

CASE OF DURAND, MURRAY JUSTICE

Hearing Commenced Yesterday
On Charge of Threatening
To do Murder.

SAID HE WOULD KILL EDITOR.

The Bluff Was Called and Now He Is
On His Defense—Lawyers
Submit Briefs.

The case of Charles F. Durand, justice of the peace of Murray, who was arrested Aug. 27 on a charge of threatening to commit murder, came up for hearing before Justice Holm yesterday. The complaining witness was J. S. Murray, editor of the Murray Eagle. Durand, who is alleged to have threatened to take the editor's life.

The trouble grew out of certain articles published in Mr. Barlow's paper relative to the editor's, or alleged misadventures, of Durand in his official capacity. The editor made war upon the justice, charging him with being a tool of Francis G. Lake of Merchants' Protective association fame.

CURSED AND THREATENED.
Durand became so incensed at the accusations against him on the night of Aug. 27, and is alleged, cursed the editor publicly, and made a threat as follows: "I will know the top of your head off if you use my name again, so help me God."

During that Durand would carry his threat into execution, Mr. Barlow telephoned to the sheriff's office and had him take justice placed under arrest.

At the trial yesterday, Mr. Barlow testified that Durand made the threat to his life, and his testimony was corroborated by J. P. Cahoon, V. Shurtz and others.

Durand was represented by Atty. A. C. Hoppaugh, and the defense contended that the threat was made conditionally, and that his client had the right to make the threat. As an illustration he said:

"If I threaten to burn B's house, B has a right to threaten to shoot A. The instant he puts his foot on B's ground with a match on his person."

FIVE DAYS GRANTED.
Justice Holm granted five days to the attorneys in which to submit written briefs, when a decision will be forthcoming.

CARL REDMAN DISCHARGED.
Automobilist Held Not Responsible for Death of Daniel Woods.

Carl Redman, former bicycle rider, and now automobilist, who was in charge of the machine which killed Daniel Woods in an accident a few days ago, is held not responsible for the sad occurrence.

After the accident Redman was taken before Judge Diehl and placed under bonds on the charge of involuntary manslaughter. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death by an accident, and Redman was completely exonerated.

This morning when the case was called before Judge C. B. Diehl, Assistant County Atty. Lyon moved that the complaint be dismissed. The order was made and Mr. Redman discharged.

COURT NOTES.
Judge M. L. Ritchie will go to Tooe county on Monday to hold court on that day.

Judge Armstrong will make a setting for trial in his court during the regular September term.

At the regular weekly divorce call yesterday afternoon Judge Morse granted decrees of divorce in favor of plaintiff in each of the following cases: Mary O. Donahue against John T. Donahue; cruelly, Otha Talbot against John T. Talbot; infidelity. Emma Myer against Henry Myer; failure to support.

Susan D. Williams, the bicycle rider, was again cited before Judge Morse yesterday afternoon for failing to pay his divorced wife, Grace Williams, money as ordered by the court. The matter was continued for one week.

At the hearing yesterday afternoon, Mr. Williams, who is an elderly man, said his wife and has been living with a young woman known as Mrs. William Hansen, to whom he has deeded his property. The court also ordered decrees to pay his wife $200 as alimony and his attorney's fees. Rasmussen was present in court, but owing to the absence of his attorney from the city given 10 days in which to file a motion for a new trial which he will probably do.

An action has been filed in the district court by H. C. Chapman, C. C. Palmer and E. E. Toyt, in which they the Giles-American Mercantile agency, who stockholders that they are the minority stockholders in the agency, are suing its manager, W. Benjamin Palmer, for turning its affairs in an extravagant manner and it is now indebted to various persons in the total sum of $2,000, while its assets are only $2,750, and it is alleged to be in an insolvent condition. They further allege that Palmer owns the majority of the stock and cannot be ousted by the other stockholders and he refuses to resign. Judge Morse issued an order in the case citing the defendant to show cause on Sept. 22 why a receiver should not be appointed.

CAN DRINK TROUBLE

That's One Way to Get It.

Although they won't admit it many people who suffer from sick headaches and other ailments get them straight from the coffee they drink and it is easily proved if they're not afraid to leave it to a test as in the case of a lady in Connelleville.

"I had been a sufferer from sick headaches for twenty-five years and anyone who has ever had a bad sick headache knows what I suffered. Sometimes three days in the week I would have to remain in bed, at other times I couldn't lie down the pain would be so great. My life was a torture and if I went away from home for a day I always came back more dead than alive."

