and biliousness, and keep the bowels right. 25c at Z. C. M. I. Drug Store, 112 and 114 Main Street.

PLEASANT EVENING.

Old Folks' Choir Entertained by C. R. Savage.

Upon the invitation of C. R. Savage, a member of the old folks' committee, the members of the old folks' choir met at his home, No. 80 D street, to hold their monthly practice and enjoy themselves in an evening of pleasure and song. An evening of real enjoyment was had. The guests present upon this occasion were: Mesdames Rodgers, Butler, Duncan, Jensen, Riter, Margrets and the talented accompanist, Miss Edna Edmunds, also Messrs. Jos. R. Morgan, Matthew Noall, Moroni McAllister, Eli Pearce, Duncan and Beesley, Thos. Butler, conductor, and the Dockstader of Utah. Mr. Geo. Margrets, and others. Refreshments were served during the evening.

THE PROGRAM RENDERED WAS AS FOLLOWS:

Song by choir, "If There's Sunshine in Your Heart."
Ladies' duet, members of choir, "Whispering Hope."
Solo, choir accompaniment, "Softly Signs the Breath of Evening," by Miss Jensen.
Comic reading, by C. R. Savage.
Song, by choir, "The Song of Triumph."
Solo selected, Miss Jensen.
Reading, Eli Pearce.
Soprano solo, "Ave Maria," Mrs. Lemme Savage Riter.
Piano solo, selected, Miss Edna Edmunds.
Tenor solo, "Dearie," Thos. Butler.
George Margrets told, in song, the sad affair of the blow that nearly killed his father.
The evening was brought to a close by singing, "One Day Nearer Home," the music for which was composed by Jas. McGrath, the great song writer who now lies dead at his home.

THE CHARMING WOMAN.

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physician's work woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Guaranteed at Z. FIXING ON PUBLIC "UTAH MADE HABIT"

Boom in Favor of Home Industries Carried on at Saltair And In City.

RECEPTION A BIG SUCCESS.

Hundreds Gather at Chamber of Commerce to "Get Acquainted" and Listen to Exposition of Propaganda.

The work of fixing the "Utah made habit" on the Utah born public is being carried on today both in Salt Lake and at Saltair. In the city the business windows are filled with exhibits of home made goods and home grown products. At Saltair the people who perhaps are hoping to build Brigham street mansions out of the profits from growing commercial plants, instead of seeing Bostonian mansions and Lake Erie private yachts produced from the Utah trade, are raising their shout for home manufacture.

Last night at the chamber of commerce the third evening of "Get Acquainted" week saw a large demonstration in favor of the sentiment expressed so clearly by the slogan. From Farmington comes a Ladies' Glee club, composed of Rose Steel, Maggie Steel, Pearl Robinson, Vera Oviatt, Clara Robinson, and Clea Lamb. The club sang well selected numbers, and gave speeches and more formal oratory from the heads of various Salt Lake and other organizations, interested in the home industry propaganda.

FROM OUT OF TOWN.

After the speeches and music there were refreshments, and after that a banquet for the ladies' quartet, served at a local restaurant by their Salt Lake hosts. The crowd that gathered was largely from out of town points and not as large as it might have been from Salt Lake, although many people came and went early in the evening. The Retail Butchers & Grocers association attended in a body, and pledged, through President Marriott, their support to the home industry movement, and assured those present that they would offer home goods wherever they could instead of imported wares.

The principal speech was made by President Colburn of the Real Estate association. In rosette oratory he pictured the state founders in their sturdy self-dependence and self reliance on what their hands and plows could bring out of Utah's sterile land. Then he called on the people of today to realize the obligation each citizen owes to the commonwealth of which he is a part, and to honor this obligation by supporting the commonwealth instead of helping through his trade to build up other commonwealths from which no good to his own is derived.

COMING STATE FAIR.

J. G. McDonald, president of the State Fair association, called yesterday on the coming state fair, and to the opportunity there presented of bringing home goods before the people. Mayor Robinson of Farmington spoke for his community. George Austin spoke for the manufacturers and merchants. J. M. Marriott spoke for the retailers, and Fred Waite followed him for the same organization. J. G. W. Palmer of Farmington spoke of that community, and its growing prosperity.

Tomorrow the "get acquainted" people will be back at their chamber of commerce headquarters, after a strenuous day with the real estate people at Saltair today.

PILGRIMAGE OF THE UTAH PIONEERS SIXTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1847.

