

IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN

I clasped her to my bosom and said she was divine. And asked her with beseeching voice to be my valentine. But she drew away with dignity and haughtily said, "Sir, There are different kinds of valentines, to which do you refer?"

The week has witnessed almost a continuous round of brilliant events, beginning with the ball given by the Women's Republican club on Monday night and including the old-fashioned supper given by Mrs. McCune, the Co-operative Wagon and Machine company's ball, the Opal club's entertainment last night, the ball given by the

TUCKS MORE FASHIONABLE THAN EVER.

This shirt waist is made of white lawn and is entirely tucked back, front, and sleeves. The high linen collar rises to a point beneath the ears. A ribbon or fancy stock however will be worn with these lawn waists this summer almost to the exclusion of the severe linen collar.

Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, on Tuesday and a number of private home events which have combined to make the record a notable one.

On Monday night Lincoln's birthday anniversary was honored by the Woman's Republican club in a grand ball given at Christensen's, the event being most elaborate and brilliant in all details. The music by Christensen's orchestra was superb, the refreshments delicious, and the attention of the reception and floor committees all that could be desired to further the pleasure of the guests. The large hall was brilliantly decorated with the national colors and was filled to its capacity during the evening, the opening march being led by Mayor and Mrs. Thompson. Among the many others present were Gov. H. M. Wells—who was honored by a special reception—the band playing "America" at his entrance—Messrs. and Madames W. H. Jones, Arthur Brown, Price, Frank Hines, Cornforth, Ralph Guthrie, James Chipman, W. F. Hills, John Busby, H. F. Evans, Rathburn, Joseph Smith, A. R. Watson, E. D. Miller, E. E. Darling, R. B. Whittemore, J. Heiss, Madames Goetschins, Carmen, S. Brown, R. S. Miller, Wellington, Rudy, Kingsbury, Crockwell, Winter, R. S. Hill, Walters, Stanford, Madames Bessie Clawson, Ruth Winter, L. Loebtrow, Naylor, Keller, Merriman, Walcott Thompson, Will Thompson, Davis, Kessler, Stanley Price, C. E. Steward, Dr. Hurd, E. A. Folland, Albert Reiser, A. E. Snow, Sheriff Ward of Evanston and others.

One of the most notable events of the week, and indeed of the season, was the old-fashioned ball given at the McCune residence on Tuesday night. The costumes of the belles of forty years ago held sway with high dressing of the mode of the same period—corsetted curls with high back combs and natty bows, with hoops, low necked and short waisted basques and other ancient details of apparel going to create the appropriate effect of a scene of nearly a half century ago. The supper was completely in harmony with the idea—an old-fashioned menu of the "home-made" flavor being served with appropriate table settings of tin spoons, bone and steel cutlery and tallow candles with bottles for candlesticks. After the feast a number of the guests contributed some side splitting stories of funny individual experiences. R. S. Young leading and Gov. Wells, Bishop Whitney, Mrs. Whitney, John D. Spencer, Mrs. B. S. Young, Mrs. Wood, W. B. Douglass, and others following with equally amusing reminiscences.

The following were among those who wore the most notably striking costumes: Mrs. A. W. McCune, who wore a brilliant flowered calico gown over a wigand design, including curls, braids, puffs and a big "tucking comb" of the latest style. Mrs. B. S. Young, Mrs. Phoebe Beattie, Mrs. John Groesbeck Jr., Mrs. O. F. Whitney, Mrs. C. S. Burton, Mrs. George H. Wood, Miss Mary Young, Mrs. A. W. McCune Jr., Mrs.

Vivian McCune, Miss Fay McCune, Mrs. J. D. Spencer.

Notwithstanding that the costumes were of calico and of uniform style and date, there was a variety which made the affair most interesting and enjoyable.

The guests were: Governor Wells, Mrs. William Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Groesbeck, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pyper, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wells, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Empey, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Groesbeck Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCune, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McCune Jr., Miss Florence Groesbeck, Miss Catherine Douglass, Miss Mary Young, Mr. Raymond C. Naylor, Mr. Brigham T. Cannon, Mr. Elliott Kimball, Miss Stella Neff, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Smith, Miss Ida Felt, Miss Annie Felt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felt, Mr. and Mrs. Bull.

