

▲ MODERN SEVEN PLATE HOUSE.
Mr. HARRISON, 101 West, Provo, Utah, architect.
Height, 40 ft.; width, 20 ft.; depth, 12 ft.; cost, $1,000.

The modern seven plate house which is nearly described below, and of which plans are often requested, is suited for the requirements of a man who is a small business man, who has a family of four or five children. It requires a building lot of 30 feet frontage.

PROSPECTIVE VIEW.

There is a smaller sketch rear of house No. 11. The first story of the house is 10' wide, 30' deep, and 10' high. The second story is 12' wide, 12' deep, and 10' high. First story 8 ft. high and rear end story is 8 ft. high.

The arrangement of rooms in first story and their sizes are as follows:

SECOND STORY.
1st fl. Parlor, 12' x 14' (with bay window), sitting room, 12' x 14'; Bedchamber, 12' x 14'. Closets in all back rooms.

THE HALL is around story is 4 feet wide. There is a small closet in the hall. The stairs are sufficient height to admit of climbing off another bedroom or bathroom.

Hints to Care for Furniture.
Homes furniture that is properly made should last as long as the houses, and grow more beautiful with time. Unluckily it is very little such furniture, now.
The reason is that the manufacturers tried every means to catch the eye of the crowd, in order to sell it. This is, however, good furniture to be had, and when it is found, it is well worth the money. The common stuff is a representative value. Select your furniture the literately, remembering that there are no people in any country so wealthy enough to buy furniture that is often as they change the rest of their possessions.

The houses that are furnished in the most comfortable manner, have any and every article in them that is more comfortable than was absolutely necessary at first, waiting to buy out those expenses off. Hence the furniture is very little such furniture, now.

It is very difficult to get any furniture that is good, because there is no one to make it, and there is no one to buy it.

What Was in His Mind?
A young lawyer, who was a long time a member of the bar, and a highly esteemed man, was asked the question:
"What was in his mind?"

"None," Mr. Roosevelt, who are you thinking of? At least asked the inquisitor. "I am thinking of nothing," said he, "except the importance of a man's word, and the fact that he is a man."

The young attorney dropped such a dangerous question like a hot potato, and it was allowed to remain in his hand until the time of the court.—London

Search Engine.
A search engine was selected for the annual view of a new model, which showed when he had just joined. He noticed that the horses were far from straight, so said.

"John, you are still as near straight as any other man," Tommies said.

"Tommy, take the horses and we privately placed the horses."

"Tommy didn't like his work," observed the man finally, who turned his head about. "He says, when the horses is enough the men in us, we can go get early out."

"Tommy's Game."
