Thomas Jenkins, Supposed to be Demented, Tragically Ends His Life in Jail.

Death of Mrs. Alma Anderson - Are rest of a Vicious Character-Peace Disturbers in Limbo.

Last evening a man named Thomas Jenkins was arrested by Chief Conlish and placed in one of the upper cells in the city fail. He seemed to be somewhat demented, and the chief thought the best place for him was in the jail. he was searched before being placed in the cell and it was thought had nothing on his person with which he could harm himself, but at about 7:45 p. m. moise was heard in the cell and the matter. The man was found lying on the floor in a pool of blood. Efforts were made to bring him too, but he had lost too much blood, and died shortly afterwards. It was found that he had cut his throat with a piece of glass, cutting through the jugular vein.

Jenkins was a transcient, but had been in the city several times before.
Little is known as to who he is, or where his home is. As to what disposition will be made of his body is not

> Special Correspondence. Sterling, Canada, Sept. 13.—The good cople have been all anticipation here or some days and patriotic songs have een rehearsed in preparation for a visit omorrow morning of the governor gen-ral of Canada. Presidents Cannon and Smith arrived here in the night and will meet the governor general and then proceed on up the country to Cardston, where conference is to be held.

> A meeting was held here today, the speakers were Prest, Joseph F. Smith, Prest, Geo. Q. Cannon and Hyrum Smith, a son of President Smith. Valuable interests. nable instruction was given the people, who were encouraged in their efforts to make homes here. Sterling has grown in the past year. A comfortable, near and well seated meet-ing house has been erected, one that would do credit to a much older and richer community. New houses are go-ing up, fences are being erected. Stacks of hay and some grain are in evidence everywhere, while splendid garden vegetables flourish on all sides, which have been grown and mutured without have been grown and matured without water. No frost has as yet touched the tender vines. Here, as elsewhere, this has been an extra dry season, so the grass is not so plentiful as usual, yet there is enough to make a visiting stock man from Wyoming smile and say, "How may cows would like to be in that."

Grading is being pushed on the railroad from here to the northwest. It will be completed to Spring Coolee this fall, that is about fifteen miles from Cardston. The people of Sterling have a contract for grading for the first division. All the grading is expected to be done in thirty days. Thirty miles of road will be built this year. ond will be built this year. Everybody seems happy and hopeful, and prospects are bright for the future,

Sept. 14th. The pleasant weather that has prevailed for so long broke last hight, and a storm of rain and wind of unusual severity has prevailed since, This has put a damper on the day's ex-ercises, for which the people had been preparing. The display in the meeting house, however, of vegetables produced here on the fresh broken sod ground, without water, was an excellent showcarrots, cabbages, squash, cucumbers, pumpkins, meions, besides wheat, oats and corn, indicate the great possibilities of the soil and climate under more favorable conditions. Herds of cattle were driven through the town by the storm today. All were fat and sleek from the abundant grass on the range. At 11 a. m., his excellency the gov-ernor general of Canada and party arved and were driven to the meeting house, where a short program was ren-dered, a speech of welcome was given by Bishop Brandly, to which the gover-nor general responded, "O my Father." was rendered as a colo by one of the sisters, and nine little girls sang the national anthem. The party, which consisted of Lord and Lady Minto and their two daughters, Captain Graham, Mr. Sladen, Mr. and Mrs. Galt Mr. Ma-grath, T. E. Brady, T. E. Collins, Police Commissioner Perry, Capt. Dean of the mounted police, Mr. Healy of the Free Press, Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Anderson, then storted through the driving storm for Magrath. Most of the party were on horseback, the rest in open vehicles provided by the police depart-ment, His lordship remarked that when he made an appointment he tried to keep it. This ride over the prairie of twenty miles was quite an raging, yet even the ladles of the party stood it heroically without a complaint. The people of Magrath were taken by surprise, as they had not expected the party in such a storm. At Boston the Quakers Went to Pieces in the Second Inning and Made Four Errors.

Through Brooklyn losing to New York and Pittsburg winning from St. Louis the two leading teams are nearer to a tie for the leadership than ever before. Philadelphia's chances for second were greatly lessened through their noor work at Boston. They went to pleces in the second inning and made four expensive errors, netting Boston three runs. The Phillies could do nothing after that and the game went to Boston. The Pirates had an easy time with the team from the cyclone city and won easily with a score of 10 to 4. It required ten innings to settle the dispute between the giants and leaders with the former finally victorious. At the end of the game New York had only three runs to beat Brooklyn's two. M'GINNITY'S ENDURANCE.

The "Iron M" is Making for Himself a Wonderful Record. Baseball men all through the country watching with interest the career of Pitcher McGinnity of the Brooklyn ance not equalled by any pitcher since the days of old Jim McCornick, with the Cieveland club. And even McCor-mick did not do the work that the "iron man" is doing this season. In the days of McCormick the clubs did not play every day, as they do now, It was three and some four games a week. The game hadn't got down on the fine busi-ness basis it is now on. The writer remembers how in the early eighties the players did not play over three games a week and loafed the balance of the time, for they were not required to report at the grounds every day, as they are now forced to do. But McGinnity is pitching too much and old timers like Tom Daly and the rest fear for the young twirler for next season.

It is claimed by these players that the business on his pitchers. He does not allow them to spare their arms in any way, but requests them to go in and do their craftlest work all the time, no matter whether it shortens their pitching days or not. It is claimed that among other complaints that Hughes and Corbett had for demanding high salaries from the Brooklyn club, and then leaving because their demands were not acceeded to, was that they were being exhausted by the methods of Hanlon and that, realizing this, they wanted to get as much money out baseball as possible before they to their power by the quick methods. Hanlon. It is noticeable that Hanlo has not one pitcher with his team this season who was with him during all of last season that he managed the Baltimore team. Kitson alone having served with him, and he only joining the Orioles the latter part of the season of 1898. Kitson, by the way, has he is under the same strain that has seen placed on McGinnity. The minor leagues are full of ex-Baltimore and ex-Brooklyn pitchers, and, according to the observations of the players, more will be added after this season.
