found many of the railroads borrowing money for present necessities, and con-strained to retrenchment, both in cur-rent expenses and in their projects for rent expenses and in their projects for the immediate future. Many plans for improvement and extensions proposed by some of the great railroad systems consequently were suspended, and still are held in abeyance. From efficial reports received by the Railway Age, it appears that 1,937 miles of track was completed during the first six months of the year on 134 lines, in 33 states and territories. In the first six months of last year 2,221 miles of track were laid, while for the entire year of 1903 it amounted to 5,786 n.dles.

For a small railroad it is equipped in first class shape. For instance, the general offices at Weiser are after the pattern of those of a trans-continental system. Within the large red frame building are situated hallways flanked by offices bearing on the doors signs that tell of the bedrouverous of the that tell of the headquarters of the general manager, auditor, engineer, freight agent and other officials-in fact there are about two offices for every man employed on the road. The first executive act of Mr. Heigho there are about two offices for every man employed on the road. The first executive act of Mr. Heigho upon taking the reins was to get out his axe and lop off a number of sine-cures. He then closed up all these exquisite loafing rooms and corralled the entire force in one big office where all would be under his eagle eye. The move worked like a charm, to say nothing of curtailing expenses. Since the first step Mr. Heigho has been overhauling every department. To see him last week superintending the straightening of a bent side rod of an eretwhile Union Pacific locimotive would have made his old companions in Mr. Reeve's office here rub their eyes with astonishment. The young Englishman is a man of resource. The early demonstrated this when he first entered the employ of the road as auditor under the then general man-ager, P. P. Shelby. One of the first things he did was to work out a trade mark for the line which now adorns all the stationery and literature of the road. It consists of a black and yellow circle with a golden heart in the center transfixed by a pin. The circle bears the legend "P. & L N. Ry, to the Golden Heart of Idaho." That the "Pin" road taps the golden hear tof Idaho is demonstrated by tak-ing a trip over the line. For 60 miles the track, which is in first class shape, follows the Weiser river, passing en route through lush grass valley in which fat cattle stand knee deep and lazily fight files. Midvale and Cam-bridge are two flourishing towns that are veritable paradises for the fisher-ran and the fellow with a weakness for shooting quali and sage hens. But Council is the gent from the stant-point of the tenderfoot. Here the big packtrains for Rooseveit and Thunder Mountain load up the supplies brought in by train. It is a regular frontier town, where the freighters stroll around in schaps with "ironmongery" strapped to waist. Tak week a company was formed at Weiser for the purpose of putting in an equipment for traction engines to run out of Council to Shelton's, a dis-tance of 38 m tance of 38 miles, in conjunction with the "Pin" road.

the "Pin" road. Just as soon as the necessary money is forthcoding, however, the railroad will extend in the direction of the big tin.ber and the famous Payette lakes. When this is accomplished, Mr. Heigho promises that this picturesque fisher-man s Utopia will be advectived throughout the west. As it is a num-ber of Utahns and Idahoans are mak-ing the trip by stage and incidentally ing the trip by stage and incidentally sleeping under blankets, while others are sweltering in the valleys.

The scenery along the stage route is decidedly fine, and the climax is reached when the lakes come in sight, and the tired traveler is greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McCall, who operate the hotel, over 5,000 feet above the level of Chicago, June 30.-Rallway building in the United States during the first six months of 1904 shows a falling off in comparison with the corresponding periods of 1902 and 1903. Increased op-erating expenses and decreased traffic resulting in smaller net earnings, to-gether with the continued stringency in the money market, supply the explan-ation of the decline in construction. Operating expenses were materially increased during the first quarter by the severity of the winter and spring

General Agent Harding of the Colo rado Midland relates an amusing ex-perience on the occasion of his last trip to Thompson's Springs. While the perience on the occasion of his last trip to Thompson's Springs. While the story is "on himself" he realizes that it is too good to keep. It appears that the loaders got through with their work very late and as Mr. Harding de-sired to eatch an early morning train he lay down on a bench near the de-pot and tried to snatch a little sleep. While nodding a freight came in and presently two of the toughest looking hoboes drifted along. Judging from their conversation they were aggrieved at the action of the train crew. Sud-denly as one caught sight of Mr. Hard-ing lying on the bench he stopped his stream of profanity to remark: "Hello, pard, who in h-- put you off." Needless to say the general agent was not at that time wearing that now famous suit of clothes of his, or he would not have been mistaken for a tramp. Speaking about that suit of clothes, there is method in his madness. In a burst of confidence the genial rail-reader told the "News" the history of that sartorial gem. It appears that Mr. Harding 10 days grow want un to Idaho a burst of commence the genial ran-roader told the "News" the history of that sartorial gem. It appears that Mr. Harding 10 days ago went up to Idaho on his maiden trip. In explaining the situation he said: "Now what a strang-er wants to is is to make an impres-sion. If I went around in quiet rai-ment fellows would shake hands, say howdy, and then fayget all about me. As it is now every man I met in Idaho will always remember me as the fellow with the clothes. They come high, but they are a splendid investment." The truth of this assertion is forthcoming when it is stated that Mr. Harding secured half a dozen carloads of mer-chandise for his road, caught about 300 pounds of fish after working hours and just as soon as he hit Bolse, Weiser, Pocatello and St. Anthony every team in town endeavored to kick loose from harness. For once in his life E. Drake of the Boch United St. harness. For once in his life E. Drake of the Rock Island, known in Idaho Falls as "The Chances is," took a back seat.
