The quarterly High Priests meeting was held on the Saturday evening and in the Relief Society Hall a meeting of Supt. H. P. Miller and officers of Saboath School interests was well attended. The Y. M. M. I. A. were not overlooked but well represented by Bup. M. H. Beegmiller during conference.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Chicago, 10. — Senators Dawes, Logan and Cameron, of the Senate Committee to consult with the Sloux relative to the proposed opening of the Sioux reservation to set-tlers, have reached this city on their return trip. They say nothing has been definitely settled; that they found certain white men in that section of the country had advised the Indians to hold fast to their reservation, and by doing so they could force the Government to pay them a larger price than now proposed. As a consequence, the chiefs were found very non-committal on all subjects which the Committee was empower-

A Brave Act.

TWO GIRLS IN A BURNING MILL ARE SAVED BY A DARING YOUNG FARMER.

A dispatch from Erie, Pa., states that a tramp, in revenge for being driven away from a mill, near Wesleyville, set fire to the building while the two daughters of the miller were in their play-room in the upper story. Their escape being out off by the firmes, they crawled through a hole in the ro f, but were afraid to jump. The mother shriekafraid to jump. The mother, shrieking that if her darlings could not be saved, she would perish with them, rushed to the blazing building, but strong arms prevented the execution of her fienzled resolution. At this instance a deliverer appeared—a young farmer named Alfred K Bonnell—carrying a coil of rope, to which was fastened a strong iron hook. Heatily strapping climbing irons to his legs, he ascended a tall cak tree near the mill. In a moment he stood on the limb high above the children, who gazed at him with eager eyes. The young man threw the rope so precisely that the hook caught in the smaller girl's dress. Drawing the cord hand over hand, the girl swung clear and was lowered safely into her father's arms. The crowd stood like statues as Bonnell cast his hook a second time to anatch a human life from a death that but a few seconds before appeared inevitable. He succeeded in getting the rope to the other child, who soon hung suspended in the air, her clothing catching fire as she left her clothing catching fire as she left the perilous place. She was saved, however, without being much burned, when the intrepld hero gained the earth he sank down overpowered by intense excitement, and was carried away not a second too soon for the safety of himself and friends The boiler in the burning mill, surgented by a mass of glaring coals. rounded by a mass of glaring coals, exploded, the detonation being heard
