

WHITE WINGS.

D. M. Cummings, circuit clerk of Fulton County, is a philosopher. In addition to this he has a soul attuned to music and a heart that beats for others woes. Not satisfied with leading the village choir and being Fulton County's boss politician, he raises blooded stock, such as Berkshire pigs, tail-pigons, Italian bees, Sprague colts and Spanish jack-rabbits. In this complex existence, agricultural, domestic, political, esthetic, Cummings passed away his life as dreamy as that of the reformed Turk in "Fatimiza." In addition to his other duties, Cummings is a Knight of Pythias, and at the recent excursion to Cincinnati, he was a delegate and he took a whole carpet sack of grips, nods and winks along with him. When the Peoria band was serenading some of the dignitaries Lem Wiley played "White Wings," and this so enraptured the musical side of Cummings' soul that he publicly declared that when he returned home he would send Wiley a 3-year old thoroughbred colt. He reiterated his intention so often that the whole delegation finally took it up, accepted the gift and solemnly named the babe "White Wings K. of P." On reaching home Wiley received a letter from Cummings, saying that the equine infant was in a healthy state and that in due time it would be forwarded to him here. Yesterday afternoon Wiley received a dispatch saying that the colt was on the P. & W. train coming to Peoria, and that it would be in at four o'clock. Wiley at once got the band, collected a delegation of Knights of Pythias and marched down to the depot. The train was late and the appearance of the band attracted great attention, so that by the time the cars rolled into the depot quite a crowd had collected. A rush was made to the express car, and out came the regular "ostler" dragging by the halter a donkey. It was a diminutive, somewhat brutish with a look of hopeless woe on its face. The crowd roared and the band struck up "White Wings." A blanket had been prepared and the mascot of the baseball club had been hired to convey the beast up town. He now advanced and wrapped the animal up in its envelope. As soon as "White Wings" heard the notes of the band its expression of misery deepened, it folded its ears over its back with a settled and determined top and then began to sing. High above the flare of the bugle and the thump of the drum could be heard the protest of "White Wings" herself in that "Hee, Haw, Haw, Hoo, Hee, Hee, Hee" ending in a diminuendo. The mascot tugged away at the rope halter and the band moved off. The Knights of Pythias are angry. They say that they did not ask for the gift, and to impose a thing upon them that they did not wish is to make an ass of the order. However, the donkey now reposes in a livery stable quietly munches on thistle and reflects upon the mutability of human affairs.

THE GUM HABIT.

Some months ago a "scientist" discovered that it is healthy to chew gum. These discoveries are made from time to time with alarming frequency. It was only a few years ago that one of these geniuses discovered that fish being composed largely of phosphorus constitute the best brain food. Consequently everybody began to eat fish. Inasmuch as the results were not noticeable in any great quickening of the intellect, another "scientist" investigated the subject and discovered that fish are not brain food at all. So to the matter of gum. The first authority declared that the motion of the jaws set at liberty the saliva, stimulated the secretions and aided digestion. It was the most unfortunate thing for the comfort of the general public that has ever been broached. Straightway everybody began to chew gum, and there was a general and universal wagging of jaws that was highly ludicrous to say the least. The custom has crept up from the school girl, who by long custom is supposed to alight slate pencil and chalk, up to the society belle who now rolls her wad of gum from side to side as she chews under the pleasing idea that she is thereby assisting her digestion and restoring her general health. Now, however, comes a Pittsburg scientist and knocks over this delusion, and shows that it is all fad and that there is nothing in it. On the contrary, he says gum chewing has a harmful effect upon the eyes, and when carried to excess is apt to cause blindness. The constant motion of the jaws affects the nerves that lead from the spine to the optic nerves and strains the latter until they give out. Thank fortune for this Pittsburg specialist. He deserves to have a flag. His discovery will only stop this everlasting gum business we shall be in favor of having him voted a pension on the ground that he is a benefactor to his species. It only shows that it is dangerous to accept too readily the scraps of science that go floating about on the popular tide. What is accepted as a fact today is likely to be kicked over tomorrow.—Peoria Journal.

Mistress—Why, Bridget, what on earth are you doing with two keys in your room door?
Biddy O'Galway—Two keys is it nany? The one beyant is for barrin' the door when I'm out, an' the one forrest is for barrin' the door when I'm in. How can you bar the two sides av a doore wid one key?