"One day I was telling a woman my troubles and she told me she knew that it was probably coffee caused it. She said she had been cured by stopping coffee and using Postum Food Coffee and urged me to try this food drink."

"That's how I came to send out and get some Postum and from that time I've never been without it for it suits my taste and I have been entirely cured of all my old troubles. All I did was to leave off the coffee and tea and drink well made Postum in its place. This change has done me more good than anything else put together."

"Our house was like a drug store for my husband, he was doing very thing he heard of to help me without doing any good but when I began on the Postum my headaches ceased and the other troubles quickly disappeared. I have a friend who had an experience just like mine and quitting coffee and using Postum cured her just as it did me."

"The headaches left and my general health has been improved and I am much stronger than before. I now enjoy delicious Postum more than I ever did coffee." Stated even by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
"There's a reason," and it's worth finding out.

A Famine in Ministers.

Many Boston Churches Without Pastors—Few Men Attend Services.

BOSTON—home of the Puritans, birthplace of more creeds and isms than any other city in America—faces a famine of ministers, says the Post of that city. Ten important churches in the greater city are seeking vainly for suitable men, willing to accept the remunerative positions of pastors. As ministerial salaries go, these churches pay well—from $2,500 to $4,000 yearly. Yet the pillars of the churches have gone out into the highways and byways for a minister without success.

Some of these pulpits have been without a regular occupant for years, and the welfare of the churches is suffering. Ministers of repute are continually leaving Boston for other fields, often in smaller cities. The Rev. A. C. Dixon is the latest to announce his intention of abandoning the Hub.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Dixon states that "he leaves Boston only under a compelling sense of duty and with the conviction that his new pastorate will be a wider field of opportunity."

None the less, church people in Boston ask why this "compelling sense of duty" when the field for opportunity at the Huggles street church, with its congregation of 1,82 members, seems equal with that of any church anywhere.

Only recently another well known and able preacher, Dr. Edward P. Drew, resigned from the Immanuel Congregational church in Roxbury, with its congregation of 533, to take charge of the First church of Worcester. Immanuel church is still waiting for a new pastor.

In Charlestown, the Winthrop Congregational church has been without a regular preacher for some months, its pulpit having been left vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Leon F. Loubourow, who is now preaching in the west, where, as one churchman puts it, "he has a better situation."

Only a few years ago such a reason would have sounded absurd to Bostonians. Boston pulpits were then the most desired of any in the country. For a minister to have successfully filled a Hub position and to have won the admiration of a critical Boston congregation was the height of theological success.

The Clarendon Street church, with its congregation of 226, is another of the large local churches (one of the so-called old family churches) that is still looking for a new pastor.

For a year the pulpit of the Chestnut Hill Episcopal church has been unsupplied with a regular pastor, the Rev. J. T. McGrath now temporarily filling the position left vacant by the departure of Dr. D. C. Garrett to St. Louis.

A devoted layman in the Episcopal church recently remarked apropos of his departure for the summer season to the west: "I shall be glad to get away from here where there are men in the church audience."

And continuing, he declared that in his opinion that was the reason why so many of the eastern preachers willingly accepted western positions: "Because, with all due respect to the women there is always a strong contingent of men in the church congregations."

A Hub Episcopal divine observed last week: "There is no greater missionary ground than right here in Boston. It is the most difficult church territory in the world. That may sound exaggerated, but it is not. The men will go down into their pockets for the church; they will applaud any approved church movement; they will interest themselves in a churchman's object for promoting religious work, but they will not come to the churchmen today in Newton Highlands, the church officials received no less than 75 applications for the position from different rectors throughout the country. As one churchman declared, preachers come to Boston eagerly, but they do not seem to remain."

over street still seeks for a minister to carry on the work there.

At the Hill Memorial church in Allston the little congregation there is also in search of a leader.

Of these numerous unsupplied vacancies a Boston pastor, who preaches to one of the large audiences of the city, says:

"Preachers leave Boston for a wider field of opportunity. Every pastor wishes a large congregation. He is glad to win that congregation upon his merits as a preacher, but the ambitious man always wishes the wide field, where the upbuilding of such a congregation is possible. The aim of the preacher is to do the greatest good, and to attain that end the possibilities must be unrestricted."

"The missionary field is small in Boston. There is no lack of churches. The scope of opportunity for building up a popular and great church has diminished."