The pioneers continued their journey onward. Orson Pratt's journal records as follows:

"We commenced gradually to ascend, passing a small spring which we called Red Mineral spring, from the extreme redness of the soil out of which it issued; its taste was very disagreeable, and no doubt poisonous, on account of the great percentage of copperas which it contained; from the taste, I should judge that it also contains considerable alum. After a journey of five miles we attained the summit of a ridge between two branches of Muddy Fork. The barometric height above the sea was 7,815 feet, 230 feet higher than the South Pass. From this summit we commenced descending for about one mile, and came upon a small level valley from 30 to 50 rods wide; there was some water in places in this valley, proceedings principally from mineral springs. From the ridge we had descended three or four hundred feet. We followed up this valley to the southwest, and halted for noon three miles from the last named ridge, latitude 41° 14' 21". We continued on for five miles, our road ascending gradually for awhile, and then quite abruptly, until we attained the summit of the dividing ridge between the waters of the Gulf of California and those of the great Salt Lake, or the branches of Muddy Fork on the east and Bear river on the west. The barometric elevation of this ridge above the sea is 7,799 feet, being 15 feet higher than the South Pass at the head of the Sweetwater. From this summit we commenced descending very abruptly at first, and then more gradually. We continued down this narrow valley in a southwesterly direction for about four miles; no running water, but some standing in pools; the grass was good. From this ravine we crossed a slight elevation on the left, and descended gradually upon a small tributary to Bear river; here we encamped for the night. About 25 rods south of this stream, coming out of the bluffs on the left bank, is a most excellent cold spring of pure water; good grass. Some few willows, with the wild sage, was our fuel as usual. On the side of the hills to the northwest about 100 rods are some few cedars. We are now five miles from the summit of the last dividing ridge. We traveled 13 miles today. Just before our encampment, as I was wandering alone upon one of the hills, examining the various geological formations, I discovered a small shrine two miles from our encampment, which I expected arose from some small Indian encampment. I informed some of our men, and they immediately went to discover who they were; they were found to be a small party from the Bay of San Francisco, on their way home to the states. They were accompanied by Mr. Miles Goodyear, a mountaineer, as far as this point, where Mr. Goodyear, learning from us that the Oregon emigration was earlier than usual, and that they instead of coming by way of Bridger's had taken a more northern route, concluded to go down Bear river and intercept them for the purpose of trade."

SUNDAY, JULY 11, 1847.

The morning was clear, calm and beautiful in the pioneer camp on Bear river, although it had been cold during the night and considerable ice had formed. Miles Goodyear, visited the pioneer camp, and gave a very favorable account of his location on the Weber river (the present site of Ogden) by the states. Mr. Goodyear, a mountaineer, visited the pioneer camp, and gave a very favorable account of his location on the Weber river (the present site of Ogden) by the states. MRS. WORK GETS YEAR IN PRISON

Woman Who Stole Diamond Stud From C. E. Bowers Sentenced By Judge Armstrong.

PLEA OF GUILTY ENTERED.

Culprit Told Pitiful Tale of Sick Husband and No Money—Movement for Pardon.

One year in the state prison is the sentence passed upon Mrs. Dorcas Work yesterday afternoon by Judge Armstrong in the criminal division of the district court for stealing a $95 diamond stud from the jewelry store of C. E. W. Bowers on July 6. Mrs. Work was arrested by Detective Chase a few hours after the theft and made a confession to the police. She was bound over to the district court and when arraigned yesterday afternoon pleaded guilty and was given the minimum penalty for grand larceny.

STORY OF THEFT.

The woman called at the jewelry store and asked to look at some diamonds and while looking at them she asked Mr. Bowers to show her a brooch which was in the window. When he went to get it she took the diamond stud from the brooch and hid it in her pocket. She then left the store.

Mr. Bowers soon discovered his loss and reported the matter to the police. The diamond was located in a pawnshop where it had been pawned for $30, and the woman was arrested soon after. She told the police that her husband had been sick and she needed the money and took that method of getting it. She and her husband came here recently from the east, and were engaged in spiritualist work, but found that did not pay very well.

WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY.

When she appeared in court yesterday afternoon she was accompanied by her husband. The court appointed Attorney E. A. Rogers to represent her and after a brief conference he announced that she was ready to plead. She entered a plea of guilty, and asked to be sentenced without delay. District Attorney Goodyear stated that the money she received for the diamond had been refunded and the diamond had been returned to its owner, hence he thought that the minimum penalty would be sufficient.

Attorney Rogers agreed with the district attorney on that matter, so judgment was passed, and stated above. The woman took her sentence coolly, but after leaving the courtroom declared to the deputy sheriff who had her in custody that this was a funny state where a poor woman is sent to the state prison for a year for stealing a cheap diamond. She was taken out to the state prison today to begin her sentence. It is very probable that her husband will take immediate steps to secure a pardon for her.

TWO MORE ASK FOR WRITS OF REVIEW

Shady Proceedings of County Justice Being Strenuously
Objected to by Victims.

DEMURRER IS DISREGARDED.

Notwithstanding Question of Jurisdiction is Raised, Judgment is Given by Default.

Two more actions were filed against the notorious justice of the peace, Charles F. Durand, of Murray, yesterday. In one action a writ of review is asked to have the proceedings of Durand in the case of W. R. Forsythe against Neal McMillan reviewed by the district court. McMillan, in his petition for a writ of review, alleges that he filed a demurrer to the complaint. His rationale was that the jurisdiction of the court, but notwithstanding this fact, Durand entered a default judgment against him for $200.00 and totally ignored the demurrer. The judgment, he declares, is illegal, and he asks to have the matter reviewed by the district court.