Baroness Burdett-Coutts and the Cat.

An amusing incident took place during the distribution of prizes at a meeting held by the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in St. James' Hall, London. We presume from the report that the incident was not an elaborately rehearsed effect, but genuinely a happy incident. After the certificates had been distributed, suddenly there made its appearance upon the platform—a cat! Disconcerted somewhat by the laughter which its advent caused, poor puss looked about for some sheltering retreat, and finally settled herself, apparently with much composure and sad faction, in the lap of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts. Cats, no doubt, have more sense than we superior human beings ordinarily credit them with, and this cat certainly showed an excellent discernment in intrusting herself to the protection of so gracious and tender-hearted a lady. By and by the Baroness rose to speak, and in her arms demurely reposed puss. Amid vociferous applause, she made some admirable remarks, assuring the audience, among other things, how deep an interest her majesty always took in the work of their society, and especially how she had written some time ago to express her particular anxiety as to the well-being of our cats, whom she had unfortunately had good reason for believing were much persecuted race, and to ask whether something could not definitely be done for their better protection. "And here," added the Baroness, with an admirably appropriate turn, "here is puss herself before you to plead her own cause."—Churchman.

HARD AND SOFT WATER.—All cooks do not understand the different effects produced by hard and soft water in cooking meats and vegetables. Peas and beans cooked in hard water, containing lime or gypsum, will not boil tender, because these substances harden vegetable casine. Many vegetables, as onions, boil nearly tasteless in soft water, because all the flavor is boiled out. The addition of salt often checks this, as in the case of onions, causing the vegetables to retain the peculiar flavoring principles, besides such nutritious matter as might be lost in soft water. For extracting the juice of meat to make broth or soup, soft water, unsalted and cold at first, is the best, for it much more readily penetrates the tissue; but for boiling where the juices should be retained, hard water or soft water salted is preferable and the meat should be put in while the water is boiling, so as to seal up the pores at once.—Journal of Chemistry.

Strength for today is all that we need, As there never will be a tomorrow; For tomorrow will prove but another today, With its measure of joy and of sorrow.

First reporter—Anything new?
Second reporter—Big sensation on the frightful spread of the gum chewing habit among young ladies.

First reporter—Horrible habit. Got any chewing tobacco?
Second reporter—Not a bit; was just going to ask you for some.

"Be my wife," he implored, "be my wife, my adored one. See! I have had my life insured for $10,000 in your favor," and he flourished the policy in the air. She pondered a moment, then raising her large and lustrous orbs to his, she said: "Before I give you my answer, I would like to know the state of your health."

Bobby (looking out of the window)—"What's the matter with that horse, mamma?"

Mother—The horse is balky, Bobby; he won't obey his driver.

Bobby—Well, what's the man patting him for?

Mother—He is coaxing him.

Bobby (with an injured air)—That ain't the way you treat me when I'm balky.

"I find, madam," said a young physician, "that your husband is suffering from overwork."

"And will he have to give up his place under the government?" she asked anxiously.

"What's that? Is he a government official?"

"Yes, sir?"

"H—m. I'll diagnose his case again. He probably needs exercise."

Aunt Dinah (reading the paper)—I see, Rastus by de papah, dat poultry am quoted as wery quiet.

Uncle Rastus—Well, I'se glad ob dat, an' I reckon I'd better negotiate fo' some dis ebenin'. Dat chicken we had las' Sunday, ole ooman, made noise 'nough ter raise de hull neighborhood.

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one third in size. Condition hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and today, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

A SURE CURE FOR THE PILES.

—You need not suffer from this most distressing disease again in all your life. Emall's Balm acts as a poultice and lubricant, absorbs the tumors and allays the intense itching at once. No caustic, no acid, no pain. A. McCubbons Esq., 19 Poplar street, Allegheny, Pa., writes: "I had itching and bleeding piles so bad I could not sit, stand or walk without intense sufferings. I doctored with many physicians, and tried all the (so called) cures that I ever heard of, in vain (paying out hundreds of dollars), until I used Emall's Balm, or Ointment. After the first application I enjoyed the best night's sleep I had for ten years, and two boxes have cured me completely." Wherever introduced Dr. Emall's Balm takes the lead, and has the largest sale of any Pile remedy in the world. Sold by druggists everywhere or sent by mail, 50 cent boxes. Address Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, Salt Lake City. d&w (2)