Mrs. M. K. Harkness, Miss Brown, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Clawson, Mrs. Margaret, Mrs. Parish, Miss Alice Neham.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hewlett, of the Third ward, gave a progressive high five party on Valentine's night; the prize, a handsome valentine, was won by Mrs. Jas. Perry. The following persons were present: Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Foote, Mr. and Mrs. A. Shank, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brame, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. James Perry, Mrs. M. Irvine, Mrs. Isabel Ure, and Mrs. R. Michelson. On the following evening about thirty-five of the young people of the ward completely surprised the genial host and hostess and taking possession from cellar to garret, and enjoyed themselves with selections on the phonograph, billiards, games, etc. Those present were: Misses Hattie McKellar, Pheme and Bertha Irvine, Vilette Eardley, Agnes and Maggie Coalter, Amy Ball, Eliza Perry, Mabel and Florence Bolto, Jennie Smith, Gene and Ruby Irvine, Rebecca Evans, Nora and Elnora Michelson, Agnes and Elizabeth Gibson, Mrs. Foote and Mrs. Isabel Ure, and Messrs. Scott Weller, Jas. Ball, Mr. Foote, Wm. Pugh, J. J. Smith and Will Evans.

Mrs. Robert H. Officer was the hostess at a delightful Kensington on Wednesday, the event being in honor of Miss Creary. The valentine idea prevailed in the decorations, red and white hearts with carnations, maiden-hair fern and smilax being used with artistic effect. A feature of the afternoon was a guessing contest, in which Mrs. Robert J. Glendinning won the prize. Besides Miss Creary the guests were: Madames J. H. Johnson, J. T. White, Charles H. Post, A. V. Officer, Charles Read, McViehe, George Dorn, J. L. Franklyn, R. J. Glendinning, J. T. Richards, William Bennett, and Misses Katz, Forbes, McMillan, Terhune, Vane, Paul, Bird, Boehmer, Street, Officer.

On Tuesday night, Christensen's hall was the scene of one of the biggest balls of the season, the occasion being the eleventh annual anniversary social of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. The hall was decorated with railroad emblems, a signal light being placed at the entrance with the message "Stop," and the white turned into the hall designating the way to go. The chandeliers were attached railroad lanterns and a big locomotive was set up on the platform brilliant with head and signal lights, while other emblems of the order with flags and palms helped to make an impressive scene. From 9 until after midnight a throng of happy dancers filled the floor, its space hardly accommodating the number of guests. Delicious refreshments were served, the music was of the best and the event in every way a most brilliant success.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Newman were pleasantly surprised by the arrival of the latter in the city during the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Newman were formerly residents of Salt Lake, Mr. Newman having had charge of the local branch of the New York Life Insurance Co. for several years. Some time ago Mr. Newman was called to take charge of the Denver branch of the big company and since then Mr. and Mrs. Newman have made Denver their home. Both have a host of friends in Salt Lake, who will be glad to welcome them, though their visit unfortunately is of short duration, as they will leave Salt Lake tomorrow night.

On Wednesday evening the regular reception to the parishioners of St. Paul's church was given at the rectory by the Reverend Bishop and Scott, a large number being present. The evening was passed in an informally pleasant way, a musical program being one of the features of the evening. Those who took part were Mrs. D. Meakin, Agnes and Rev. David Scott. Assisting in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. George M. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Druell, Mrs. Beless and Mrs. Edmonds. A pleasant evening was enjoyed. Mr. Meakin entertained the assembly with a number of choice musical selections and recitations.

Misses Ruby and Ivy Young gave a pleasant social party on Wednesday evening at their home in Forest Dale. Dancing, games and social chat were the features of the evening, which was most enjoyably spent. Delicious refreshments were served. Those present were: Misses May, Lucille, Maggie Summehays, Cora and Eva Snow, Myrtle Lyons, Pearl Pierce, Caroline Blesinger, Dora Emery, Nellie and Sylvia Poulton, Hazel Love, Messrs. Wm. Sellers, John Horn, Frank Rigby, Frank Smith, Carl Cannon, James Fowler, John Lyman, Ben E. Harker, Percy Patterson, George Blesinger, Roy Free, John Young, and Wood Pratt.
