

Show Attracts Many Visitors to See Feathery Friends of Man.

BIRDS ARE SCORING HIGH.

Lively Contests Between Breeders-Many Awards are Being Made Now by the Judges.

The poultry show is attracting a great amount of attention and the attendance is larger than at any time in the history of the association. Today was ladies' day, and a great number of them were at the show admiring the feathered beauties that are on exhibition.

The contests between breeders is very spirited, the score cards showing the highest average in any show ever held by the poultry men, the final reckoning up of scores being in all instances very close, J. T. Almy losing one prize by 1-16 of one point. One hundred points is the highest pozsible scoring and in order to win a prize a bird has to score away up above 90

The following are the prizes awarded to far, in addition to those already pub.
