Mr. Fletcher Harper, the only surviving member of the original Harper Brothers, was lying dangerously ill of diphtheria, May 29.

Quincy, Ill., undertakers are running each other and advising their clients to work at "bottom prices" in the papers.

Mrs. Gaskins, of Carteret county, North Carolina, weighs 640 pounds, and one of her stockings can hold a bushel of shelled corn.

Philadelphia gives employment to no less than sixty thousand women—chiefly in exhibiting their spring bonnets on Chestnut Street.

The government admits being a loser by the new law requiring prepayment of postage on newspapers, sent through the mails at the office of publication.

It makes one melancholy to think that there are now in Milan three hundred American girls studying singing, with a view to the operatic stage.

The oral instructions of the deaf and dumb by lip reading and articulate speech is one of the latest and most beautiful of humanitarian achievements.

At this season everybody who has been scratched on the thumb by the tooth of a dog during the past twenty years begins to feel uneasy.

Mr. Leigh Hunt, grandson of the famous author of the same name, committed suicide in London recently by blowing out his brains.

Wife beating has become so common in New Jersey that Justice Hoffman, of Jersey City, advocates the revival of the whipping post from the bench.

The old maids of Athens, Georgia, are on the march. They actually requested the Legislature to make it a penal offense for any widow to marry again.

"It's generous of the case with bad boys," philosophically remarks Miss Anthony, "that they look like their mother and act like their father."

George Cary Eggleston advises men in moderate circumstances to marry rich wives, as the cost of maintaining them usually exceeds the amount they contribute to the general fund.

James Williams, a Bow Street detective, found James O'Sullivan Ward at Wilton, Iowa, and has taken him to England on a charge of the murder of his uncle, Edward Brown, late a rich resident of Hull.

The Portland, Maine, Press has just been sued for libel, $10,000 damages, for asserting that certain members of the United States Senate had been guilty of a "gross and flagrant" crime in the case of a public entertainment at Brookline was interrupted, the other evening, by a man who confronted a couple about to occupy reserved seats and growlingly demanded for a pair of pantaloons which the young man had on his legs.

The most accomplished linguist in the English Parliament is Dr. Kennedy. He can talk a man to death, and give his victim the choice of language. — Worcester Press.

A little child of Mr. Tannis, of Hutchinson, Minn., was missing the other day, and his parents became much alarmed. The neighbors turned out, and a thorough search was instituted. He was finally found at the bottom of a barrel, near the house, fast asleep.

The English seem disposed to look with horror on the custom of cutting up animals for the benefit of science. Efforts have been put forth to enact laws to prevent this cruel sacrifice. No animal must be put under the influence of poisonous drugs, even to find out the exact effect of the same.

The young lady students of the Syracuse Medical College are very careless. Recently three of them purchased the body of an Auburn convict, and, after cutting it up, threw the pieces into a vacant lot, causing intense excitement in the vicinity, the general opinion being that a diabolical murder had been committed.

Everybody seems to have taken a holiday this season and has gone or is going to Europe. Perhaps, however, there are a few hard workers, newspaper men who will not get any farther than the seashore, where they must content themselves with taking off their shoes and stockings and wading in the wet sand while their brains are busy with dreams of Paris, Switzerland and the Rhine. — Ex.

A Washington correspondent writes that "Mrs. Toup's" engaged Ford's Opera House opened on May 10th with "Twixt Axe and Crown," to a light house. It is to be regretted that a repetition of her troubles in Cincinnati should take place here. On Tuesday evening her main support was to use a mild term, severely "indisposed," and the play was a horrible farce. Sympathy for this unfortunate lady alone kept the audience seated.

When Boynton was introduced to the court circle in England, he took to the Princess Beatrice "Miss." After they got through with the Princess, Beatrice would overlook his mistakes in etiquette, because he "wasn't posted up in the business." And the royal people didn't get offended, as they would have done had he switched out of the room in a huff; they only laughed.

Says a Montana paper: "A lie travels on horseback, while truth goes afoot." This has been exemplified. A typographical error in this paper, some four or five weeks since, made the price of hay read $75 instead of $25 per ton, and it has been reproduced from Dan to Bershire, and on several other routes. We have stated several times that Montana is "the best country for doors, and exchanges avoid repeating it as they do religion.

Among the passengers on the train was a lady who carried a large basket. The conductor noticed that the baggage was entirely too cumbersome to be allowed in the car, and politely informed her that she would be obliged to remove it. As she hesitated, he said he would send a man to take the basket to the platform. The lady showed him a picture, the sight of which had a magical effect in producing a change in his feelings. Before him were a pair of twins a few months old, who seemed to be supremely happy in their basket bed. — Harrisburg Patriot.

From home and badly hurt. We went to the place, and found her lying in the sun, upon the ground. The flesh below the knee was torn open nearly to the bone, leaving less than one-third of the skin on the under side of the calf broken. The flesh was badly torn and she was badly bruised. Dr. Coleman was called in. He dressed the wound, and found no bones broken. She seems to be doing as well as could be expected. The wagon wheel running off was the occasion of the accident.