ANOTHER ONE.

A. Amundsen filed a petition for a writ of prohibition to prohibit Durand, the Lake agency and Studabaker Bros. company, from taking any further action towards collecting two judgments rendered against him in the sum of $69 and $25 respectively. Amundsen alleges that he objected to the jurisdiction of the court, but Durand paid no attention to the same but proceeded to enter judgment against him. He claims that said judgments are illegal and asks that defendants be prohibited from attempting to collect the same.

WILSON IN CUSTODY AGAIN.

Examination as to His Sanity to be Made by Court.

W. J. Wilson who had been held in custody on a charge of threatening to kill J. H. McChrystal and John Q. Packard was released and almost immediately rearrested and will be held, this time, pending an examination as to his sanity by Judge Armstrong. Wilson served time in Colorado for killing two men and is regarded as "a bad man." He was working in the mine when Wilson believes he was "tricked." Neither of the men he has threatened to kill will discuss the case further than saying they regard Wilson as irresponsible for any or all statements he makes.

MRS. HELD GETS $500.

The damage suit filed by Mabel V. Held against the Pacific Express company was compromised yesterday in Judge Ritchie's court for $500. The suit was the result of the death of Charles Paul Held, the husband and father of five minor children. He was crushed between a car and a baggage truck at the Oregon Short Line depot, Oct. 26, 1906. He was working in the company's office but was called out to work on the platform. This was in darkness and the truck got beyond his control, resulting in the accident happening as described.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The principal events in Thursday's social whirl are Mrs. Walker's second luncheon this afternoon, the lawn party given by Mrs. J. J. Thomas, and the dancing party given by Miss Della and Mr. Claude Q. Cannon.

The luncheon yesterday at Idlewild by Mrs. Winnifred S. Walker for her niece, Miss Cheesman, was given with an attention to details that surprised even the friends of that most popular hostess. The guests, about 50 in number, were conveyed by automobile over the suburban roads that lead to beautiful Idlewild. The decorations were all that could be desired, being nasturtiums and California poppies on the veranda, the hall in panes, the library in roses and the diningroom in sweet peas. A large American flag draped the arch at the entrance in honor of the groom-to-be. Mrs. Cheesman poured coffee in the diningroom; the Misses Margie Walker and Mabel McClure served punch on the veranda. One pretty feature of the entertainment was the privilege granted the guests of gathering flowers which they did to their great delight.

Another large affair of yesterday was the dancing party given by Mrs. F. A. Ellis to about 200 of her friends, which was elaborate in all its details. The decorations were brilliantly carried out in three rows of colored incandescent lights surrounded the house, with a double row of Japanese lanterns. A Japanese dancing floor was erected on the back lawn, and a platform for the orchestra, near the latter. Under an attractive canopy of red, white and blue, Miss Hazel Cannon, Miss Emily Barnes and Miss Alice Pitt, in dainty white gowns, served punch. Christensen's orchestra furnished the music while refreshments were served in the diningroom, which was gay with nasturtiums and marguerites.

The lawn party to be given this evening by Mrs. J. J. Thomas at her home on Eleventh East in honor of her niece, Miss Edna Davis, of Oakland, Cal., will be another affair. Shasta daisies and sweet peas will be the principal inside decorations while the lawn will be gay with flags and booths made brilliant by colored electric lights. Mrs. Thomas will be assisted by Mrs. Byron Cummings, Mrs. R. G. McNeese, and Mrs. Lillian Duncan.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church give a lawn party this evening at the home of Hoyt Sherman, corner of First and G streets.

Miss Alice Mackay and Miss Genevieve Horn entertained for Miss Isabel Murphy Monday evening. Games and refreshments enlivened the evening.

Word comes from Los Angeles that Mr. John O'Brien, formerly one of Salt Lake's popular society belles, will accompany her mother, Mrs. Emma Shoenberger, home to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Russell returned yesterday from their wedding trip to the coast. San Francisco, Catalina Island and Los Angeles were among the points visited.

Another pleasant affair in honor of Mrs. Bert Hoffman was given at her brother, Mr. R. Dumbuck, was given by Mrs. Will Gray at her home on Eighth avenue, yesterday. Mrs. Hoffman will leave for the east in about 10 days.

Dr. D. Moore Lindsay left yesterday for London.

Miss Sylvia Cohn gave an informal luncheon yesterday in honor of her friend, Miss Strong of Iowa.

Mrs. M. Jones entertained the 500 club at her home on Sixth avenue Tuesday afternoon.

An informal musicale was given last evening for Dr. and Mrs. Rykert of Paris, by Mr. and Mrs. Sol Siegel.

Mrs. Selon Spiro leaves for the east next Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleher Harris will be among this week's arrivals in Brighton.

Miss Minnie Ray, one of Salt Lake's popular young school teachers, left Saturday for Los Angeles, for the Educational association and a visit along the coast.

Mr. Charles Wilkes formerly of Salt Lake, now of Goldfield, is in the city on a brief visit.
