I am happy to state that your treatment was entirely successful in my case. If by publishing this you can influence others suffering with this dreadful disease to try your skill, you are at liberty to do so. Because the physicians who can cure this disease are very scarce, and when one is found skillful enough to succeed, I think the public should know it.

I remain yours,

DERVER, Cor., August 2, 1878. This is to certify that I have been for many years a great sufferer from nassl and bronchlal estarrh, the pain from it in my head and eyes being at times almost unbearable. I have tried many doctors and remedies, with temperary relief from some, growing gradually worse, until last winter, being in a very bad condition, I consulted Dr. Van Hummell and put myself under his treatment. From the first self under his treatment. From the first week my head and throat were reviewed, have not had a headache—they were the bane of my life—since he began with me, and now I remain entirely well.

I write this for the benefit of like sufferers who may be seeking relief and urgently recommend them to give Dr. Van Huminell a trial. The benefit I had from his treatment is invaluable, and I know of many others he has treated equally successfully.

COSSACK CAVALRY.

During the recent coronation fea-tivities in Moscow, the Czar and Czarina were entertained by the Cossack cavalry as follows: The entire regiment went past at full galop in loose order, many of the men standing upright in the saddle, others upon their heads with their legs in the air, many leaping on to the ground and then into the saddle again at full speed, some springing over their horses' heads and picture up at the saddle against full speed, some springing over their horses' heads and olcking up stones from the groun and yet regaining their seats. While performing these feats all were branching their sabres and firing pistols, throwing their carbines into the air and estching them again, and yelling like maniacs. Some mer went past in pairs, atanding with a ieg on each other's horrs—one ill looking fellow carried off another diessed as a woman The effect of the scene was absolutely bewildering, and it seemed as if the whole regiment had gone mad. Upon a signal being given, the regiment divided into two parts. One rode off, the other halted and made their horses i hollered, pretending to be giving orders to the boys hidden behind rocks and treer: 'Boys, bore a hole in this galoot with the light overcoat on if he moves an inch, or any perspiration, producing a relaxed other section of the regiment then perspiration, producing a relaxed other section of the regiment then of the rest of them.'

"Just then a big feller, the second one from the limber I gged chap, had a chill like, and his teeth came covering better calculated to bring yells they rode at their supposed yells they rode at their supposed enemy. When the manceuvres were over, the regiment rode past, singing, and uncommonly well to-gether, a military song."
